WRECK OF LOST AIR LINER AGAIN RUMORED SEEN

Unverified Report Says Plane Is Located in Arizona.

CRAFT IS BELIEVED HIT BY LIGHTNING

Five Passengers, Three of Crew Are Feared Dead in Debris.

U. S. AVIATORS HELP SEARCH VAST AREA

Army and Navy Gives Aid as Indians Tramp Over Plains.

Clovis, N. Mex., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—A report received here in a private message concerning one of the victims of the T. A. T. plane accident said the ship had been located 10 miles from Nonobez, Ariz., which is 556 miles northeast of Phoenix, Ariz., near the New Mexico line. No confirmation was obtainable.

Gallup, N. Mex., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The Transcontinental Air Transport passenger plane City of San Francisco, which flew out of Albuquerque, N. Mex., Tuesday morning with eight persons aboard, still was missing tonight, apparently down in the wild and almost uninhabited section along the New Mexico-Arizona border.

The Army, Navy, T. A. T., and other air lines in the vicinity were combining in the greatest search from the air ever witnessed in the West, but the fate of the plane, its five passengers and three crew members was as much a mystery today as it was Tuesday.

Reports Prove False.

Tracing a report, accepted as true last night by the T. A. T. that the plane had been found and that its eight passengers had been killed, T. A. T. officials today found that a Gallup school bus driver, credited with being the one who started the rumor, had heard the story from an unidentified man in a shoe shining establishment here.

Further reports that the plane had been seen from the air; that the approximate spot of its crash had been located, and a half dozen other rumors, proved erroneous as searchers systematically traced them down.

While searching planes droned overhead, 600 Zuni Indians, crack woodsmen of the Southwest, scoured the rugged country in the vicinity of their reservation at Zuni, N. Mex., near here. Unverified reports said the plane had fallen in that vicinity.

Acquainted with the country as no others could be, the Indians searched throughout the day, but returned to their reservation without having found any trace of the plane.

One confusing angle of the search, which kept authorities from knowing whether they were searching for one plane or two, was cleared up when Earl Gordon and Lindsay Gillis, Los Angeles fliers, who hopped off from Albuquerque Tuesday and were believed to have crashed in the vicinity of Gallup, reported their safe arrival at Kingman, Ariz.

New Section Searched.

A section crew on the Santa Fe Railroad reported late today it had sighted a plane near Hauk, Ariz., on Tuesday. It was thought possible that the plane was the big air liner. With it becoming momentarily more evident that the plane was not down in the immediate vicinity of Gallup as searcher after searcher returned without news of the plane, the theory was advanced that the ship may have landed in the neighborhood of Hauk. Scout planes were dispatched in that direction.

Spurred by announcement of T. A. T. officials that $5,000 would be the reward for the man who found the missing transport, searching parties on foot and on horseback went out from almost every one of the few small communities in this section.

Headquarters for the search was moved here this morning after the reports that the plane had been located had been received. Telephone facilities into Gallup were at a premium as calls from all parts of the country regarding the plane came in during the day.

John Herlihy, chief engineer of the Transcontinental Air Transport, arrived here by plane this morning and spent most of the day in a small scout plane, accompanied by two Zunis, scouring the country for miles around. He returned this afternoon and expressed the opinion that the plane was not down in this vicinity.

M. M. Canfield, 23-year-old missing courier of the huge T. A. T. transport plane which has been reported wrecked and lost somewhere in the wilds of the New Mexico-Arizona region and its five passengers and three members of the crew dead, was a resident of Washington for a period of six months last winter.

The missing courier graduated from

Steward Again Heads Federal Clerk Group

Luther C. Steward, who was reelected president of the National Federation of Federal Employes (Harris & Ewing), and Miss Gertrude McNally, reelected secretary-treasurer (Clinedinst).

Elected by Acclamation For Ninth Term as President.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 5.—Luther C. Steward again will lead the fight of the National Federation of Federal Employes for higher pay and better working conditions. The popular Washingtonian was reelected president of the federation today by acclamation. It will be his ninth term.

Miss Gertrude McNally, dynamic little secretary and treasurer of the organization, was also reelected by acclamation. It will be her third term.

The selection of a city for the 1930 convention was put off until tomorrow. Washington is the choice of many of the delegates, and the men and women from that city are working hard to have it selected. Other cities, however, appear to be offering

GRIM DRAMA SHOCKS STRIKE KILLING JURY

Prosecution Strips Shroud Off the Ghastly Model of Murdered Chief.

WIDOW WAILS AT SIGHT

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 5 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Twice within five minutes, while its first witness was on the stand today, the prosecution in the Gastonia mill murder trial shocked court, jury, defendants and spectators.

The first shock came after Dr. H. R. McDonnell, the surgeon, who attended Chief of Police Aderholt while he lay dying in the Gastonia Sanitarium after being shot at strike headquarters on June 7, made the request, not unusual in murder trials, that he be allowed to show the location of the victim's wounds on a model.

The request, allowed as a matter of form, deputy sheriffs wheeled into the courtroom a figure shrouded in that type of black commonly called "deep mourning." The courtroom gasped, several of defense counsel rose to protest, and Solicitor John G. Carpenter hastened to order the drapery removed.

Before the courtroom could recover from its shocked surprise, a bailiff stripped off the shroud, revealing the murdered police chief, his face done to the life in plaster of paris, made ghastly by light tinting in rouge, and in the shot-riddled uniform he wore on the night of the shooting.

A gasp of surprise, punctuated by a half-stifled wail of the dead man's widow, swept over the courtroom, as defense counsel again rose in protest.

Arthur Garfield Hays, the first of defense counsel to get his voice, thundered an "I object," followed by Carpenter's "Just a moment, we are within our rights."

Judge Maurice V. Barnhill, perfectly poised, asked Hays if the defense

ROOT'S COURT PLAN FACES SENATE FIGHT

Stimson Indorses Formula, but Leaders Frown on Adherence.

ACTON IN YEAR PLANNED

(Associated Press.)

Administration indorsement of the Root formula for American adherence to the world court was given yesterday through Secretary Stimson and adverse retorts were forthcoming quickly from the administration group in the Senate, which eventually will be asked to ratify the proposal.

The opposition at the Capitol, which came from the League of Nations irreconcilables, lulled in volume, however, with word from the State Department that it appears unlikely that President Hoover will submit the world court proposition to the Senate before another year.

The President is understood to hold that the assembly of the League of Nations shall formally approve the revised American reservation to adherence, and that each of the signatory nations shall go through the necessary steps for ratification before he calls upon the Senate to act. Such a course means a year, at least, it is believed, before the issue again goes before the Senate.

The announcement by Secretary Stimson indorsing the revised American reservation worked out by Elihu Root brought announcement of disagreement by Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, one of the Republicans of the foreign relations committee.

Senator Johnson, of California, another Republican of the committee, previously has assailed the Root proposal. Chairman Borah, of the committee, reserved comment yesterday with the remark that "as Lincoln said,

SENATE GROUP OPENS TARIFF FIGHT MONDAY

Coalition to Begin Attack on Flexible Clauses of Measure.

ARGUMENT ON RATES MAY BE POSTPONED

Motion to Be Offered to Put Administrative Provisions First.

MAJORITY LEADERS VOICE NO OBJECTION

Progressives' Plan to Make Committee Take Bill Again Abandoned.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate Democratic-Progressive coalition will set out Monday to repeal the flexible provisions of the tariff giving the President rate-making authority, and, according to present indications, it will accomplish its purpose.

The decision to make the administrative provisions of the bill, embodying the flexible provisions, the first point of attack, was reached yesterday by Senators Robinson, the Democratic leader, and Borah, the Progressive chieftain. After a survey of the situation caused them to abandon, temporarily, at least, their plan of sending the bill back to the Senate finance committee with instructions to strike out all except agricultural rates.

Senator Robinson announced the plan whereby Senator Simmons, ranking minority member of the finance committee, will offer a motion Monday that the administrative provision be considered ahead of the rates in the bill. Subsequently, Senator Borah made known that this was in accordance with his agreement with the Democratic leader.

Opposition Is Agreeable.

But if the coalition anticipated that it would have a fight on this point it was mistaken. Senators Watson, majority leader; Vice President Curtis, Senator Fess, Republican whip; Senator Smoot, chairman of the finance committee, and perhaps others, meeting informally late in the afternoon, agreed that there was no objection to considering the administrative provisions first; that, as a matter of fact, that is when they should be considered.

They will, of course, oppose the striking out of the flexible provisions as well as the entire substitute plan of the coalition. It was introduced by Senator King, of Utah, yesterday and would set up a bipartisan tariff commission of six members to report to Congress. It would be the fact-finding commission advocated by Gov. Smith in the last campaign. The President would be taken out of the tariff picture.

But there are many indications that the Republicans will oppose this plan only half-heartedly. Whether their attitude is because of a feeling that the issue will be fought out in conference between the House and Senate anyhow or whether they are simply no longer wedded to the flexible provision is conjectural. It is believed, however, in so far as the Senate is concerned virtually all of the tariff structure of the present act, and enlarged in the pending bill, will be done over.

Revision Held Unnecessary.

Senator Robinson may have unwittingly explained the lukewarmness of the Republicans to the present structure when he said, in an interview outlining the Democrats' plan, that the fact that a Republican President has for seven years had the authority to increase the protection of needy industries without consulting with Congress, argues against the necessity of such a general revision as the Republicans now contemplate. The Republicans would not admit this, of course, but they do not seem to be concerned over the probability that the structure will be changed and the rate-making authority returned exclusively to Congress.

The Republican leaders are not yet ready to concede that the coalition will win this point, however. They do seem anxious to facilitate its disposition in order to get down to the rates in the bill. As one of them, who knows his onions, so to speak, said yesterday: "And there is where we will win."

The decision of the coalition to defer the fight to strike out all except agricultural items from the bill is a sign of weakness despite statements to the contrary.

Senator Robinson did not relish a discussion of the subject and about all Senator Borah would say was that he might put in a resolution to recommit the bill at any time, maybe Monday, maybe some other day.

Progressive Sponsoring Wanted.

There has been a growing belief however, that the Democrats do not want to make this confining of the rates to agriculture their fight. They

TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS LAID TO BUS DRIVERS

Four Found Breaking Speed Laws, Investigator in Maryland Asserts.

FIFTH ALSO IS ACCUSED

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 5.—Drivers of five buses operating between Baltimore and Washington were summoned today to appear before magistrates at Savage and Elkridge to answer charges of speeding and reckless driving placed by Paul M. Hart, investigator for the State police.

The charges followed a check-up made by Hart along Washington boulevard. In an auto equipped with a speedometer, certified to be correct and in perfect operating condition, he followed five buses, he reported.

Four drivers will appear at 3 p. m. Saturday before Magistrate Howard Gosnell, in the Savage Police Court, he said. The fifth will appear the same day at 1 p. m. before Magistrate Frederick Gill in the Elkridge Police Court, according to Hart.

Hart said Elwood F. Queen, driving one bus, was the first to be paced out. His maximum speed was put at 50 miles an hour. The next to be followed was one driven by Otto W. Warer, whose maximum speed, he asserted, was 48 miles an hour.

Frank Elmore, driving the third bus followed, made a maximum speed of 45 miles an hour, Hart said. Harry Gouff was the fourth, driving a bus marked with Pennsylvania tags. His maximum speed was 55 miles an hour, according to Hart. In the latter case the bus company, Hart said, would be charged with operating a bus through Maryland without Maryland registration tags.

The last operator to be checked was Raymond Romm. He is accused of passing traffic going in the same direction on the left side of a white line at a curve.

At Devil's Elbow, near Elkridge, Hart said, his machine was forced into a ditch to avoid colliding with the bus driven by Romm.

Hart declared he would make a full report to E. Austin Baughman, commissioner of motor vehicles, after the hearings.

Snow in Wyoming Heralds Autumn

Cool Blasts Are Expected in Capital Tomorrow; Drought Ends.

Autumn is just around the corner and headed fast toward Washington. In fact, fall weather for this region is being concocted by the elements out in the Far West around the town of Lander, Wyo., where a snowfall last night gave every indication of tinging eastward-bound winds with a cool, crisp edge.

The Weather Bureau last night, plotting the path of the refreshing blasts, scheduled showers for today and tomorrow to herald the arrival by tomorrow night of the cool weather. While no definite predictions on temperatures were forthcoming the meteorologists looked for a substantial slump in the mercury.

A moderately large rain of 0.9 inch here yesterday afternoon, the first precipitation of any consequence since August 3, led the Weather Bureau to the belief that the drought in this immediate locality has been terminated. Washington received the bulk of the rain throughout this section, a very light downfall being reported in Virginia, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Hoover Plans to Talk At Gettysburg in May

FAR WEST TO OPPOSE EAST IN SEMIFINALS

Comeback of 45-Year-Old Coast Veteran Is Sensation of Play.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

Pebble Beach, Calif., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The Far West, host to the first Jonesless championship golf competition in six years, will fight it out with the East for the national amateur title crown.

This was assured today when two veterans from Oregon, Dr. Oscar F. Willing and Henry Chandler Egan, champion 25 years ago, swept into the semifinals, along with the sharp-shooting Harrison R. ("Jimmy") Johnston, of St. Paul, and Francis Ouimet, of Boston, title holder in 1914.

Willing and Egan will meet in the first 36-hole semifinal tomorrow, starting at 10 a. m., while Ouimet and Johnston will battle it out in the other, so that no matter what the outcome an intersectional final is assured for Saturday.

In a succession of sensational quarter-final matches today, Willing disposed of the last foreign threat when he conquered the big British champion, Cyril Tolley, by the decisive margin of 4 and 3, leading all the way after the first nine holes. Egan, in his first tournament appearance since 1921, scored an even more surprising and overwhelming triumph over blond Jess Sweetser, of New York, to the tune of 6 and 5 to go.

Voigt Bows on 39th.

The smashing climax of the day was put on by "Jimmy" Johnston when he vanquished George Voigt, the New York favorite, 1 up, in a spectacular match that went three extra holes, decided on the thirty-ninth green. This followed the victory of Ouimet over the 18-year-old San Francisco star, William Lawson Little, jr. in another ding-dong battle, decided on the thirty-sixth green, where Ouimet sank a 20-foot putt for a birdie to halve the hole and win by a margin of 1 up.

These two tussles were by far the most exciting, desperately fought from start to finish, but the real hero was the veteran Egan, holder of the crown in 1904-05 and staging a sensational comeback at the age of 45, eight years after his last national tournament appearance. At St. Louis in 1921, Egan failed to qualify. He returned to the battle this year to help the Far West be host to the event for the first time and also because he had a big hand in designing Pebble Beach's famous layout. He remains a semifinalist now for the first time since 1909 and playing as brilliantly as any of the quartet remaining in the hunt for the title relinquished so unexpectedly in the first round by Bobby Jones.

Egan Takes Early Lead.

Egan was 2 up on Sweetser at the end of nine holes, increased his mar-

GALLINGER HIT IN LETTER FROM JUDGE SELLERS

JUDGE KATHRYN SELLERS.

Reports Received by Her Verify Post Stories, She Declares.

SUGGESTS INQUIRERS HEAR OTHER DOCTORS

Official Repeats That She Never Will Advise Hospital for Wards.

FEELS KEENLY DEATH OF WOMAN SHE SENT

Jurist Asks Who Decides Whether Poor Person Is to Be Operated Upon.

Declaring reports she had received verified The Post's articles on conditions existing at Gallinger Municipal Hospital, Judge Kathryn Sellers, of the Juvenile Court, in a letter yesterday to the investigating committee, reiterated her recent statement from the bench that she would not send wards of her court to the hospital in the future. She also stated she would never again urge a man or a woman to place themselves or their children in Gallinger Hospital.

After asking a series of questions concerning operations at the hospital, Judge Sellers suggested to the committee that physicians not connected with the hospital might properly be heard.

Text of Letter.

The letter follows:

"Sept. 4, 1929.

"Mr. W. W. Millan, Vice Chairman,
"Board of Public Welfare,
"District Building,
"Washington, D. C.

"Dear Mr. Millan:

"I beg to acknowledge herewith the receipt on Thursday, August 29, of your polite and courteous letter of August 28, extending an invitation to me to appear before the medical committee of the Board of Public Welfare or to file a statement concerning my expressed views as to Gallinger Hospital, on or before September 5. I have this day returned from my vacation and I hasten to inform you that with the exception of the cases mentioned in an interview which was published in the Evening Star in the early part of August, all of my information is hearsay, and while I feel that this information is more than sufficient to lead me to the opinion that a careful investigation of the policy and management of the hospital would be wise and expedient, it would obviously be improper and unfair for me to attempt to bring hearsay information before your committee."

Reporter's Work Praised.

"The persons who have written and talked to me about the affairs at the hospital are free to come forward and present their stories to your committee now meeting. In this connection, however, I feel that I may safely and properly state that the experience of the courageous young Washington Post newspaperman, Mr. Duncan Price, represents, as told in his signed articles, a fair example of the sort of stories that have come to me directly during the past year.

"Referring to the cases mentioned in the article in the Evening Star, I beg to say that I have very little to add to my opinion expressed there. This opinion was spoken of by a member of the District government as quoted in one of the newspapers as the "opinion of a layman." True, I do not belong to the medical profession, but in this case I am sorry to say I am the person who persuaded the unfortunate Mrs. Thompson to permit herself to be entered in the hospital, where she died.

Patient Objected to Going.

"On July 2, 1929, at a hearing on a petition filed by Mrs. Thompson asking the court to commit her two children to the Board of Public Welfare as destitute, Mrs. Thompson consented to undergo a complete physi-

BEAR-BESET STOCKS CRASH ON EXCHANGE

Billion Dollars in Quoted Values Are Wiped Out by Late Drive.

PLUNGE CALLED NATURAL

New York, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Upward of a billion dollars in quoted values was washed away in a sudden flood of selling which swept over the New York Stock Exchange in the last hour of trading today.

The reaction, which came with startling suddenness after pools had succeeded in marking up scores of issues $2 to $14 a share, many of them to new high records, was the worst since the break which followed the raising of the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate from 5 to 6 per cent a month ago. Net declines in many active stocks ranged from $3 to $18.75 a share.

At first, Wall street was inclined to lay the blame on the publication of a statement by Roger Babson, well-known economist, that a break in stock prices rivaling the Florida land boom was imminent. Later, many observers agreed that it was a natural correction of a topheavy speculative position created in the feverish bullish activities of the last few weeks.

The market was a bit nervous at the opening because of the increase of more than $400,000,000 in stock exchange member loans last month announced after the close of yesterday's market. Early selling was well absorbed, however, with the retention of the 5½ per cent discount rate by the Bank of England, setting at rest recent rumors of an increase, as a stabilizing factor. Pools became bolder as the session progressed and started to whirl up their favorites first in the copper and then in the public utility and railroad groups. Rails were advancing at a brisk clip when a storm of selling developed in the industrials and the whole market turned downward.

So great was the flood of selling that the ticker quickly fell 25 minutes behind the market and was nearly an hour late in recording the Transaction and Disappearance in New York Are Veiled in Mystery, as Big Institutions Hire Detectives to Find Colorado Financier.

Man Who Got $500,000 Checks From Bank Hunted

New York, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The American Bankers Association hired detectives today to solve a financial riddle unprecedented in the history of banking, the puzzle being that a man apparently fixed it up to obtain $500,000 that did not belong to him, and then did not take it.

On August 30 six of the city's largest banks received code telegrams, bearing the signature of banks in Denver, Colo., ordering them to place from $75,000 to $100,000 each in the Chase National Bank to the account of the Bank of Telluride, Colo.

The banks did as they were requested. The Chemical Bank & Trust Co. and the First National Bank deposited $100,000 each and the Guaranty Trust Co., the Equitable Trust Co., the National City Bank and the Harriman National Bank, $75,000 each.

Last Saturday a man saying he was C. D. Waggoner, president of the Telluride National Bank, appeared at the Chase National Bank and presented cashier's checks for certification. He had documents identifying him and the Chase Bank certified the checks, totaling $500,000. The man then walked out and has not been seen since. Nor, so far as the Chase Bank knows, has he cashed any of the checks.

"The whole transaction was perfectly regular so far as we are concerned," an official of the Chase Bank said today. "The money was deposited with us by the six banks, and we are satisfied that it was Mr. Waggoner whose checks we certified. We have had no word at all from the banks which deposited the money."

But if the banks did not take the matter up with the Chase Bank, they were not idle in other quarters. Lawyers for the Harriman Bank reported the matter to the district

Army Officer's Daughter, Bride, Requests Annulment

She and Husband Realized Shortly After Marriage They Had Made Mistake, She Asserts; to Accompany Father to Legation in Austria.

A romance involving the daughter of an Army officer who shortly is to go to Vienna, Austria, as military attache of the United States Legation, which culminated July 18 in a marriage at San Luis Obispo, Calif., has come to an abrupt end and the young bride yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to annul the marriage vows.

The young bride is Mrs. Lelia Lee Baer Gates, daughter of Col. Joseph A. Baer, residing at 2010 Hillyer place northwest, while the husband is Harold Keith Gates, a resident of California, temporarily residing in Washington.

While admitting that since her marriage she became 18 years old on August 10, the young woman tells the court that at the time of their marriage last July she was 17 and her husband 20. She makes the bald statement that she and her husband realized shortly after their marriage that they had made a mistake and have not voluntarily lived together since she celebrated her eighteenth birthday.

The young woman states that when they were married neither had parental consent, and therefore under the laws of the State of California their marriage is null and void.

Col. Baer, in an affidavit attached to the petition, sets out that he will be in Austria for two or four years and that he is going to take his daughter with him, since she has no income except what she receives on a $2,500 legacy which was left to her and which is invested for her benefit.

Col. Baer states that he is under orders to sail September 16, and that he desires to have his daughter sail with him. He intimates that he would like to have the marriage annulled before the date of his departure.

cal examination under the direction of the Associated Charities for the purpose of ascertaining whether she was physically able to support her children. The Associated Charities agreed to support the children in the meantime. The case was continued to July 17, and on that date further discussion was had on the subject as to whether Mrs. Thompson was physically fit to make any contribution toward the support of her children. She had been examined at the George Washington Hospital Clinic by Dr. John H. Reed. Dr. Reed's report, dated July 16, 1929, certified that she was suffering from obesity and low blood pressure. He recommended 'Basal metabolism test and dental examination.' There was no mention in his report of any ailment which would require a summary operation, such an operation as would endanger her life. If her condition was such as to require this operation, I am constrained to believe that Dr. Reed would have observed this condition and would have made some recommendation thereto. If such a condition had existed, located in the human body easily accessible to examination, then it would appear that our expensive clinics are not always to be relied on. His recommendation, as a matter of fact, was that she be entered in Dr. Hickling's clinic at Gallinger Hospital for mental observation, owing to the fact that upon three occasions she had appeared for a mentabolism test and had been so nervous that the test could not be made.

(Here Appeared Dr. Reed's Report.)

Afraid to Go, She Said.

"Mrs. Thompson strenuously objected to going to the psychopathic ward of Gallinger Hospital. I agreed with her that she was perfectly right in refusing to go to the psychopathic ward. Mrs. R. R. Miller, of the Child Welfare Division, Board of Public Welfare, made the suggestion that Mrs. Thompson be entered in the new medical ward at Gallinger Hospital, where she could have a complete physical examination. Mrs. Thompson objected strenuously to going to the hospital at all, maintaining that she was not ill and that she was afraid to go to the hospital.

"It was with great difficulty that I persuaded her to go to Gallinger Hospital for a week, with every assurance on my part that nothing would be done to her except to give her a complete physical examination, including metabolism test. She reminded me plaintively that the complete physical examination had already been made at the George Washington University Hospital. If I remember correctly, I used about these words: 'Mrs. Thompson, I am your friend, and I have thought all along that you ought to have a mother's pension, but if you ever get this pension, you will have to submit to every condition laid down by the mother's pension division of the Board of Public Welfare.' After some time she finally said: 'Well, Judge, I will go to this hospital for you.' Knowing Mrs. Thompson and her fear of the hospital, I can not believe that she consented willingly to any operation.

"Within the week she was dead. To one not particularly endowed with the gift of insight into medical practice, it would seem that inasmuch as this unfortunate mother died as a result of the operation, that even the practitioners who performed the operation would be of the opinion that the operation, in the light of the result, should not have been performed. Many questions occur to me: What official at Gallinger Hospital makes the decision as to whether a poor person is to be operated on? Is this operation the result of a conference? Is it customary to operate upon poor people without their consent or the consent of persons interested in them? Was it necessary for Mrs. Thompson's immediate recovery? Was she in danger of dying if time was not taken for consultation with her friends? Is a patient who is so ill that an operation must be performed capable of knowing what she is doing when she gives her consent to an operation? What was this operation performed upon Mrs. Thompson? Was it an operation in which a hemorrhage is likely to occur? What was Mrs. Thomson's blood pressure? Is it customary to operate upon a person who has low blood pressure? Just why was she operated upon at that particular time? Some of these questions being a matter of opinion, physicians not connected with the hospital might properly be heard.

It was my understanding that Mrs. Miller, of the staff of the Board of Public Welfare, was to undertake the entry of this patient at the hospital and if this were done, why was not Mrs. Miller informed that this operation was pending? I understand that Mrs. Miller was not informed and knew nothing of it until two days after it occurred. I believe that if Mrs. Miller had been notified that an operation was being considered, that she would have brought the matter to my notice, as she knew of my keen interest in Mrs. Thompson."

Feels Result Keenly.

"I have always regarded my responsibility as a heavy one in regard to all my dealings with the unfortunate men and women and children who come before me at the court. I would be untrue to myself if I did not feel keenly the result of this mother's acquiescence to my overpersuasion. I state here what I stated in the Evening Star that I can never again urge a man or woman to to place themselves or their children in Gallinger Hospital.

"As you know, the court has no authority to send a child under 17 to the hospital. Such children must be committed to the Board of Public Welfare, if in need of medical treatment, and it has been the custom of the court to recommend that such children be sent to Gallinger Hospital by the board. No such recommendations will be made by me in the future.

"In the case of Regina Purks, this child being under 16 and required under the compulsory education act to attend school, was brought in by her parents charged with incorrigibility as persistently truant and as leading her younger sister into truancy. She was found incorrigibile and placed on probation, it being my opinion that her parents could not keep her in school. Upon physical examination, it was discovered that she was in need of hospitalization and she was committed to the Board of Public Welfare temporarily with the request that she be sent to Gallinger Hospital. This was done and it was while there as a ward of the Board of Public Welfare, that she gave her blood for transfusion. You, Mr. Millan, being learned in the law and fully conversant with the policy of the Board of Children's Guardians and the Board of Public Welfare, not to have an operation of any kind performed on a temporary ward without the consent of the ward's parents, will readily see that this constituted a technical assault upon her person, the mere matter of her consenting being without weight, as she was a minor. I have reason to know that Dr. Bocock, when this was called to his attention, strongly disapproved of the action that had been taken. In this case, both the consent of the Board of Public Welfare and the parents should have been secured. It would be interesting to hear the result of transfusing Regina's blood into the veins of the other patient. In my opinion, this performance was objectionable and I do not believe that it will be permitted again by Dr. Bocock."

Regrets Mention of Case.

"I regret exceedingly that I should have mentioned the third case, because it may bring unpleasant notoriety to my friend. Upon receipt of a telegram from her superior officer in Detroit, I sent Miss Ezekiels to the hospital and my friend was released. Miss Ezekiels, I understand, signed a required paper assuming responsibility for my friend.

"The great point in this case was that my friend should have asked for me almost immediately and repeatedly without avail. It raises the fear in the minds of many that great hospitals may be ports of missing persons, where men, women, boys and girls may call in vain for those who would seek to protect them.

"In closing, I beg to say that I consider the administration of the hospital under Dr. Bocock as infinitely improved over the administration of the hospital during the time I had the honor to serve on the medical committee of the Board of Charities.

"I wish to add that in the complaints that have reached me there have been no complaints relative to Miss Moran or any of the nurses.

"My service on the medical committee of the Board of Charities makes me fully conversant with the tremendous responsibility of your committee and, knowing the high character of the members of the Board of Public Welfare, I am sure that the most thorough inquiry will be made and that more careful and strict supervision will be given the hospital.

"Sincerely yours,
"KATHRYN SELLERS,
"Judge of the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia."

INQUIRERS TO HEAR LETTER OF SELLERS

What May Be Last Public Gallinger Session Called for Today.

REPORT TO BE WRITTEN

What will probably be the last public hearing to be held by the Board of Public Welfare in its investigation of conditions at Gallinger Municipal Hospital has been called for 10 o'clock this morning by W. W. Millan, chairman of the board's investigating committee.

While any one with any information to add to the committee's records pertaining to Gallinger is invited to appear before the body at this meeting, the principal purpose of the session will be for the introduction of the letter addressed to the committee by Judge Kathryn Sellers, of Juvenile Court, which is reproduced in full elsewhere in this issue of The Post.

Judge Sellers had been invited by the committee to appear before it and present any information or complaints she might have pertaining to Gallinger, this invitation having been sent as a matter of courtesy after the jurist had made public criticism some weeks ago of conditions at Gallinger as they existed about a year and a half ago. When Judge Sellers declined to accept the invitation to appear in person, submitting her testimony in writing in the letter received by the committee yesterday, it was decided that the contents of the letter should be spread upon the records formally in open hearing, as has been the case in all other testimony taken by the committee thus far.

Immediately after the conclusion of this session, which is to be held in the board room on the fifth floor of the District Building, the committee is expected to go into executive session for the purpose of formulating its report to be submitted to full Board of Public Welfare immediately.

In view of the fact that the general tendency of the committee, in so far as it has been expressed as yet, is to whitewash Gallinger and give the institution a clean bill of health, despite the fact that numerous criticisms and complaints have been ignored pointedly by the committee in its taking of testimony, it is considered unlikely that the committee will make any recommendations to the board, merely submitting its records and placing it up to the board to take action or pass the matter along to the commissioners as it sees fit.

NEW GENERAL

COL. ANDREW MOSES, who has been promoted to brigadier general.

COL. MOSES NAMED BRIGADIER GENERAL

Army Officer Now on Duty at War College Is Given Promotion.

RECORD IS NOTABLE ONE

The War Department yesterday announced the promotion of Col. Andrew Moses, Field Artillery, now on duty as an instructor at the Army War College here, to the rank of brigadier general, to fill the place made vacant a short while ago by the promotion of Frank R. McCoy to major general.

Gen. Moses has been on duty at the War College since the fall of last year, when he was made instructor of G-1 course. Previously he served with the organized reserves and with the office of the chief of Field Artillery here.

Gen. Moses was commissioned a second lieutenant of Infantry upon his graduation from the United States Military Academy in 1893. He remained in this branch of the service until the latter part of the World War, when he was transferred to the Field Artillery.

Gen. Moses' first tour of duty following his graduation at the academy was at Whipple Barracks, Ariz. Gen. Moses did not participate in the Spanish-American War, but afterward went to Cuba as acting chief ordnance officer of the Department of Cuba and as commanding officer of the Santa Clara battery at Havana.

Returning to the United States in 1903, he continued at various posts on the mainland until the outbreak of the World War. He was promoted to a brigadier general and sent to France with the 316th Field Artillery. When hostilities ceased he was made chairman of the joint board of review for redelivery of troop transports. For his services as chairman of his board and commanding officer of the 316th Field Artillery in France he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross.

His citation reads: "Commanding the 316th Field Artillery from June, 1918, until it was demobilized, he exhibited qualities of excellent leadership and military attainments of a high order. Later, as chairman of a joint board of review, he occupied a position of great responsibility, having full charge and control of the redelivery of all ships allocated to the War Department during the World War. By his administrative ability, excellent judgment, energy and tact, he rendered conspicuous services in bringing about speedy and accurate settlement with the shipowners, which resulted in a large saving to the Government."

PARITY IN ALL NAVY SHIPS IS DISCUSSED

Battleships, Submarines and Plane Carriers Also Are Involved.

POWERS WILL BE INVITED

(Associated Press.)

Parity as between the American and British navies, agreed on in negotiations between Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes, would apply to each category of combatant ships instead of to the two navies as a whole, it was stated in official circles yesterday.

In addition to parity on cruisers, that on destroyers and submarines is entering into the present exchanges between Washington and London. Parity in battleships and aircraft carriers was agreed on at the Washington arms conference eight years ago and the purpose of the present conversations between the American and British governments is to carry this program through all the fighting arms of the navies.

An effort in that direction was made at the Washington conference, but the negotiations broke down after some months because of opposition from French and other quarters regarding limitations on submarines.

Powers to Be Invited.

Should the United States and Great Britain come to a complete agreement—and officials of both countries are optimistic on that point—Japan, France and Italy would be invited into a general conference which, under present expectations in high administration quarters here, would be possible late this year or early in 1930.

Whether this general conference would embrace battleships is a matter for future dtermination, but in any event a reconsideration of the battleship question must be undertaken in 1931 under the terms of the Washington naval treaty.

Some naval opinion both in the United States and abroad is against the immediate replacement of battleships as proposed in that pact. There have been unofficial suggestoins that the battleship building holiday be extended for from four to eight years beyond the ten years expiring in 1932.

Present Status Unknown.

The present status of the negotiations between the United States and Great Britain on the three categories of fighting ships remains something of a mystery, as officials in both capitals decline to divulge specific information.

However, there is a strong feeling in official circles here that what difficulties have been encountered are not insurmountable. Many complex questions are involved in working out parity on the basis of the "yardstick" of armor, guns, speed, age and tonnage and these now are in the hands of the naval experts for solution.

Restrictions on numbers or tonnage in cruisers, destroyers and submarines necessitate the casting of a new pattern for each navy involved and this is a subject requiring the greatest thought and study, since it involves naval policies and strategies in meeting possible threats from many sources.

Parity in destroyers and submarines as between the United States and Great Britain is a matter which some believe can be worked out rather readily, but since the submarine and the destroyer constitute the principal arms of the French navy, some difficulty in reaching an agreement on these categories in a general naval conference is anticipated.

AIR LINER RUMORED FOUND IN ARIZONA

Army and Navy aviators in the Southwest and on the Pacific Coast were ordered yesterday to participate in the search for the missing Transcontinental Air Transport liner City of San Francisco, believed lost between Albuquerque, N. Mex., and Kingman, Ariz., with five passengers and a crew of three.

Responding immediately to the appeal of Col. Paul Henderson, president of the Transcontinental Air Transport line, for aid in the search, the War and Navy departments dispatched instructions to commanding officers of two corps areas, the Eleventh naval district and the battle fleet on the Pacific Coast to render all assistance possible by sending out searchers.

The number of airplanes to participate in the search over the rugged and dry terrain in the Southwest was left for the various commanding officers to decide.

Maj. Gen. John J. Hines, commanding the Ninth corps area, at San Francisco, has ordered planes from the pursuit and bombing squadrons stationed at Rockwell Field, San Diego, to get under way as soon as possible. Whatever aircraft he has within several hundred miles of Winslow, Ariz., also are to be dispatched.

Other Help Is Given.

The Navy Department also instructed Admiral L. M. Nulton, commander of the battle fleet of San Diego, and Rear Admiral A. H. Robertson, commander of the Eleventh naval district at San Diego, to dispatch whatever aircraft is necessary for the search. The order also said the Navy planes would co-ordinate with the Army and the aircraft of the T. A. T. Co. in its operations from a base at Winslow.

Maj. Gen. William Lassiter, commander of the Eighth corps area, at San Antonio, also was instructed to aid with whatever aircraft is in the vicinity of the route of the missing plane.

Betrothal Denied By Valerie French

Kin of Late Earl of Ypres Detained Until Arrival of Passport.

New York, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Miss Valerie French, granddaughter of the late Earl of Ypres, was detained by customs officials for nearly two hours when she arrived on the liner Berengaria last night, it was learned today. She did not have a passport and visa.

Miss French received temporary permission to land until her passport, which is expected tomorrow, arrives. She explained that she had left it with the American consul general in London, who did not return it before sailing time after affixing the visa.

Accompanied by Miss Diana Guest, a travel companion, Miss French is on her way to Denver, she said.

Henry Bradley Martin, son of the financier, is confined in a hospital there. She denied she is engaged to Martin, or that she plans to marry him in Denver. She said she would have an announcement to make regarding the engagement after consulting his family and if there is a wedding, it will be in London.

Barlow Tells Story Of Arrest in Cuba

Report Is Made to Stimson by Man Imprisoned With Maniacs.

Joseph E. Barlow, American citizen, who is pressing claims for property worth millions, seized in Cuba, declares he is thoroughly convinced he was imprisoned in Principe Fortress Tuesday of last week to be killed by maniacs.

This fact is disclosed by an affidavit filed yesterday by Barlow with Secretary of State Stimson, giving a detailed story of his arrest, imprisonment and release. Barlow did not see Stimson in person, but delivered the affidavit to his secretary and went over the matter with him. Barlow is satisfied that Stimson is seeking to assist him and made the affidavit public on the theory that its publication would bring support to the State Department.

After telling how two members of the Cuban secret police called at his office at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of August 27 and told him they had an order to take him to the office of the head of that organization, "peacefully, if possible, by force if necessary," Barlow told what happened step by step until finally he found himself incarcerated with a dozen or more men whom he declares were maniacs.

One Dead, 16 Injured In Sao Paulo Explosion

Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—One person was reported killed and sixteen injured in an explosion near the plant of the Atlantic Refining Co. at Sao Paulo today.

The explosion, which occurred on property adjacent to the Atlantic Co.'s plant, shook nearby houses and did heavy damage to the Atlantic works, where large deposits of inflammable oils were stored. The cause of the explosion was not made known.

Cuban Dance Halls Are Put Under Ban

50 Places Are Affected by Sudden Orders to Padlock Doors.

Havana, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The capital of Cuba is virtually danceless following orders issued today by the interior department to close immediately all dancing academies in Havana, on charges of immorality and violation of laws ruling societies and club privileges.

Fifty public dance halls are affected. Protests came from women's clubs and civic organizations, which branded the halls as "dens of iniquity" and "pitfalls for young womanhood."

The padlock orders will be protested tomorrow by owners of leading dance halls who contend there have been no violations of the law.

Squads of sanitary officers armed with search warrants and orders from the interior department, today started Cuba's first concerted drive against drugs. The drive is particularly aimed at cabarets, dance halls and Chinatown.

NEWS "LEAKS" HERE IRRITATING BRITISH

Naval Plans Were Intended to Be Kept Secret, Report Asserts.

NEW TALK IS PLANNED

London, Sept. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Ambassador Dawes, declining to comment on developments at Geneva or Washington, today made it known that he expects to confer again with Premier MacDonald tomorrow when the premier arrives by airplane from Geneva.

In official circles it was learned that the next move in the disarmament negotiations would be a reply in writing from Washington on the British proposal covering the points on which agreements have not been reached.

The fact that the problem of reconciling the American desire for cruiser parity without a large American building program with the British desire for a total of 62 modern cruisers remains unsolved was confirmed today, although it has been evidenced for some days.

The calibers of the cruiser guns also remains unsettled and there is not yet an agreement, although on this last point serious difficulty is not expected, upon battleship tonnage and replacement.

There is considerable feeling here at the leakage in Washington, obviously from official sources, which Dawes and MacDonald agreed should be kept secret during the negotiations. The British feel that they have kept their end of the bargain and resent the fact that they must meet complaints from loyally silent British newspapers that all naval parley news comes from Washington.

It was recalled today that during the war the British government consistently refused to make any serious confidential communications to the American State Department because experience had shown that nothing the State Department knew was a secret.

When real "hush-hush" communications had to cross the Atlantic they were sent to the British naval attache and transmitted directly to the President after a promise had been exacted that the Department of State should be kept in ignorance.

The British are smarting under what the Morning Post mildly characterizes as "the retort" to MacDonald's optimism by Secretary Stimson.

TWO GUNMEN SLAIN IN RACKETEERS' WAR

Double Execution Marks an Outbreak in Chicago Gangland War.

VICTIMS HAD RECORDS

Chicago, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Gangland staged another of its double executions today, and as usual the only evidence left police was the bullet-torn bodies of two young racketeers.

The two victims, Frank (Cy) Cawley and Edward Wescott, were found early this morning by a workman lying alongside a seldom used street in a sparsely settled Northwest community. They had been shot repeatedly through the back, apparently having been stood up with their faces to the street and executed.

The executioners performed their task well. Police found not the slightest trace of them and had only the criminal records of the slain racketeers as a basis for an investigation. They both were known as "muscle men," threatening their way into racketeering groups for their share of the rake-offs. They had been mixed up in several police scrapes and were identified with a West Side gang.

It appeared they had been either kidnaped or else "put on the spot" by "friends." There had been no struggle, all signs indicated. One of the men clutched two nickels in his hands.

Whether he had been surprised and kidnaped while waiting to make a phone call or whether this was gangland's method of saying the men were "cheapsters" was problematical.

For some time identity of the men was undetermined. Police traced phone numbers found in a notebook on one of the men and located two women who established their identity. Police as usual linked the two victims with various crimes and affairs, but had nothing definite on which to pin their theories.

Mexicans Kill Hunter Of Hidden Treasures

Mexico City, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—An Excelsior dispatch from Tepoxcolulu, Oaxaca, today said enraged inhabitants of that place killed one treasure hunter and forced three others to flee when they began excavating the inside of an abandoned church for gold said to have been left there hundreds of years ago by Spanish priests.

When the treasure hunters arrived in the town and started excavating the townsmen, feeling the venture constituted a sacrilege, refused to sell them food. Later food was brought them on a mule, the townsmen using the occasion to attack them.

H. B. SPROUL, VIRGINIA ROAD OFFICIAL, DIES

Staunton Business Leader Suffers Fatal Stroke at Fair.

DEATH IS UNEXPECTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Sept. 5.—Hugh Bell Sproul, 56, member of the State Highway Commission and Federal food administrator in Virginia during the World War, fell dead on the fair grounds here this afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock. His death was unexpected.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Sproul was born November 12, 1873, near Middlebrook, Augusta County, the youngest child of the late Archibald A. and Eugenia Bumgartner Sproul. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Agnes Erskine Miller Sproul; three daughters, Misses Harriet, Eugenia and Agnes Sproul; three sons, H. B., jr., Mason and Erskine Sproul; one brother, Hon. W. W. Sproul, of near Middlebrook, and a sister, Miss Fannie W. Sproul, of Staunton.

Enters Insurance Firm.

He was educated at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., 1890-1893, and was a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. After leaving college he worked for a time for companies in the West Virginia coal fields, coming to Staunton about 1893 and entering into partnership with the late William A. Burnte in insurance business as Burnte & Sproul.

On declaration of war with Spain, he enlisted as a private in Co. K, Second Virginia Infantry regiment, was promoted to corporal and served until honorably discharged in August, 1898, at Camp Cuba Libre, Jacksonville, Fla. He was a member of all three Staunton Masonic bodies, blue lodge, chapter, and commandery, and of Acca Temple, Mystic Shrine.

In business life he was president of the Erskine Coal & Land Co., whose extensive interests primarily occupied his attention, although he had many business connections and activities.

Organizes Bank.

Sproul assisted in organizing the Staunton National Bank in 1903 and was vice president and a director of the National Valley Bank, trustee of Mary Baldwin College and a member of the board of Washington and Lee University, ruling elder and treasurer of the First Presbyterian Church and had been president of the Shenandoah Valley (Staunton) Fair Association since its organization seventeen years ago. He was perhaps the largest land owner in Augusta County.

Sproul was prominent in Democratic party councils, being a delegate from Virginia to the convention in New York City which nominated John W. Davis, a college mate at Washington and Lee, for the presidency. Frequently he had been mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination. When such suggestion was made he immediately made it known that he was not a candidate for public office.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

HOW nearly the United States came to being embroiled in just such a mess as the British government now finds on its hands in Palestine has been a favorite topic of conversation around the lunch tables and in the cloakrooms of the Senate in the last few days. If one surveys the senators participating in any discussion of this question it is very easy to guess which one of them brought it up.

It will be Borah, or Hiram Johnson, or George Moses, or George Norris, or the younger La Follette recalling his father's participation in the old irreconcilable battle against Woodrow Wilson on the Versailles Treaty fight. One of the minor phases of that campaign, which ran well into the presidency of Harding, for that matter, was the question of the United States accepting a mandate over Armenia.

Mr. Wilson was very anxious for this country to accept this, and a tremendous pressure grew up from people all over the country for the Government to accept this responsibility, not because it would be a particularly good thing for this country, but because people interested in it thought it was a sacrifice on behalf of humanity which the United States ought to undertake.

* * * *

THIS drive to have the U. S. take the Armenian mandate actually gained in strength — certainly measured by the flood of letters and appeals which poured in upon Congress—while sentiment for the League of Nations and other phases of the Versailles Treaty was apparently waning.

Months after President Wilson retired to private life President Harding complained to the newspaper correspondents, as he faced more than sixty of them one day, that he could not understand how so many people who were for "peace at any price" as a general proposition, were so eager for the United States to undertake an obligation which would certainly lead to sending troops to fight to protect the Armenians. At about this stage interest in Armenia was spurred up because of some trouble in that unfortunate country, the misfortunes of whose people had been a favorite topic of lectures by returned missionaries during the boyhood of most of the voters.

Gradually the pressure subsided, and it is doubtful today if there would be much sentiment for this country to take over that particular mandate if the proposition were to be made anew.

But the massacre of the Jews in Palestine has given the Senate a vivid illustration of the kind of thing that might have happened to this country had the Senate approved the mandate over Armenia. Britain has one very significant bit of trouble in connection with Palestine which would not figure in Armenia had the United States the responsibility for that country. It so happens that in all its possessions the United States has very few Mahometans, those few being in the southern islands of the Philippines.

* * * *

MOST of the agitation which has arisen in this country with respect to them has come from American officials, notably Representative Robert L. Bacon, who have believed that the Moros were badly treated by the Christian Filipinos. But regardless of the merits of this, there are no international complications.

Britain, on the contrary, realizes that every move she makes in Palestine to protect the Jews under attack there from the Arabs is sprinkling just so many more sparks around in the Moslem powder magazine. They may die out without causing an explosion, but there may be a detonation which would involve not only the Near East but India.

Even with this country holding no mandate and having no responsibility from a legal standpoint, there is plenty of public interest, judging again from the mail which has been arriving on Capitol Hill in the last few days, in the Palestine situation. This by no means comes exclusively from Jews who think their coreligionists should be protected in the Holy Land after having been invited by the British Government to return to their homeland. There are many advocates of Zionism among the Gentiles, also, but even these represent a small minority of those urging this Government to stand by Britain in putting an end to the massacres.

How greatly this pressure would be increased if the United States had taken a mandate in a neighboring country, where coreligionists of the Moslems in Palestine were persecuting the downtrodden Armenians, senators who succeeded in their battle against this responsibility point out with much emphasis in cloakroom debates with their former promandate friends.

GHASTLY MODEL OF SLAIN CHIEF SHOCKS STRIKE MURDER JURY

were prepared to admit that Aderholt met his death through gunshot wounds as described by Dr. McConnell. Hays answered in the affirmative, and Judge Barnhill ordered the exhibit removed.

The country jury, which had been staring pop-eyed at the exhibit, settled back in its seats. The defendants, huddled together as if for mutual protection, ceased their nervous conversation.

Dr. McConnell resumed his narrative, but little attention was paid to him, as, with O. F. Mason, of the prosecution staff serving as a mannikin, he exhibited the stained and shot-torn garments. It was anticlimax, and anticlimax the session remained until Judge Barnhill adjourned court as twilight began to fall.

The nearest approach to today's exhibition in the memory of veteran trial attendants was in the Halls-Mills case when Henry Stevens, one of the defendants, was handed the model of a woman's head and asked to show the jury how he would cut the head off a blue fish, the court in that instance refusing to permit the performance to go through.

Dr. McConnell, who was followed by four witnesses to the shooting and the events immediately preceding it at strike headquarters, testified that the load of 41 buckshot fired into Aderholt's back, made seven wounds, the chief and fatal one being made by sixteen shot that punctured the lungs.

By the four, the State sought to show that Aderholt was on a peaceful mission when he went to strike headquarters, that he had started to leave when shot, and that the shooting was in pursuance of instructions and encouragement of Beal and others. In doing this it abandoned the theory that Aderholt was lured to his death by the defendants, when it put on the stand Mrs. Eunice Mason, who said she had called the police.

The defense, by its cross-examination, showed that it will put on witnesses to show that on the night of the shooting at least two of Aderholt's aids had been drinking, that the first shot was fired by the police, and that any shooting done by the defendants was in defense of their life and property.

Otto Mason, the first witness called after Dr. McConnell had established the death of Aderholt and a map had been put in evidence, swore that on the night of the shooting he was on the porch of his home adjoining strike headquarters, where he heard Erwin Beal, strike leader and chief defendant, speaking.

Beal, he said, in an address to the armed camp guards warned them that "the mill thugs and stool pigeons are coming to raise hell."

Picket Line Ordered.

Beal, he continued, then ordered the forming of a picket line to go to the Manville-Jenckes Mill, where, he said, "we will have the biggest strike yet." Beal, he went on, left "five or six men with shotguns" to guard the lot with him, while Vera Bush and perhaps 150 persons left for the mill.

Shortly, he continued, the crowd came back, followed by Chief Aderholt and his party. Aderholt was met by George Carter and Joseph Harrison, two of the defendants, who covered him with shotguns.

"Boys," he quoted the chief as asking, "what is the trouble?"

"None of your —— business," he swore Harrison replied, to which as said Aderholt replied:

"We haven't come down here for any trouble."

Harrison, the witness continued, advanced on the party, when Policeman Tom Golbert grappled with him and sought to take his shotgun, Aderholt joining in the scuffle.

"Shoot Him! Shoot Him!"

"Then," said the witness, "Leo McGinnis, another of the guard, came running up, his gun pointed at the police, crying, 'Turn him loose, damn you!' while from the doorway of the union came cries of 'Shoot him! Shoot him!'"

"Whose voices were they?" asked Solicitor Carpenter.

"Fred Erwin Beal and Vera Bush," replied the witness.

Meanwhile, said Mason, who was employed as a carpenter in New York until coming here, six months ago, to work in the Manville Jenckes Mill, McGinnis remained 30 feet distant, his shotgun pointed at the officers. McGinnis fired, he said, apparently hitting no one, and Aderholt broke loose from the scuffle and walked away.

Immediately thereafter, said the witness, there were two shots, and then a volley of "about eighteen guns," and Aderholt fell. He could not say who fired. He was sure the police had fired no shots, Harrison, he said, was laying on the ground when the shooting was over.

On cross-examination, the defense failed to shake his testimony.

Mrs. Eunice Mason, wife of the preceding witness, heard Beal's speech and the beginning of the scuffle of Gilbert and Harrison, but did not see the shooting.

Kissing Objected to.

Mrs. Walter Griggs, a pretty black-haired slip of a woman, very sure of herself and prejudiced against the strikers "because of the hugging and kissing going on on the lot right in front of our children," told the jury she called the police.

A. J. Roach, the next witness, impressed for duty that night by Policeman Tom Gilbert, who followed, said Harrison was at the time under arrest.

"The chief," said he, after telling as the preceding witnesses had of the events leading up to the shooting, "told Gilbert to arrest Harrison for pointing a gun at him."

During the melee Roach was shot, he testified, but on cross-examination Roach denied that he had drunk any liquor in eight years, or that he and Gilbert were drunk on the day of the shooting.

Park Police Arrest 285, Collect $1,561 in Month

The United States Park Police arrested 285 persons during the last month and collected $1,561 in fines, it was announced yesterday.

The traffic violators led the list with 159 persons arrested, while drunkenness was second with 69. Twelve of those arrested were sent to jail. The personal bonds of 13 were taken, 9 others were placed on probation, 4 dismissed and 1 nolle prossed.

Thomas Hager Violett, 21 years old, of 404 Luray avenue, Braddock, died Wednesday morning in the Cole Valley Hospital, Montgomery, W. Va., following an automobile accident Tuesday night when a car in which he was an occupant overturned about 40 miles from Charleston, W. Va.

Violett, a student in electrical engineering at George Washington University, and two companions, Martin Mason, of Clarendon, and Sidney Hancock, of Braddock, were riding in a machine driven by Mason when it overturned after sideswiping an automobile which Mason had endeavored to pass.

The trio was taken to the Cole Valley Hospital, where Violett died a few hours afterwards from a fractured skull and brain concussion. His companions were only slightly injured. A verdict of death resulting from an unavoidable accident was handed down by the Montgomery coroner.

It was stated that the youths had left their homes early Tuesday and were driving to Indianapolis to visit relatives of Mason when the mishap occurred.

Violett was an employe in the engineering department of the Mutual Ice Co., of Alexandria, and is well known in that city as a former student of Alexandria High School. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Violett, and three brothers, William J., Charles H., and Martin Violett.

Funeral services will be held at the home of his parents tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. Hugh S. McFadden, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, of Alexandria, and interment will be at Alexandria in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

The Alexandria City Council decided yesterday, at its meeting in City Hall, to confer with members of the city electoral board and representatives of the political parties next Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock to determine whether the division of the third voting ward into two precincts is an immediate necessity.

The decision was reached following the presentation of a request from the city Republican committee asking that the ward be subdivided in preparation for the general election of State and local officers on November 5 and to prevent any repetition of the congestion that occurred in that ward during the presidential election last November.

The council has admitted the necessity of separating the ward into two precincts on several occasions but hopes to postpone any action on the proposal until after the new territory is acquired from Alexandria County by annexation on January 1. It is then planned to divide the city into as many wards as deemed necessary.

A resolution authorizing a temporary loan of $60,000 to provide current operating expenses for the city in anticipation of the sale of annexation bonds was introduced and held over under the rules. The loan will be made for a period of 90 days with privileges of renewal, if desired.

The council deferred action on a petition received from Mrs. Agnes G. Cael seeking permission to erect a gasoline filling station at Washington and Wilkes streets until the petitioner submits a plan of the type of station she proposes to maintain.

An appropriation of $126 for the construction of a 6-foot addition to the fish and sea food market rented from the city by Francis & Chauncey was authorized.

Action was deferred upon a request from the Mount Ida Citizens Corporation asking that the city assume jurisdiction over its sewer system in the community of Mount Ida, which will come into the city after January 1 as the result of annexation. The matter will be taken up by the council at its first session in January.

The council likewise failed to act on a recommendation from City Manager Wallace Lawrence that $2,500 be appropriated for resurfacing Washington street from King to Wythe streets and also on a petition from several citizens living in the vicinity of the alley running from Alfred to Patrick streets between Pendleton and Oronoco streets, asking that an electric light be installed in the alley.

The Banner Laundry was granted a permit to construct an addition to its building at the northwest corner of Oronoco and Alfred streets. A request from Patrick Taylor for a permit to erect a frame building at 428 South Columbus street was received and held over.

Mrs. Laura Hicks, 33 years old, of 1125 King street, was held for action of the grand jury by Judge William S. Snow in Police Court yesterday on a charge of arson, following an investigation into the fire which occurred at her home Labor Day.

City Manager Wallace Lawrence and Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims testified that disconnected fires were found in several sections of the house while burning mattresses were discovered in several bedrooms. They also told the court that kerosene had been sprinkled in other rooms and two bundles of badly scorched hay were found in the basement after the fire.

Neither Lawrence nor Sims, the only witnesses presented at yesterday's hearing, was cross-examined by counsel for the defendant, and Mrs. Hicks was not called to the stand to testify in her own defense. She obtained her release under $5,000 bond for her appearance in Corporation Court.

A similar charge placed against Mrs. Edna Custis, 22, was nolle prossed by Commonwealth's Attorney Albert V. Bryan when the witnesses failed to introduce any testimony implicating her in the alleged crime.

The Alexandria public schools opened yesterday with every indication that the enrollment taken at the various schools will surpass all previous records. Classes are to begin this morning.

Fifteen applicants were elected to membership by Mary Washington Council, No. 4, Daughters of America, last night. Plans were begun for a class initiation on October 9, when the Betsy Ross Council, of Vienna, will confer the degrees upon 30 or 40 local candidates, with the assistance of the Fidelity Council of Washington.

The council decided to change its meeting nights to the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month and also will change its meeting rooms to the Odd Fellows Temple.

Two youths who recently ran away from their homes in Atlantic City were taken into custody by Privates Fred N. Baker and Joseph Suddarth last night while trying to "hitchhike" to Richmond.

The two youngsters, Edward Mooney, 15, of 106 North Georgia avenue, and James Murphy, 15, of 112 North Georgia avenue, are being detained until their parents arrive to take them to their homes.

Arthur Whiteside, colored, who was sentenced by Judge W. S. Snow on Tuesday to serve six months on the city chaingang for violating the prohibition law, made his escape from the gang yesterday morning, when he walked off unnoticed by the guard, James Talbot.

Local police yesterday confiscated 150 gallons of liquor which was captured in recent prohibition arrests. The liquor was poured into the sewer at headquarters.

Funeral services for W. M. Wait, Spanish-American War veteran, who died suddenly at his home at Kendbridge, Va., Wednesday afternoon, will be held from Demaine's mortuary chapel here tomorrow and burial will be in the Arlington National Cemetery. The hour of the services has not been set as yet.

Miss Lucy Wooden, 74 years old, of Warrenton, died at the Sibley Hospital in Washington Wednesday night after a brief illness. The deceased was a sister of Mrs. J. Sid Douglas, 913 Cameron street, from where funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. William Jackson Morton, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, and interment will be in Warrenton.

Mrs. Anne Maria Williams, 80 years old, expired early yesterday at her residence, 403 Wilkes street, leaving three sons. Final rites will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Cunningham, Kennedy & Watkins Funeral Home and burial will be in Union Cemtery. The services will be conducted by the Rev. T. M. Holcomb, pastor of the Free Methodist Church.

Funeral services for Ethan Allen Jones 3d, 22 years old, who died Wednesday night a few hours after suffering a crushed skull in an automobile wreck near Gordonsville, will be held from the residence at 1020 Prince street tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. William Jackson Morton, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, and burial will be in Maryland.

TARIFF BILL FIGHT TO OPEN MONDAY

would have the progressives sponsor this fight on the understanding that they could pick up "many" Democrats.

Several days ago Senator Simmons announced flatly that the Democrats had agreed to support the Thomas resolution, designed to restrict the bill to agriculture. But there have been happenings in the Democratic ranks.

There was a loud cry from Massachusetts, for one thing, asking why the party was showing so much concern for the farmer and thumbing its nose at industry when the farmers of four Southern States had bolted the party and the Bay State had stuck by the presidential nominee.

In addition returning senators, even from the South, have made known that they would not stay out in such a fight. Some of them have a box factory or something to protect in their States.

Thomas Fails to Appear.

At any rate, there has been a running back and forth between the progressives and Senator Simmons the past few days, Simmons insisting that the progressives take over the Thomas resolution, and the progressives insisting that the Democrats go through with it. Thomas, incidentally, has relieved the embarrassment by not putting in his appearance at this session, so nobody could ask him why he did not go ahead with his resolution.

But as late as Wednesday, Borah insisted that regardless of the procedure finally adopted the first skirmish would turn on the move to limit the bill to agriculture.

Senator Robinson said yesterday that "many of us" think this should be done. That would seem to mean a recognition of the fact that the Democrats are not a unit on the question. As to Borah's threat that he may make his recommittal motion at any time, Senator Robinson said that the "many of us" thought this should not be done until the entire bill had been fully debated.

Senator Robinson's theory apparently is that by that time the matter will have so shaped up that he can get some of his senators back, or maybe there would be no need of recommitting the bill at all.

The purpose of recommitting the bill at the outset, however, had been to give the uphill fight over to the Republican regulars. That is, they would be put in position of fighting to get their rates back in, instead of the coalition fighting to get them out of the bill.

Bay State Attack Heeded.

One thing would seem to be clear, and that is that the Senate Democratic leadership has taken heed of the Massachusetts attack recently made on the Democratic National committee here for emphasizing agriculture in the tariff fight, and does not want to be placed too much in the same light.

A successful fight at the outset on the flexible provisions might work wonders on the Democratic morale. There is no reason why the Democrats cannot poll virtually their full strength in this fight.

Before the administrative provisions fight begins Monday, Senator Simmons is to make a motion to have the Senate finance committee get the income tax returns of any taxpayer that the Senate needs in the tariff discussion. The regulars will oppose this, but it will concededly be adopted.

There is a threat from the regulars' ranks that if the Democrats carry this exposure of tax returns too far there will be no tariff bill, but that is something rather nebulous as yet.

attorney's office and at the instance of others the Bankers Association began a thorough investigation.

The Denver banks insisted they had not sent the telegrams authorizing the New York institutions to deposit money to the account of the Telluride Bank.

The cashier's checks had apparently been signed in blank by the cashier of the Telluride Bank before he went away on vacation. The Bankers Association reached him by long distance telephone and was told that Waggoner was en route to New York on August 30 when the telegrams were sent from Denver and that he was still believed to be in New York. The association said that Waggoner was seen here by persons who know him on August 31, but not since then.

The district attorney's office sent out a general alarm for Waggoner, or his double, in an effort to find out what it was all about and the Bankers Association hired private detectives to take up the trail and follow it all over the country if necessary.

In the meantime the certified checks were still at large and as no complaint has been received from the depositing banks the Chase Bank has made no move to stop payment.

DELEGATES NAMED BY VIRGINIA LEGION

Prizes Awarded at Closing Session of Convention in Petersburg.

PAJAMA - PARADERS WIN

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Sept. 5.—Before the eleventh annual State convention of the American Legion came to a close yesterday afternoon, the following delegates and alternates to the next national convention were named: First district, R. H. Vimerman, Newport News, delegate; G. M. Harrison, Fredericksburg, alternate; second district, Miss Helen Bucking, Norfolk, delegate; Arthur Burgess, Norfolk, alternate; third district, Raymond E. Maxie, Richmond, delegate; Mr. Stark, Richmond, alternate; fourth district, Dr. E. J. Nixon, of this city, delegate; H. Gerald Saal, also of this city, alternate; fifth district, Hamilton Bass, Danville, delegate; Fletcher Martin, South Boston, alternate.

Also, sixth district, Mr. Robeson, Lynchburg, delegate; W. G. Myers, Roanoke, alternate; seventh district, B. M. Roscel, Winchester, delegate; eighth district, C. E. Reams, jr., Culpeper, delegate; Jones Cox, Alexandria, alternate; ninth district, Dr. W. B. Peters, Appalachia, delegate; O. D. Hanrick, Bristol, alternate; and tenth district, Col. H. L. Ople, delegate, and W. F. Smyth, jr., alternate, both of Staunton.

John J. Wicker, Richmond, and Nelson Overton, Newport News, were elected delegates at large, and Norman Cole, Richmond, and Roby C. Thompson, Abingdon, alternates.

An interesting feature of the closing session was the awarding of prizes, valued at $300. Among them were three silver cups. Post No. 47, of Roanoke, won the Post Commander Cup for having the largest membership increase. The Stafford Cup went to the sixth district. The ninth district cup was awarded to Bland Post No. 20. Post No. 10, Danville, carried off the $50 membership prize.

Miss Beulah Vaughan won $25 for the best essay on national defense. The Newport News Drum and Bugle Corps received $50 for best drum corps. To Bridgewater Post Band went $50 for the best band and $25 to Hampton Roads Post 31, members of which wore pajamas in the parade Tuesday afternoon, for being the most unique delegation.

U. S. CLERKS GROUP REELECTS STEWARD

more in the way of inducements, so the outcome is still very much in doubt.

President Steward and Secretary-Treasurer McNally are the only salaried officers in the federation, the nine vice presidents all serving without pay. All of these were reelected today.

They were John Fitzgerald, of Brooklyn, N. Y., first vice president; L. R. Bentley, New Orleans, second vice president; Lee R. Whitney, Milwaukee, third vice president; Charles L. Wiegand, Baltimore, fourth vice president; J. P. Thompson, San Francisco, fifth vice president; Thomas W. Gould, Cleveland, sixth vice president; M. J. Hines, Leavenworth, Kans., seventh vice president; William J. Sleep, Boston, eighth vice president, and Walter P. Taylor, Tucson, Ariz., ninth vice president.

The election followed a session devoted to a discussion of organization problems. Case after case was cited to show the value of employes banding together to get what they deserve in the way of increased pay, better hours and better working conditions.

Ralph Priddy, of Anchorage, Alaska, the delegate who traveled farthest to come here, told the convention that the Federal employes in his territory are flocking to the banner of the federation.

In order to see and talk to these employes, Priddy recently obtained an airplane in which he expects to tour the entire territory. It would not be possible for him to visit them otherwise as many of them are located miles from any railroad.

A number of resolutions remain to be acted on by the convention including one indorsing a uniform leave law. These will be taken up today and it is expected that by tonight the business of the convention will be over.

OPPOSITION VOICED TO ROOT FORMULA

'one war at a time,' and I am now dealing with the tariff."

These three senators originally opposed American adherence to the court.

The note of the Secretary of State to the secretary general of the League of Nations gave the first definite word from the Hoover administration on the Root formula. In that note Mr. Stimson said he considered the new basis for American adherence to the court "would effectively meet the objections represented in the reservations of the United States Senate and would constitute a satisfactory basis for the adherence of the United States to the protocol."

The question at issue is the American reservation to its adherence which stipulated that the world court should render no advisory opinion on matters in which America was interested without the consent of this Nation. The other powers declined to accept that.

Elihu Root with a committee of international jurists worked out a revision of that reservation in the closing days of the Coolidge administration. A committee of the other interested nations at the League of Nations yesterday indorsed the Root formula and the league assembly is expected to ratify it next week.

Senator Moses said he thought "the fifth Swanson reservation is clear and unmistakable and expresses what the Senate and the country desire."

"The Root formula I regard as nebulous and complicated," he continued. "If, however, as Mr. Stimson asserts, the Root formula and the fifth Swanson reservation are the same, then the simple method of dealing with the problem is to have the other signatories accept the fifth Swanson reservation. Then everything will be lovely."

Senator Swanson (Democrat), of Virginia, the author of the reservation in dispute, has indicated his acceptance of the Root modification. General support for the Root formula also is expected from that part of the two-thirds of the Senate which voted three years ago for American adherence to the court with reservations. Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, has announced his approval of it.

YOUNG BRIDE ASKS TIE BE DISSOLVED

The colonel is the legal guardian of his daughter, he tells the court.

Evidence that a hearing on the petition might be granted before the colonel's departure was seen yesterday when, shortly after the bill was filed, Justice Frederick L. Siddons signed an order naming Samuel F. Beach as guardian ad litem for the husband.

The young bride and her father are represented by Attorney Christopher B. Garnett.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

HEARINGS ON ZONING WILL BE POSTPONED

Montgomery Commissioners Will Await the Return of Board President.

CIVIC WORKERS TO MEET

Three zoning hearings scheduled for tonight at the Bethesda county building will be postponed, according to an announcement yesterday by Lacy Shaw, vice president of the Montgomery County Board of Commissioners. The zoning hearing will be called as a matter of form and then adjourned until the following Friday evening because of the absence from the city of Dr. Benjamin Perry, president of the board of commissioners.

The most important subject at the hearing will be a petition by Congressional Airport, Inc., for rezoning of the 300 front feet of its property at Halpine in order that a field office and gasoline station can be erected. This hearing is expected to attract a large number of protestants, as there is considerable sentiment against the amendment in that territory.

Other hearings will be held on changes in zoning from residential to commercial of several tracts in the suburban area.

The first meeting of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, following the summer recess, will be held next Monday night at the Bethesda School, Wilson lane near the old Georgetown road, according to an announcement by G. M. Kile, corresponding secretary. Col. A. B. Barber, president of the federation, will ask for reports from all standing and special committees as to their activities during the summer recess. Resolutions referred to the federation by local citizens' associations since the May meeting will be presented delegates or committee chairmen.

Among other outstanding subjects on which action may be taken are alleged gas rate discrimination to be reported by the legislation and legal action committee, of which J. Bond Smith is chairman; telephone rates and street car merger plans affecting Montgomery County, by the public utilities committee, headed by Col. J. L. Gilbreth; roads construction and highway marking plans, by the roads, streets and bridges committee, Charles W. Hopkins, chairman; traffic penalties by the committee on public safety, Stephen James, chairman; sanitary programs by the committee on sanitation and public health, Aubrey B. Carter, chairman; educational subjects by the schools committee, S. H. Miller, chairman; cooperation between Montgomery County organizations and the Washington Community Chest, by the charities and social service committee, of which R. E. Bondy is chairman; reports by the committee on internal county improvement, headed by Charles H. Merryman.

O. M. Kile, chairman of the publicity committee, will report on the progress of the Greater Washington advertising plan, and Mrs. George V. Chandler, chairman of the special committee for cooperation with women's clubs, will report on the progress of the free county library project. George P. Sacks, chairman of the special committee, will report on the effort to have the Washington Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce accept the principle of eliminating discrimination resulting from the existence of the Maryland District line, and George H. Lamar will report for the special committee on the study of the county government.

The Montgomery County chapter of the American Red Cross will meet in the Rockville High School this afternoon, when Miss Ruth Braden, nutrition expert, will outline plans of the nutrition committee for the ensuing season.

The annual preschool conference of the teachers of the Montgomery County public schools will be held Monday at the Rockville High School to consider subjects pertaining to the opening of the county schools next Wednesday, according to an announcement by Superintendent of Schools Edwin W. Broome.

The teachers will work in their classrooms Tuesday preparing for the opening Wednesday. Some of the schools are expected to be crowded in the first part of the school year, but this condition will be relieved by the building program now in progress, Mr. Broome said. All vacancies in the school system have been filled.

A total of 677 legal instruments was filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court at Rockville in August, according to Preston B. Ray, clerk of the circuit court. They were divided as follows: 174 deeds, 131 mortgages, 105 deeds of trust, 267 bills of sale.

Bids for the construction of two important sections of concrete shoulders and macadam resurfacing in the Layhill-Norbeck-Sandy Spring area of Montgomery County have been asked by the Maryland State Roads Commission. Bids will be received at the office of the commission in Baltimore until noon September 17, when they will be publicly opened.

One section of State highway along the Plummer's Corner-Norbeck road from Redland toward Norbeck, a distance of one mile, and from Norbeck toward Redland, one mile, making a total of two miles, will be equipped with concrete shoulders. A section of the Glenmont-Sandy Spring road from Layhill to Sandy Spring, a distance of three miles, will be resurfaced with penetration macadam.

The Montgomery County Suburban Garden Club will meet tonight at the Somerset School. The principal subject of discussion is expected to be plans for the forthcoming entry of the club in the exhibition of the San Leandro Dahlia Society at San Leandro, Calif., on September 14.

The Montgomery County Club will ship its exhibit of dahlias by air mail. The result of the experiment will be of great interest, since success will demonstrate the practicability of shipping highly perishable articles from coast to coast.

The exhibit will bear the following message: "To the Land of the Golden Gate, with greetings from the Gateway to the West from the National Capital, located at the eastern terminus of the National Old Trails Road within the boundaries of the Montgomery Suburban Garden Club, Chevy Chase, Md."

Preparation of the plans for the exhibit are in the hands of Mrs. John A. Fleming, of Drummond; Howard R. Watkins, of Somerset, chairmen, respectively, of the club's committees on exhibition and plant material, and the president of the club, Aubrey B. Carter, of Chevy Chase Terrace.

Troops at Marion Are Urged to Quit

Strikers Circulate Bills Against Doing "Bosses' Dirty Work."

Marion, N. C., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Circulars signed "Committee of Rank and File Workers" were distributed today among the four companies of National Guardsmen called here after a textile strike riot, urging them not to "do the dirty work of the bosses."

"National Guardsmen," it continued, "by breaking our strike you are hurting yourself. If we get lower wages you get lower wages. If our children starve, your children will starve. Breaking our strike means that you are cutting your own throats. Fellow workers in uniform, don't do the dirty work of the bosses. Refuse to act as strike breakers. Support the strike of the Clinchfield textile workers."

The day brought no outward developments looking toward settlement of the strikes.

Fire Destroys House; Large Family Homeless

Special to The Washington Post.

Great Cacapon, W. Va., Sept. 5.—Fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Largent, beyond Cedar Point, near here, yesterday, with total loss of home and contents. No assistance was near.

The fire, of undetermined origin, had made much headway before detected by one of the children. The husband, in ill health, had not been at work for several months. There are eight children in the family, all made homeless. Money sent a few days ago by an older child to clothe the younger children for school was destroyed in the fire. The loss was put at $2,000, with no insurance.

Checks Will Be Mailed Fair Exhibit Winners

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 5.—Persons who won premiums at the sixty-first annual Winchester Fair last week will be paid in full, it was announced today by B. F. Arthur, jr., treasurer, who said checks would be mailed to winners in a few days.

Ideal "fair" weather prevailed the entire week, resulting in increased attendance and receipts from all sources. Officers of the society said the exhibition was perhaps the best in every respect in recent years, and they were appreciative of the public's support and interest.

PUPIL INSURANCE ISSUE IN FAIRFAX

County School Board to Ask State Group for Opinion on Subject.

ELGIN TO HAVE TEACHER

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
Phone Clarendon 919-J-1.

The question of whether the Fairfax County School Board is morally bound to carry liability insurance to protect the children who ride to and from school was discussed at length at a meeting of the board yesterday. It was finally decided to ask the opinion of the State Board of Education on the advisability of carrying such insurance. The board has not carried such insurance for more than three years.

A solution was sought at the meeting to a problem of distribution of district school funds as a result of the new State law which on July 1 consolidated the seven school areas of the county into one district. Some of the districts which had money on hand are protesting at the order to pool the funds for equal distribution.

The board agreed to provide a teacher for the Elgin School, near Clifton, on condition that an average attendance of 15 children a day be maintained. A committee from the Elgin community which appeared before the board chose the teacher in preference to the offer of transportation to the Clifton School. There was no school at Elgin last year.

A resolution was adopted to assist the Bailey's Cross Roads School in the expense of transportation to the Lee-Jackson School at Falls Church to the extent of $30 a month. Heretofore this transportation has been paid by parents of the pupils.

The county superintendent of schools was authorized to buy the books to cooperate in the State campaign against illiteracy and also to provide the books which the teachers are required to read each year in order to renew their certificates.

The request of money to paint the interior of the Oakton School was denied because of the already heavy expenses of the school.

Payment of $31 annually for each of the Fairfax pupils who attend the Occoquan High School in Prince William County was authorized. These five children live only 5 miles from the Occoquan School, while they are 18 miles from the Fairfax schools.

Marriage licenses issued this week are as follows: Emmett Carter, 24 years old, of 1222 King street, Alexandria, and Margaret E. Fletcher, 22, of Mount Vernon; Peter W. Duvall, 26, and Esther Downing, 22, both of Croom, Md.

Mule Dies in $5,000 Blaze Destroying Barn

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Sept. 5.—Fire late last night destroyed the garage and barn, with the latter's contents, including 700 new barrels, some farm implements, a quantity of hay and one mule, on the plant of the Red Apple Orchard Co., five miles west of here.

The fire department here answered a call, but lack of water and the rapid headway of the flames made its efforts futile. The origin of the fire is undetermined. One mule escaped from its stall. The loss is put at $5,000.

VIRGINIA ILLITERACY WAR TO BE OPENED

"Moonlight" Schools Part of Plan to Help Adults With No Education.

SPEAKERS TO MAKE TOUR

Richmond, Va., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—A program to wipe out illiteracy in Virginia will be stressed at teachers' institutes being held throughout the State this month and next.

According to T. D. Eason, secretary of the State Board of Education, county superintendents and teachers will be called on to canvass their areas to determine who are the illiterates, both of school age and among adults. To provide instruction for the uneducated adults "moonlight" schools are to be encouraged.

In a number of cases speakers are to be provided by the State Department of Education to discuss the illiteracy problem, among other educational subjects, at the teachers' institutes, and the State department has published a circular to guide superintendents and others interested in carrying out the program. The circular includes illiteracy statistics for each county.

Need of Guidance Stressed.

The need for educational guidance also will be stressed at the institutes, Eason said. In an effort to better direct pupils into lines of endeavor to which they are best fitted, C. J. Hyslup, a former school superintendent with experience in vocational guidance, has been added to the State staff as assistant supervisor of trade and industrial education. He will devote a large part of his time to furthering the educational guidance program.

Department staff speakers on the programs of the various institutes are announced by Eason as follows:

Superintendent of Public Instruction Harris Hart—Wythe County at Wytheville, September 4; Smith County at Marion, September 6; Prince George County at Hopewell, September 11; Spottsylvania County at Fredricksburg, September 17; King George County at Fredericksburg, September 16.

T. D. Eason, secretary of the board of education—Chesterfield County at Chester, September 4; Albemarle County at Charlottesville, September 5; Accomac County at Parkleys, September 11; Pittsylvania County at Chatham, September 30.

Peters to Make Jaunt.

D. W. Peters, supervisor of secondary education—Campbell County at Rustburg, September 9; Essex County at Tappahanock, September 6; King and Queen County at King and Queen County Courthouse, September 7; Franklin County at Rocky Mount, October 7; Prince Edward County at Farmville, second week in September.

B. H. Van Oot, supervisor of trade and industrial education—King William County at Central High School, September 5; Dinwiddie County at Dinwiddie, September 10.

C. J. Hyslup, assistant supervisor of trade and industrial education—Pulaski County at Pulaski, September 4; Northumberland County at Heathsville, September 9; Lancaster County at Lancaster, September 9; King George County at Fredericksburg, September 16; Wythe County at Wytheville, September 23.

E. E. Worrell, supervisor of rural education—Caroline County at Bowling Green, September 25; Bath County at Warm Springs, October 11.

Man Held as Bigamist Seeks to Quash Charge

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Sept. 5.—Counsel retained to defend James Calvert will make an effort to quash an indictment chargnig him with bigamy when the case is called in the corporation court Monday.

Calvert is said to have married Mrs. Maude Bray when he already had a wife. His contention will be that his first wife already had a husband living when Calvert married her, so that in reality a legal marriage was never contracted. In the meantime, counsel for Mrs. Calvert is preparing her defense, for she also is indicted for bigamy, it being claimed that her first husband was living when she married Calvert.

Council at Winchester Reelects City Officials

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 5.—The city council last night reelected W. A. Baker, president; Charles H. Harper, vice president, and Frank H. Krebs, clerk.

Baker was recently nominated by Democrats for city treasurer and if he is elected at the November election, he will resign as a member of the council, with which he has been identified some years.

Funds for Rapidan School Are Sought

Aged Mountaineer Campaigns to Carry Out Contract With Hoover.

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Sept. 5.—Collaborating with President Hoover to raise $1,200 with which to build a schoolhouse for mountain children near the Hoover fishing lodge on the Rapidan River, Martin Buracker, typical mountain resident, 70 years old, is making an exhaustive campaign throughout the region to carry out his part of the contract.

Buracker is making a house-to-house canvass to raise his part of the money. The houses in many places are 2 and 3 miles apart, though every family is being visited. Contributions run from 5 cents to $2 and $3. Other contributions are one, two and three days' work on the school building.

Buracker, according to a conference held with President Hoover at the latter's fishing lodge a few days ago, agreed to head a local committee to raise the schoolhouse building fund if the President would agree to head a national committee for the purpose.

Buracker is the father of 14-year-old Ray Buracker, who a few days ago pressed his way into President Hoover's fishing lodge and presented the Chief Executive with a 15-pound possum. In talking with the boy, President Hoover was impressed with the lack of school facilities for many of the children living in the Blue Ridge. The boy's conference with Hoover gave the school building project a national and local send-off.

Apartment hunting is far from a pleasant task. Why not look in the classified columns of The Washington Post. Perhaps the very place you are looking for is advertised today.

ARLINGTON CHAMBER IS GIVEN NEW HOME

Prominent Clarendon Man Donates Quarters in Large Building.

GROUP TO MOVE AT ONCE

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Appreciating accomplishments of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce since its organization three years ago and its value to the county as a whole in aiding in its development, Ashton C. Jones, member of the board of directors and one of the leaders in its organization, presented to the board, at its meeting held yesterday, spacious quarters in the new building now under construction by him, part of which has been completed, to be known as the Reese Building, on Wilson boulevard at Clarendon.

Not only did Jones express confidence in the growth of the chamber of commerce, but in making the offer, which was promptly unanimously accepted, he said: "The chamber of commerce should be on the ground floor of any building."

With the completion of this building by Jones he will have constructed in the heart of Clarendon and fronting on the Wilson boulevard three modern buildings, estimated to have cost more than $160,000.

Chamber Moves Soon.

The offices of the chamber of commerce, which are now located on the second floor of one of the buildings erected by Jones, will be moved to its new quarters on the block below immediately, according to Executive Secretary P. P. Woodbridge.

E. H. Allen, president of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, appeared before the board and extended an invitation to the members as a body to attend "Chamber of Commerce Day" at the Fairfax County Fair, which has been set for Thursday, September 12.

Allen announced that chambers of commerce will be in attendance from Alexandria, Fairfax, Loudon and Prince William Counties, and that a special program for the day has been arranged.

The invitation was accepted and Allen was assured of a good attendance from Arlington County.

Henry C. Morris, chairman of the five-year development program, announced that the committee has made much progress, and that a full report of activities will be submitted at the next meeting.

Fail to Meet Pledge.

The report as submitted by Louis C. Carl, chairman of the finance committee, shows that the organization is being embarrassed by failure of many of the members to meet their pledges promptly.

The report sets forth that if the present membership pledges could be collected, there would be more than sufficient funds to pay all liabilities and operating expenses until the end of the year.

The report was adopted and Secretary Woodbridge announced that recommendation of the committee will be carried out in regard to collection of all outstanding pledges.

Among the new members elected yesterday were, Otto Blankenhorn, John H. Olcott, and the Washington Petroleum Products Co.

The body of John Graninger, 65 years old, was found yesterday afternoon in a strip of woods within 500 feet of his home on York street, Fort Myer Heights, by Charles Gilbert, who with his dog, was returning through the woods to his home on Alexander avenue.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields, with officers Harry L. Woodyard and C. W. Carr in company with the coroner, Dr. B. M. Swain, made an investigation and the coroner issued a certificate of death due to heart trouble.

I. N. Rich, a neighbor, learning of what had happened went to the woods and also identified the body. He said that about noon his grandchild, Allen Ensign, 6 years old, had started down the hill with Graninger and soon returned, as Graninger had continued to the store. He also told police that for several months the man had complained of not feeling well.

He made his home with his son, George Graninger, and has a daughter, Mrs. William Schmidt, living in Washington.

The body was removed to the C. J. Ives undertaking establishment in Clarendon.

The executive committee of "The Back-to-the-District Association," meeting last night at the home of the vice president, Richard L. Eacho, at Ashton Heights, completed its plans for the mass meeting to be held in the Virginia Highlands Community House, on Frazier avenue, Wednesday night, September 11.

—Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, was announced as the principal speaker.

A report was received from J. Cloyd Byars that Admiral R. E. Coontz, U. S. N., retired, who has recently returned from the annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, reports that at the convention a resolution favoring the return of Arlington County to the District of Columbia was adopted.

Richard L. Eacho, chairman of the membership committee, reported that the membership is increasing daily; that since the last meeting of the committee, two weeks ago, 50 new names have been added to the membership roll.

The president, Dr. Frank T. Stone, calls upon all citizens in the county interested in the movement and anxious to learn what it means to Arlington County to attend the mass meeting and obtain first-hand information.

Branding newspapers of Virginia as a "machine-controlled press," J. Cloyd Byars, former State senator and prominent Independent Democratic worker, yesterday issued a statement charging the papers with preaching "party regularity among Virginia Democrats" at the expense of demanding political integrity on the part of Democratic organization workers.

"If the press of Virginia," Byars' statement read, "had been as diligent in its demands for political integrity on the part of the organization leaders as it has been energetic in preaching party regularity to the voters, there probably would have been no occasion for the independent Democratic movement.

"This movement on the part of the thinking Democrats is not a one-man affair to satisfy a personal grudge against a United States senator, as some of the machine-controlled papers of Virginia pretend to believe. It is a revolt against the organization leaders in Virginia who have misrepresented Virginia Democracy both in national conventions and in State and national legislation, and have allowed political conditions to arise and remain which Virginians can no longer tolerate."

"In 1912 the Norfolk convention manipulated by the State machine, railroaded through an anti-Wilson delegation which voted with Tammany Hall against Woodrow Wilson, the solid choice of Virginia Democrats. The leaders refused to support McAdoo in San Francisco in 1920, and again in 1924 the vote of the delegation, led by Harry Flood Byrd, now governor, was cast to help Tammany Hall and Al Smith again defeat McAdoo."

"It was the political upheaval" in 1928, however, culminating a long line of abuses, which precipitated the revolution in Virginia, the inevitable result of which will be the involuntary retirement of the present leaders from party control and the accession of the ticket headed by William Mosley Brown."

Byars is chairman of the Eighth Congressional District Independent Democratic Organization.

The monthly report, as given out yesterday by the county clerk, William H. Duncan, shows that during the month of August there were recorded 413 deeds, taxes on deeds collected for the State amounted to $2,008.42; wills and administrations, 5, taxes, $15.40; chancery suits, 33, taxes collected, $42; actions at law, 14, taxes, $11; fines collected during the month on prohibition cases totaled $230; the costs amounted to $464; fines in cases other than prohibition were $90.50 with the costs amounting to $145.75. Delinquent real estate taxes collected going to the State amounted to $94.55. Delinquent real estate taxes going into the county treasury amounted to $870.76.

According to an announcement given out last night by William L. Bragg, chairman of the Virginia Park and Planning Commission, there will be a special meeting of the commission held at the Arlington County Courthouse next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at which time the commission will consider the application made to the Arlington County Zoning Commission by the Sun Oil Co. of Philadelphia for a permit to establish on the Lee Highway in Rosslyn, north of the Key Bridge, a distribution plant for petroleum products.

Lieut. Walter Hinton, of Washington, honor guest of the Arlington County Monarch Club at its meeting yesterday, gave an interesting account of his flight as the pilot of the famous NC-4 in its first transatlantic flight and of his reception by the Prince of Wales.

He also spoke at length of his four days without food and water in the runaway balloon in December, 1923.

After four days of blowing around the bag landed in some dense woods in Canada on the shores of Hudson Bay, out of sight of all civilization.

That section of the Lee Highway from the Military road to Preston avenue was opened to traffic yesterday.

The highway is being widened from the People's State Bank, in Cherrydale, to a point opposite the colored school at Hall's Hill.

With the work being rushed by the contractors, Corson & Gruman, of Washington, it is expected that that section from Preston avenue as far as the Glebe road will be completed and opened to traffic the early part of next week if not by Sunday of this week.

The board of directors of the Arlington Fairfax Railway held its monthly meeting yesterday in the offices of the secretary, Charles T. Jesse, opposite the county courthouse.

Continuing its policy of making improvements around its property, paying special attention to the stations along the line, the publicity committee, of which Dr. Frank T. Stone is the chairman, was authorized to make necessary improvements in and around the company's station and waiting room at Vienna.

The Arlington County Zoning Commission will hold a special meeting today at 1:30 o'clock at the county courthouse to make further study of the maps being prepared in the county engineer's office.

Tomorrow night at 7:30 the commission will hold its usual weekly conference in the rooms of the county board of supervisors, at which time action will be taken on applications now pending before the commission for permits for new buildings.

The Arlington Rotary Club held its weekly meeting yesterday at the Washington Golf and Country Club, with Vice President Keith A. Brumback presiding, in the absence of the president, Dr. R. N. Sutton.

Julian Burrus, president of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and governor of District No. 36 of Virginia, addressing the club, it being among the youngest clubs in the State, congratulated the officers and members on the wonderful growth since its organization of only a few months and predicted a most successful future for it.

Preceding the luncheon, Mr. Burrus held a joint conference with the committee chairmen, going over the duties of each of the committees.

Among the visiting Rotarians were John G. Bailhache, of Arizona; R. B. Whitney, of Bradenton, Fla., and B. A. Bowles, vice president of the Potomac Savings Bank and a member of the Washington Club.

The Arlington Volunteer Fire Department meeting last night received reports from the fire marshal that during the month of August the department responded to seven alarms with the total damages amounting to $2,110.

The department's bowling team will start its season Saturday night, September 21.

Several changes in by-laws were considered and will be voted upon at the October meeting.

Severe Itching, Burning Blisters on Face. Healed by Cuticura.

"My trouble began with little blisters breaking out on my face and neck. The itching and burning were so severe that I used to scratch. Later the blisters began to fester and caused sore eruptions. I was very restless at night. The trouble lasted two months.

"I tried other remedies but without success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two and a half boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Bertha Barnes, Box 92, Burnsville, Miss., Feb. 12, 1929.

DEMOCRATS DIVIDED.

Senate Democrats and Republican insurgents have reached "an understanding as to procedure" in their hopes of sabotaging the tariff bill. This understanding, it is reported, contemplates a demand that the administrative features of the bill shall be considered first.

The plan to make a fight to confine the bill to agricultural relief seems to have been abandoned.

This change of strategy on the part of the Democratic-insurgent coalition reveals only too clearly that the Democratic party can not hold its ranks intact in the tariff fight. Just how many Democrats have refused to oppose revision of the industrial schedules is not disclosed, but it is evident that the coalition has struck an insuperable obstacle. Democrats who represent strong industrial communities, like Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, will not join in the absurd scheme to strip the tariff bill of all revisions except those relating to agriculture.

If this scheme should succeed in the Senate it would mean the defeat of the tariff bill, dragging down agricultural relief with it. The Western insurgents who pose as special champions of the farmer would have dealt agriculture a deadly blow by denying a square deal to industry. The Republican House would never permit a purely agricultural revision to pass.

The pressure for protection to Southern industries is having its effect upon senators from the South. Those who oppose just and honest revision for the benefit of industry as well as agriculture find themselves sadly out of touch with their constituents. These Southern Democrats would like to play politics with the tariff, for the sake of putting the Republican party in the hole, but they would pay too high a price for that amusement if they should vote against duties aimed to protect Southern industry. Their flirtation with disgruntled Republican insurgents may be delightful, but it is likely to be followed by stern reprisals from forsaken Southern industry.

The great change in the South is manifesting itself in the breakdown of the unnatural coalition between Southern Democrats and Western Republicans. The South is now industrial as well as agricultural. The welfare of the South depends in large measure upon the good sense of its representatives in the Senate. If they intend to cooperate in framing a tariff bill that will insure the protection of Southern labor and industry they can not follow the lead of Republican insurgents in the attempt to strike out all industrial changes.

The finance committee is entitled to the support of the majority in proposing a more certain and accurate method of appraising imports, to the end that foreign competitors shall not have an advantage over American producers. This proposal affects Southern as well as Northern industry, and it takes care of the interests of American agriculture as well. No tariff is fair unless it imposes a duty upon foreign goods that will enable American producers to compete. The existing methods which attempt to establish these fair conditions are not successful. There must be a change, as President Hoover has pointed out. The change that is now proposed is for the protection of American industry, labor and agriculture, without discrimination between sections. It will be very difficult for any senator, however ingenious he may be in trying to conceal his anti-American attitude, to take the side of foreign competitors against American producers and farmers.

The real struggle will come, of course, when rates are considered. These will be disposed of, perhaps one by one, and it is too much to expect that all industries, all agricultural interests, and all American workers will be given a square deal in every vote. But there should be no difficulty in establishing the principle that all American interests are entitled to protection against ruinous foreign competition in the home market. When Democratic and insurgent senators take a position against the general welfare they are on dangerous ground, indeed.

THE GASTONIA JURY.

A jury to try the sixteen persons accused of murdering Chief of Police Aderholt, of Gastonia, has finally been completed at Charlotte, N. C., after seven days of gruelling examinations. Eleven attorneys for the prosecution and nine for the defense have spent a week trying to get jurors favorable to their own points of view. The State utilized 54 of a possible 58 peremptory challenges, and the defense, which had a more liberal allowance, dismissed 128 prospective jurors without apparent cause. Three special panels were drawn for the occasion, and 385 veniremen were actually examined before the jury box was filled.

Thus far it is the jury system that has been on trial. The case is attracting nation-wide attention, and its outcome is certain to have a bearing on the future use of juries. The difficulty and expense of obtaining a satisfactory jury has been amply illustrated. And now that the jury box has been finally filled with four farmers, two cotton mill workers, a steel worker, news vendor, union carpenter, grocer, railroad clerk and machinist charges that the defense has obtained a prolabor jury are heard. Regardless of the merits or demerits of the jury selected, the case illustrates the need for reform in the method of selecting juries.

Attorneys for the prosecution and the defense engage in a battle of wits which determines who shall sit in judgment on the accused. Then the same attorneys match their skill in presenting evidence to favor their side of the case. A trial becomes not a cooperative effort to ascertain the truth and proceed in accordance therewith, but a struggle in which the cleverest attorneys usually win. It is not surprising that there is widespread demand for reform.

Practical thinkers have no patience with a system which is subject to so much abuse. The State spends large sums of money sifting out men for jury service and often ends by seating the least competent in the jury box. Scientific men plan to change this by substituting a board of examiners made up chiefly of psychiatrists. Instead of selecting men who were wholly uninformed on the case at bar, the court would entrust judgment to men trained to the problems of human nature and competent to prescribe a remedy.

The American people are not willing to give up the jury system. Most of the schemes which have been proposed to take its place are untried, and consequently are considered unreliable. But the need for improvement is imperative. The State which leads off with a practical reform in the method of choosing juries will be rendering an invaluable service to the country.

TARIFF SQUEALING.

As the tariff bill is laid before the Senate, lobbyists, importers, free traders, foreign interests and internationalists redouble their fire against it. There are, no doubt, some valid arguments against a few of the rates, but the great bulk of criticism aimed at the revised tariff measure is merely idle palaver. Foremost among this class of critics are those who envisage American trade and the peace of the world being destroyed by changes in the duty on carrots and cement.

The visit of a British economic delegation to Argentina has been represented to the American people as a direct result of increased duties on agricultural products. Argentina is anxious to shut out American trade, it is argued, and now is the psychological time for the British to capture the market from Americans. This case is cited as an example of how the United States is losing its world trade because of the proposed tariff changes. A dispatch from Buenos Aires puts the matter in quite a different light. It is explained that American methods of marketing are so superior that even if Argentina were as angry as the tariff sharpers report, Britain could make little headway in supplanting American trade.

A recent address by Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, advanced the stupendous thought that the peace of the world would be "mightily advanced or gravely compromised" by the impending tariff legislation. He asserted that "the time has long since gone by when tariff legislation was purely a domestic matter." In the same paragraph, however, he admits that the "differences of level between the industrial systems of various nations" are too great to permit freedom of international trade. Yet when Congress undertakes to equalize these differences, it is charged with endangering the peace of the world.

Dr. Butler conjures up pictures of a United States of Europe and a British Commonwealth of Nations to compete with this country as trade areas. If such unions could raise the standards of living in the countries affected, they would no doubt prove a stimulus to trade with this country. The advantages of such unions would not lie in the added strength they would have to fight American tariffs, but in the stimulation of trade and industry in the countries themselves. The United States has nothing to fear but everything to gain by the elimination of trade barriers in Europe.

The theory that tariff making is an international matter arises from a belief, prevalent since the war, that the United States owes the rest of the world something. The internationalists are saying, in effect, since you won't cancel the European war debts you must let down your tariff bars and allow the products of cheap European labor to undersell your own. No one in America complains that the high tariff walls of foreign countries are a menace to peace.

Regulation of tariff rates on goods entering this country is the business of Congress alone. American markets are for Americans first. Every nation has the same right to levy on imports whatever duty it chooses. As long as this right is respected and the legislatures of each country act in accordance with the interests of their respective peoples there is a square deal for all.

O BOBBY JONES!

There is widespread gloom in golfdom today. Having won four different times the national amateur championship and having vanquished anything and everything that came his way for the past two years, Bobby Jones has been a popular champion, and his defeat will be felt keenly by golf enthusiasts throughout the country. Nevertheless, the upset of the tournament on the beautiful Pebble Beach course at Del Monte, Calif., will raise hopes in many a breast and in the end will add new zest to the good old game.

Undergraduate lads were responsible for Bobby's undoing from the very beginning of the tournament. In the first 18 holes of the qualifying contest Gibson Dunlap, 21, of Los Angeles, cut under Bobby's 70 with a sensational 69. At the completion of the 36-hole qualifying test the champion was tied with Eugene V. Homans, of Englewood, N. J., another undergraduate. The triumph of youth was completed with the victory of Johnny Goodman, 20-year-old lad, of Omaha, in the opening round of the match play.

Nearly every person who ever swung a club over a sandy tee has a feeling that there is something about golf which supersedes skill and puts a premium on luck. The average golfer plays without a pretense to consistency. The repeated victories of Bobby Jones began to weaken this old tradition, but there has been ample evidence in the 1929 tournament to reinstate it. In the first place the triumphant Goodman was himself eliminated in the second round by an unknown San Francisco lad. George Von Elm, regarded by many as second only to Jones, lost heavily to an Oregon fruit grower. Young Dunlap, who eclipsed the champion at the very beginning, and Homans, who won temporary fame with his tie score, were both eliminated in the first round of match play. The resulting scramble for the title is sufficient evidence that golf is the same old game in high circles and low. Not even the prowess of Bobby Jones has altered it.

DIDN'T MENTION PARITY

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Washington administration circles are plainly of the opinion that Prime Minister MacDonald has been overoptimistic with regard to the early completion of an Anglo-American naval agreement. The divergence between the view expressed in Geneva by the prime minister and the statement made by Secretary of State Stimson after consultation with President Hoover may or may not be important. But it is certainly interesting.

A few days before going to the League of Nations assembly meeting Mr. MacDonald clearly expected that he would be able to announce that an accord had been reached. At the time of his speech on Tuesday afternoon the expected announcement could not be made. But Mr. MacDonald indicated that it would be only a matter of days—that he might have the accord in hand before he left Geneva—which is tonight—or, at the latest, before the assembly adjourned—which would be in the next couple of weeks.

At any rate, according to Mr. MacDonald, the agreement is just around the corner. It is hard to reconcile this view with Secretary Stimson's statement that—.

> In the opinion of those of us who have been working on it on this side, we have been making hopeful progress, but we feel that it will require still a considerable period of hard work on details before an agreement on parity is arrived at.

There is one word in this brief statement which Mr. MacDonald did not mention when he spoke of the "very comprehensive document," containing "something like twenty points," "a document which will establish peace as well as agree to naval ratios." That word is "parity." And that term constitutes the end and aim of all these discussions so far as America is concerned. On the basis of naval equality, the other nineteen points must stand. Without naval equality, any agreement, no matter how "comprehensive," must inevitably fail.

It can hardly be that Mr. MacDonald does not comprehend this vital fact. Perhaps, as has been intimated, naval parity is one of the three points of the twenty which were mentioned as still "outstanding." If agreement has been impossible on this point, the feeling in Washington that Mr. MacDonald is overoptimistic seems justified.

Naval parity with the United States is not essential in British policy. As the British Prime Minister declared, "The British government declines absolutely to build up against the United States." This declaration supposedly would stand even though the United States should have a navy stronger than Great Britain's. It has been reiterated time and again that American naval expansion is of no concern to England, and there has been more than one hint of resentment that Americans should insist on dragging this "unimportant" parity question into all the discussions.

For the United States, naval equality is a fundamental and absolute necessity. It will be attained with or without agreement with Great Britain. The wisdom of acting through mutual agreement is obvious, and President Hoover has approached the problem with a "yardstick" for establishing naval equivalents and with the idea of drawing a distinction between policing and combat vessels. It was his hope that, mathematical parity being impossible, substantial parity might be reached, a rough-and-ready equivalence which would appeal to American common sense as fair enough.

If the British still regard parity as an unimportant item which has only a minor bearing upon the larger issues involved in Anglo-American relations, they are badly mistaken. If Mr. MacDonald based his announcement that agreement is a matter of a few days upon the belief that this item can be glozed over, he has been guilty of being a bit premature, at least.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE EXPERIMENTAL GOLFER.

He sank a putt from off the green,
As good a putt as I'd ever seen,
And I noticed his stance as he found the line
Was a totally different thing from mine.
"That fellow can certainly putt," thought I;
"Perhaps his is a method I ought to try."
So I stood as did he, all doubled up,
But never a putt of mine found the cup.

Next day I played with another chap
Who sank his putts with a gentle tap.
I watched him closely and noticed that
He always stood with his left foot flat.
He had what looked like an awkward style,
But he sank his putts, and it seemed worth while,
So I tried to copy his method; but
I never ran down a single putt.

Oh, many's the style that I've struggled with!
I've watched Walter Hagen and Horton Smith,
But the stroke which gives them a birdie three
Somehow or other won't work for me.
I've changed my method, I've changed my grip,
I've shifted my weight and I've turned my hip.
But I may get sense at some distant day
And decide to putt in my own sweet way.

Fat Hens Roost Low and Something Gets Them.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

HISTORY is the story of man's blind efforts to destroy himself, and the efforts of Nature or Providence to save him.

The history of all civilizations is the same. Each one in turn is built by law and destroyed by law.

A primitive and vigorous people labors to make itself prosperous. When it accumulates riches, its surplus is used to develop the arts and buy luxuries.

Thus far all is well. A natural growth has resulted in a ripe product. The law of progress has done its work.

But now the process of decay begins. Wealth makes life easy and an easy life results in softness. What is worse, idleness and the effort to escape boredom weaken moral fiber.

The civilization is ready for the reaper. At the top is foolish luxury, vicious idleness, corrupt officialdom, intellectual snobbery, scorn of the common people and the common virtues. At the bottom is squalor and some form of slavery.

Then another people—a tribe of barbarians—arrives on the scene to overthrow and pillage the fat ones. A civilization has fallen before an invader.

But always this tragedy is a blessing in disguise. The invaders remain to absorb the culture of their victim, and the conquered people receive an infusion of new and vigorous blood to renew their lease of life.

That is the story of all history—of Egypt, Greece, Rome. The law of progress writes the history. And step follows step in such regular order that any nation's history may be prophesied in full before half of it is completed.

America has been kept alive and vigorous by means of new blood from Europe—sturdy, virile peasant blood for the most part.

Now immigration is limited and the nation must depend upon its own resources.

It faces a struggle between two classes—the rich and idle at the top, those who call themselves the intelligentia and scoff at "hicks" and the old-fashioned standards of virtue, and on the other hand the sturdy common people who are now as always the custodians and defenders of morality and justice and decency.

If the soft ones win, America is doomed to go the way of Egypt, Greece and Rome. It is the law.

If the sturdy, simple, industrious and moral class wins, this civilization will pass the crisis and survive.

The law never fails. To doubt it is to confess ignorance of history.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MR. HOOVER GETS A LITTLE NOISE.

("President Hoover refused to allow carpenters remodeling the executive offices to be stopped during his office hours. He stated that he liked industry about him."—News item.)

Scene: The President's Office.

President—I just can't seem to get going. What do you suppose is the trouble?

Secretary—I don't know, sir. Maybe you're not in the mood for work.

President—I'm always in the mood for work. Ask anybody.

Secretary—Possibly you're a little tired.

President (quite suddenly): I have it! I know what it is!

Secretary—What is it?

President—Those carpenters.

Secretary—What about them, sir?

President (disappointedly)—They're not hammering.

Secretary—Of course not, sir. I had them cease hammering.

President (indignantly)—You had the carpenters cease hammering? You deliberately stopped them on a day like this when I've more matters to attend to than I've had in a month?

Secretary (apologetically)—I thought it would annoy you and . . .

President—Hammering annoy Herbert Hoover? I love it. I have to have it. I have never made an important decision in my life without plenty of hammering. The more hammering the better.

Secretary (pressing a button)—They'll resume hammering the minute they hear this buzzer. There they go!

President (as the carpenters begin pounding away in a terrific din)—That's not half enough noise. It may do while I study the latest tariff proposals, the war debts settlement and the Arab outrages, but I will have to have much heavier hammering when I take up the naval pact problems.

(President Hoover sits at his desk in some relief and goes over the problems of the day, but it is obvious that he is not getting anywhere.)

President (wheeling about sharply)—I simply can't concentrate. I'll have to have much more pounding. The carpenters must be using very small hammers.

Secretary—I'll go see at once.

President (to himself in the secretary's absence)—I'm very much disappointed in that secretary. If he had any sense he would buy a hammer and do a little pounding himself.

Secretary (returning)—I told the foreman that the President of the United States was very much disappointed with their hammering and wanted it louder and funnier.

President (listening as the carpenters give more volume)—That's more like it. But I don't hear any saws. Isn't anybody sawing?

Secretary—Not that I know of, sir.

President—Well, then, you'll have to do it. Get a very dry knotty board and a saw and saw through it against the grain while I study the reports from the Anglo-American naval reductions negotiations at Geneva. And, mind you, no greasing of the saw now!

(The Secretary does as he is ordered and saws very violently on a chair beside the President).

President (after a few moments) No, that won't do. You may go. Tell them to send me that other secretary.

Secretary—Which one, sir?

President—The one that can play the snare-drum, imitate a buzz-saw going through a pine knot and bark like a dog.

Hoover has been President six months and there is this to be said of him: He hasn't been photographed even once in Indian headgear.

Add similes—So old-fashioned he never neglects his business for golf.

SOME GOOD THINGS.

The things most acclaimed in the building of a city are seldom the things most deserving acclamation, observes the Los Angeles Times. Los Angeles and Hollywood, among the most criticised of cities, have given the world the Easter sunrise service, the living Christmas tree, the symphony under the stars, the Mission Play, a noble portrayal of the life of Christ—and in these possibly have revealed the secret of their growth and greatness.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Government Sale of Liquor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: From what I read it seems that Mr. Ford is afraid that if the eighteenth amendment is amended it will result in open saloons.

Mr. Ford has been a wonder for development, and we render the praise due him. But nothing stands still. It must go forward or go back.

The eighteenth amendment must be improved or it will go back. The open saloon was a great curse to this country. I for one cast my ballot against it, but prohibition is getting to be a greater curse than the open saloon ever was, so we must seek something better. We must have some form of modification.

No one wants the open saloon again, but we are rapidly getting to the point of intolerance in prohibition. It is creating a disregard and contempt for the law, and filling the land with a population of ex-convicts. It is legalizing murder.

They said they would close up and tear down the jails. They are crowding them up and building more, to hold the unfortunate victims.

It is up to the people to create such a law, by the power of the ballot, as can be enforced.

What is more simple than to have the Government establish distilleries and make all liquors, a good, pure grade, and put it down to $1 a gallon? The Government would make a good profit and it would automatically kill bootlegging and poison booze. Let the Government handle it, as the automobile is handled, by permit and registration, making violation or abuse punishable by fine or imprisonment, light for the first offense and heavier for each offense thereafter. People who used liquor would soon realize that they would lose their privilege altogether if they did not use moderation and keep sober. J. ALASTER MACGREGOR.

Take That, Proud and Haughty Motorist—Beware the Pedestrian's Righteous Wrath!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your correspondent, K. A. Plotte, says referring to pedestrians, "If we could make these bugs stay out of the right of way traffic would move faster." If Mr. Plotte knew his regulations he would know that the pedestrian has the right of way over cars making turns, and that the autoist is the bug who gets in the way.

I wonder whether there is a car driver in Washington who can honestly state at the end of the day that he has not violated the pedestrian's right of way?

All of our traffic ills could be cured if every person attempting to obtain a license to drive a car in Washington was compelled to pass a 16-year-old intelligence test to prove that he was grown up mentally. True, the sale of cars would drop off 50 per cent and more than half of the cars now used would have to be shipped out of Washington to find a market, but, at least, old persons and children would be safe from the greatest peril to which any generation of Americans has been subjected.

Clean 'Em Up!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Allow me to congratulate you on your efforts to clean up Gallinger Hospital and the local bucket shops as well.

I sincerely hope that you will keep after these two sore spots until they have been thoroughly cleansed and eradicated from the surrounding landscape.

GEORGE G. SLOANE.

Thanks, Mr. Hibbs!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I desire to express my admiration for The Washington Post. Success!

GEORGE Y. P. HIBBS.

Bordentown, N. J., Sept. 4.

A BUSY CAPITAL.

It was not many years ago that Washington, the Capital of the United States, was known and recognized, even by itself, as "an overgrown country village," says the Boston Transcript. Trees grew in all the downtown streets and one had only to turn the corner from the business district to be in a section as purely residential as any Boston suburb, although, thanks to the ardor of real estate speculators, who conducted most of the business of the place, outside the Government offices, Washington has been built up largely with "row" houses of brick, instead of the tasteful individual dwellings which ornament most suburban streets. But now comes the Washington Board of Trade with a set of facts and figures which may surprise a great many Americans who may have regarded the National Capital as only the political city it was originally designed to be.

This survey estimates the population of Washington at 564,000, or about two-thirds that of Boston proper, and this does not include the people of the near-lying suburbs of Maryland and Virginia who would increase the combined urban and metropolitan population to 700,000. During the last five years, according to The Washington Post analysis, there has been sufficient residential construction to house 130,000 persons, which is equivalent to the population of the capital of New York, Albany; and only last year the city spent $51,225,000 on new buildings, exclusive of any part of the $75,000,000 building program of the Government. Every one person out of four is an employe of the Federal of the District government; and almost one inhabitant out of every four is colored. No fewer than 400 national organizations maintain headquarters in Washington, and the city has six universities, twelve colleges, thirteen women's seminaries and 200 libraries. One person out of every three owns an automobile, while the ratio for the country as a whole is 1 to 5. As another element of surprise, 55,000 persons are engaged in manufacturing and 29,000 in transportation, while the number of Federal Government employes is only 62,140. It is small wonder that Washington is becoming more and more a center of national interest—the most-visited city, for purely pleasure purposes, in the United States.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

State Office May Be Given To Mrs. Pratt

Woman Representative Is Slated to Be on G. O. P. Board.

By JEAN ELIOT.

REPRESENTATIVE RUTH BAKER PRATT, who was strongly urged to become a candidate for Mayor of New York, who withdrew from the race, may have State office thrust upon her. It is believed that at the meeting of the New York State committee to be held today she will be elected to the important post of Republican national committeewoman from New York—just in time to take part in the deliberations of the Republican national committee in Washington on Monday, when a successor to Dr. Hubert Work as national chairman is to be officially named.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, a friend of Mrs. Pratt and a long time political associate, was formerly the New York committeewoman, but this clever and distinguished daughter of the late Paul Morton, some time Secretary of the Navy, resigned the post last summer as a protest against the Republican party's stand on prohibition and is about to launch, with Washington as her headquarters, a crusade for modification of the Volstead act. But that, as Mr. Kipling says, is another story.

With Miss Florence Wardwell, of Otsego, N. Y., refusing to present herself as a candidate, Mrs. Pratt, it is said, will have things pretty much her own way in the committee meeting. There is an "upstate candidate" in Mrs. Miriam Albee Schindler who has considerable support from those who deplore the domination of New York City in State politics and has the backing of several leaders in the committee, notably Representative Hamilton Fish, jr. But the report is that most of the strength is lined up behind Mrs. Pratt.

The Schindler forces are protesting that the State committeewomen and county vice chairmen have had no opportunity to meet or caucus, although such an opportunity was promised them by letter and they are clamoring for a voice in the formulation of party policies, which they declare is being denied them.

When the national committeewomen gather here from every State in the Union for their meeting preliminary to the full committee meeting, they will have a royal welcome to extend to the vice chairman, Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, who has, at the request of President Hoover, withdrawn her resignation submitted several months ago. Detractors of Mrs. Hert—and every man or woman in politics has them—attribute her popularity with the men of the committee to her having a "rubber stamp mind" and to her never doing anything to upset the apple cart. But she is also genuinely popular with the feminine members of the national committee, a fact which may be attributed to her graciousness and charm of manner and to her genuine kindliness of spirit.

The Democrats beat the Republicans to appointing a woman to this important post in the party organization. Mrs. Emily Newell Blair was vice chairman of the Democratic national committee while Mrs. Hert's predecessor, Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, was still worrying along as director of women's activities of the Republican national committee. But probably Mrs. Upton, who was as clever a politician as they come, yielded as much influence or more than any of her sisters in politics despite the absence of title. The present vice chairman of the Democratic national committee is Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former Governor of Wyoming. She, however, has been very little in Washington since her appointment.

The President and Mrs. Hoover had as overnight guests at the White House Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Meyer, who left last night to return to their summer home at Mount Kisco, N. Y. The Meyers have but recently returned from Europe, for which they sailed shortly after Mr. Meyer's retirement from the chairmanship of the Farm Loan Board and the now defunct War Finance Corporation. There have been repeated rumors that he might be given an ambassadorial appointment, with Berlin as the post most frequently mentioned.

Mr. Louis B. Mayer Entertains at Dinner.

Mr. Louis B. Mayer, the California film magnate, who has been much entertained since coming to Washington early this week, gave a dinner last evening at the Willard. The Ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Carlos Davila, was a guest, and others in the official group present were the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Davis, Senator Arthur Capper, Senator Samuel Shortridge, Senator Robert M. La Follette, Senator Daniel O. Hastings and Mr. and Mrs. George Akerson. Others present were Dr. Hubert Work, Judge Mary O'Toole, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Teague, Senor Don Blanco Viel, of the Chilean Embassy; Mr. and Mrs. William Hard, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic William Wile, Dr. Louise Stanley, Miss Louise Menafee, Miss Annabelle Matthews, Miss Louise Chatfield, Miss Nan Howard, Mrs. Ruby Howard, Mrs. Ida R. Koverman, Judge Marion DeVries and Mr. Raymond B. Benjamin.

Earlier in the Hoover administration Mr. Mayer was a guest of President Hoover at the White House. At that time rumors were current that he was to be given an ambassadorial appointment.

Senator David Aiken Reed, of Pennsylvania and Senator Lawrence C. Phipps, of Colorado, are joint owners of a new speedboat, which is soon to be tearing up the waters of the Potomac. Senator Phipps is captain and Senator Reed engineer of this racy craft, which will give its owners ample opportunity to get away from the slowness of senatorial procedure.

The Bolivian Minister and Senora Diez de Medina are in New York, where they are staying at the Ambassador.

Minister of Colombia And Family Return.

The Minister of Colombia and Senora de Olaya and their daughters, Senorita Maria Olaya and Senorita Lucia Olaya, have returned to Washington and will be at the Mayflower for several days before opening their house at 2340 Massachusetts avenue. The Minister and Senora de Olaya spent much of the summer near New London, Conn.

The Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Davis have opened their house on Massachusetts avenue for the winter season. Mrs. Davis and the children returned to the Capital yesterday from Ventnor, N. J., where they passed the greater part of the summer. The Secretary returned Tuesday from New Kingston, Pa., where he delivered a Labor Day address.

Commander J. T. Bowden, U. S. N., who has recently been ordered to duty in Washington, has taken an apartment at the Glypswick Studios.

Miss Elizabeth Hume and her sister, Miss Jeannette Hume, have gone to Rehoboth Beach, Del., to be with their mother and sister, Mrs. Rawlins Hume and Miss Mary Murray Hume, who have been at the beach for several weeks.

Home From White Sulphur Springs

MISS KATHERINE SUTHERLAND, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sutherland. While her mother has been abroad, she has been keeping house for her father, the Alien Property Custodian, and they have recently been at White Sulphur for a short visit.

British Envoy And Wife Plan To Entertain

Commissioner General for Australia Arrives With Family.

On the eve of starting for a brief and belated holiday, to be spent at Bar Harbor, the British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard will entertain at dinner tomorrow evening in compliment to Mr. Herbert Brookes, newly appointed Commissioner General for Australia, and Mrs. Brookes, who arrived in town yesterday with their daughter, Jessie, their son, Alfred, and Miss Constance Saunders.

Mr. Brookes, whose headquarters will be in New York, has come to town especially to make official calls upon the President of the United States and the Secretary of State. He will be received by President Hoover and also by Secretary Stimson, to whom he will present his credentials, the British Ambassador acting as his sponsor. Were Sir Esme and Lady Isabella Howard "in residence" at the embassy, it is highly probably that Mr. and Mrs. Brookes would be their guests. As it is they are staying at the Carlton Hotel, where they propose to remain for the next ten days. The British Ambassador and Lady Isabella's dinner will be given at Langley Park, Hyattsville, Md., where they are now staying.

Other festivities arranged for Mr. and Mrs. Brookes are a luncheon on Monday, with the Charge d'Affaires of Canada, Mr. Hume Wrong, as host, and a luncheon which the English Speaking Union will give next Wednesday at the Chevy Chase Club. That evening Mr. Brookes will be the guest of honor of the Rotary Club at a men's dinner at the Columbia Country Club.

Mr. Brookes is a distinguished Australian industrialist and a graduate of the University of Melbourne. He was Australia's delegate to the League of Nations, was once president of the Australian Chamber of Manufacturers, a member of the Commonwealth Board of Trade and an original member of the Australian tariff board.

Mrs. Brookes is the eldest daughter of the late Alfred Deakin, three times prime minister of Australia. She is a woman of varied abilities. She is a good speaker, an excellent organizer and is interested in the work of various groups of her country.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Brookes are noted for their practical encouragement of Australian musicians and artists. Mrs. Brookes, as a girl, determined upon a musical career and has won distinction as a violinist and as a singer. She is the only woman member of the faculty of music at Melbourne University. When the United States fleet visited Melbourne Mrs. Brookes was vice president of the English-Speaking Union entertainment committee and took a leading part in arranging festivities for the officers and men of the American ships.

Mr. and Mrs. Brookes' daughter is only about 14 years old and their son, a lad of 9.

Senator and Mrs. Frederic C. Walcott are expected to come to Washington Monday. They are spending a few days in New York and are at the Berkshire.

Senator and Mrs. Sackett Back in Capital.

Senator and Mrs. Frederic M. Sackett, of Kentucky, will be guests at The Mayflower until their house at 1529 Eighteenth street is put in readiness for the coming season. They returned to Washington late yesterday.

Senator Charles S. Deneen, of Illinois, is also at the Mayflower pending the arrival of Mrs. Deneen and Miss Bing Day Deneen in Washington. The date is rather indefinite due to the fact that they did not return from Europe until Monday, the day before Senator Deneen departed for Washington.

Brig. Gen. William E. Horton has returned from his vacation, spent with relatives and friends at various places in New England.

Mrs. Wilson-Greene, who returned from Europe last week on the steamship Olympic and spent several days in New York, has returned to Washington and opened her apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue.

Mrs. Nina Swalm Reed and her mother, Mrs. Albert W. Swalm, have returned to their apartment in the Cordova from their summer's trip to Europe. They spent three months abroad, mostly in Scandinavia. Some particularly memorable days were those passed at the picturesque Chateu Lerchenborg in Denmark, Mrs. Reed, who is an interested student of world affairs, made an intensive survey of governmental conditions in the northern European countries she visited.

Col. and Mrs. Edward Clifford and their family have reopened their house in Georgetown after spending the summer at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa. Miss Helen Clifford left last evening for Lake Forest, Ill., to visit her brother, Mr. Lambert Clifford.

Married in New York

MRS. ARTHUR E. FRENCH, who was Miss Pauline Pope Day. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Day, of New York and Short Hills, N. J., she has many friends in Washington.

Miss Lodge's Wedding Soon To Take Place

Date September 14, But Rest of Plans Are Mostly Incomplete.

The marriage of Miss Helena Lodge, daughter of Mrs. George Cabot Lodge, and M. Edouard de Streel, First Secretary of the Belgian Embassy, has been set for September 14, and the wedding will take place in the late afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lodge on Massachusetts Avenue. For the rest, plans for the wedding are yet incomplete, as Mrs. Lodge and her daughter have just returned to town.

Indeed, it was not until a marriage license was issued yesterday for Miss Lodge and M. de Streel that their return became known. The engagement was announced from Bar Harbor, where Mrs. Lodge and Miss Lodge spent the summer. Miss Lodge is a granddaughter of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and, through her mother, of Mrs. Charles McCawley, by whom she was presented to society several years ago. Her brother, Mr. John Davis Lodge, married Miss Francesca Braggiotti in July and another brother, Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge, is married to Miss Emily Sears, of Boston.

Mrs. John W. Price, jr., and Mrs. John Sylvester have arrived in Washington by motor from Newport, where they went to be in touch with the U. S. S. Concord, to which their husbands, Lieut. Price and Ensign Sylvester, are attached. The Concord is now en route to Charleston, S. C., and the two young matrons will follow the ship. Before her recent marriage, Mrs. Sylvester was Miss Ruth Yarnall, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Joseph Yarnall.

Mrs. Price will spend a week with Mr. and Mrs. John W. Price, sr., at Grand View Farm, their country place on the Potomac, and, when she starts for Charleston, Mr. and Mrs. Price will accompany her.

Viscount and Viscountess Furness are at present at Glen Affaric, one of the most luxurious shoots in the Scottish highlands. The deer-stalking is aided by a number of trained polo ponies, who lead guests along specially prepared paths in the forest to places where good sport may be found. Viscountess Furness is a daughter of Mr. Harry Haya Morgan, American consul general in Buenos Aires.

Miss Marie Louise Howser and Miss Elizabeth Gardner Howser have returned to Washington from an extended tour of the West, having been as far as the Grand Canyon of Arizona. Miss Elizabeth Howser has joined a house party given by Mrs. Thomas Carroll Worthington at her summer home at Arundel-on-the-Bay, near Annapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Greenleaf left town yesterday for New York and sailed last night from Brooklyn on the S. S. Bremen for Germany and France.

Lieut. William E. G. Erskine, U. S. N., who has been in Nashville, Tenn., on leave, spent yesterday in town on his way to the Adirondacks to join a house party for which Mrs. Elise G. Church is hostess. Lieut. Erskine has recently been appointed a White House aide.

Mrs. William Henry White has returned to her home, 1729 Park road, from Buena Vista Springs, Pa., having passed the month of August at the Buena Vista Springs hotel.

Mrs. Robert L. Owen entertained at luncheon yesterday on the Willard Roof, as did Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt and Mrs. Robert Imbrie.

Miss Richards Bride Of Lieut. Hornor.

Miss Betsy Hastings Richards, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John H. Richards, of New York, was married on Wednesday to Lieut. John Lyford Hornor, jr., U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hornor, of Washington. The ceremony, a military wedding, took place in the Park Avenue Baptist Church, New York, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carder, officiating. Afterward a reception was held at the Plaza.

The bride's father gave her away. She wore a gown of ivory satin, the skirt being draped to form a train. Her veil of duchess lace, a family heirloom, was arranged in cap fashion held in place by clusters of orange blossoms. She carried white roses and valley lilies. Miss Anne W. Richards was her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids were the Misses Barlow Humphreys, Romaine Bristow, Susan Moore, Phoebe Roesler, Louisa Clark and Mary Shinn. The maid of honor wore a frock of chartreuse green chiffon with a large picture hat of horsehair to match. She carried lavender dahlias. The bridesmaids' costumes were similar except that they were of a deeper shade of green and they carried red and green dahlias.

Mr. T. Humphreys Hornor was best man for his brother. Ushers were Lieuts. George Moody, Edward Griffiths, James Grier and Paul Steinbeck, U. S. A., classmates of the bridegroom at West Point, and Messrs. Aldridge Humphreys and Edward M. Allen.

Lieut. Hornor and his bride will go to San Antonio, Texas, where he is stationed at Brooks Field. Lieut. Hornor was graduated from the Military Academy last June.

Commodore and Mrs. Richard Crisp have returned to their apartment at the Brighton after having spent the summer at East Gloucester, Mass., and on Cape Cod.

Miss Day Is Wed To Mr. A. E. French.

The marriage of Miss Pauline Pope Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Paul Day, of New York and Pleasant Days, Short Hills, N. J., to Mr. Arthur Eugene French, son of Mrs. Arthur E. French, of Winchester, Mass., took place Wednesday at noon in the garden of the country home of the bride's parents at Short Hills. Miss Day's brother, Mr. Charles Pope Day, married Miss Margaret Treadwell, of Washington.

Owing to the recent death of the father of the bridegroom, the number of guests invited was limited.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. John W. Spiers, of Cambridge, Mass.

Miss Day was attended by her sister, Miss Laura Taylor Pope Day, as maid of honor, the bridesmaids being the Misses Marjorie and Virginia French, sisters of the bridegroom, Miss Mary Irwin, of Short Hills, and Miss Grace Cody, of New York and East Hampton.

Mr. French had as best man his brother, Mr. Evander French, of Winchester, Mass. The ushers were Mr. Joseph P. Day, jr., Mr. Bernard Pope Day, Mr. Charles Pope Day, Mr. Fairfield Pope Day, brothers of the bride; Mr. Edward Rice, of Cambridge, Mass., and Mr. Frederick S. Grant, jr., Cambridge, Mass.

The bride's dress was of deep cream panne velvet, the neckline round and sleeves tight-fitting. The deep close-fitting bodice was cut in graceful points from under which came the long full skirt and train. The veil was of clouds of tulle, arranged cap shaped and caught at the neck with orange blossoms. These flowers were also scattered on the lower part of the veil. The slippers were of cream satin and the bridal bouquet of calla lilies tied with cream satin ribbon.

The maid of honor and the bridesmaids wore dresses of three shades of capucine panne velvet, the maid of honor's being of the lightest shade. The bodices and sleeves were long and tight-fitting and full skirts were cut long in front and just touching in the back. Valenciennes lace, the same shades, finished the yoke and sleeves. Their hats were of panne velvet and tulle, in shades matching the dresses, the brims being short in front, wider at the sides and drooping at the back. They all carried bouquets of delphinium and Tiplady gladioli.

Autumn King dahlias decorated the house where the reception and breakfast were given.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will spend the autumn in Cambridge, Mass., where Mr. French will coach the Harvard Freshman Football Team. He was the captain of last year's varsity team. After December 1, they will live at 34 Gramercy Park, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Grinnell At Capital Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton G. Grinnell have returned to their home in McKinley street after having spent one month visiting relatives and friends at his old home in Providence, R. I.

Capt. and Mrs. Robert P. Bell and their daughter, Miss Joyce Bell, are guests at the Mayflower on their way to Fort Benning, Ga. Capt. Bell has been transferred from duty in New York City to the Advanced Infantry School at Fort Benning.

Kenmore Council No. 23, Daughters of America, will give a card party today at 808 I street.

Mrs. Frank Hines, wife of Maj. Gen. Hines, was among those lunching at the Carlton Hotel yesterday. Others were Miss Norvell Munford, Mrs. Ennals Waggaman, Mr. Charles Langley, Mr. L. Skinner and Mr. Ennals Waggaman, jr.

Mr. Charles Bancroft Bell, after spending two months with his son, Mr. C. Edward Bell, at the latter's summer home in Hancock Point, Me., has returned to Washington.

Mrs. George M. Stackhouse, wife of Capt. Stackhouse, U. S. N., has arrived in Washington from Honolulu, where her husband is assigned to duty at Pearl Harbor. Mrs. Stackhouse will be a guest at the Mayflower for a few days and will then go to Marion, S. C., to visit her mother, Mrs. John W. Young, for about a month.

Miss Katharine Garrett has joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garrett, at the Wardman Park Hotel after passing the summer in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. Page McK. Etchison are now at their home in Sheridan street, after having taken an extensive motor trip into New York State, where they spent several days in and around Fort Ticonderoga.

Mrs. J. B. Willis, of Wellesley Farms, Mass., is spending a few days at the Potomac Park Apartments.

Dr. Kibler to Arrive After Trip to Europe.

Dr. Alton L. Kibler, who spent the summer in Europe, will arrive in New York on the S. S. America September 21 and will come at once to his home in Washington. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Roberts, of Washington, will also return on the America September 21.

Miss Adelaide M. Lewis, of Montreal, is spending several days at the Dodge Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Knox Johnstone, of Mocksville, N. C., are guests at the Mayflower on their return south from their honeymoon, spent in Murray Bay, Canada. Mrs. Johnstone is the former Miss Carroll Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Smith, of Washington. Her marriage took place the latter part of August at her parents' summer home in North Carolina. Miss Fannie Dial was one of her bridesmaids.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Hartman, of Pittsburgh, are at the Dodge Hotel while seeing Washington.

WORLD APPLAUDS FEAT OF ZEPPELIN

ECKENER CABLES PRAISE

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—While German officialdom and public joined here today in paying tribute to the Graf Zeppelin for her flight around the world, hundreds of congratulatory messages poured in from all parts of the world. They included one from Dr. Hugo Eckener, now in Akron, Ohio, to Capt. Ernest Lehmann, who commanded the Graf in her most recent Atlantic flight.

Lehmann said the world flight was evidence that the dirigible had fulfilled all hopes of those who built and navigated it. It is certain that technically the airship can be accepted as an absolutely reliable means of transportation for long distances, especially for the transatlantic service, he asserted.

Particularly does he consider this true of the new Zeppelin now under construction, which will have greater speed and better passenger accommodations than the craft which made the world circuit.

Ship Safe in Hangar.

While tribute to the Graf's achievement came both in messages and in speeches at the luncheon given by the government today, the big ship reposed safely in its hangar, where its gas bags, motors and navigation instruments are being thoroughly overhauled for more flights. Very few repairs have been found necessary despite the great strain to which the ship was subjected during the stormy periods of its world cruise.

One of the contemplated flights is a special one over Moscow to give the Russian people a glimpse of the shining silver hull for which they searched the skies in vain as Dr. Eckener steered the Graf north of the Soviet capital on the great circle route across Siberia. Dr. Eckener has sent a message to Moscow authorities saying he will fly the Graf over the city as soon as possible.

Legate Lauds Feat.

Jacob Gould Schurman, American Ambassador to Germany, spoke in glowing terms of the Graf Zeppelin's achievements at the luncheon in celebration of its home-coming. Toasting Dr. Eckener, although the veteran commander still is in the United States, the ambassador said the flight around the world would prove an inspiration, a potent stimulus and a great example to all other nations. The commercial uses of airships had been established beyond doubt, he said.

"We may reasonably expect within a few years the establishment of regular airship lines over all the continents and oceans," he continued.

"We Americans feel a special interest in the journey around the world which began at Lakehurst and ended there. The sole honor is yours, only it is a gratification to be in any way associated with it. Even as one of the continental theaters of your action."

King Alfonso of Spain was among those who sent congratulations today.

Washington, Thursday, Sept. 5—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia—Showers Friday and probably Saturday; cooler Saturday; gentle to moderate southeast and south, shifting to north winds.

Pressure is low from Hudson Bay and Hudson Straits southward to the Ohio Valley, and from Tennessee and the East Gulf States westward to California. Modena, Utah, 29.38 inches; Del Rio, Tex., 29.60 inches, and Doucet, Que., and Churchill, Man., 29.76 inches. Pressure is high and rising over the Canadian maritime provinces, New England, the northern Rocky Mountain region, and the northern Plains States. Halifax, N. S., and Helena, Mont., 30.24 inches, and it remains high from the upper Mackenzie Valley westward to the British Columbia and Alaskan coasts, Juneau, 30.28 inches. This pressure distribution has been attended by showers within the last 24 hours in the Atlantic and East Gulf States, the Ohio, the lower Missouri, and upper Mississippi Valleys, the Lake region, the southern Plains States, northern Texas and northern Rocky Mountain region. Snow is falling tonight at Lander, Wyo. The weather has become cooler in the Rocky Mountain region and the northern Plains States, and from Michigan and Wisconsin southwestward to northern Texas, and due to cloudiness and showers, maxima were not so high this afternoon from eastern New York southward to northern Virginia.

The indications are for showers in the Atlantic States, the lower Lake region, the Ohio Valley and Tennessee Friday, probably continuing Saturday over and east of the Appalachian Mountains. The weather will become cooler as far East as the Appalachian region Friday, and in the Atlantic States as far south as Atlanta, Ga., during Saturday. The temperature will continue below normal Saturday in Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and the lower Lake region.

SOCIETY EVENTS

Lieut. William E. G. Erskine, U. S. N., who has been in Nashville, Tenn., on leave, spent yesterday in town on his way to the Adirondacks to join a house party for which Mrs. Elise G. Church is hostess. Lieut. Erskine has recently been appointed a White House aide.

Mrs. William Henry White has returned to her home, 1729 Park road, from Buena Vista Springs, Pa., having passed the month of August at the Buena Vista Springs hotel.

Mrs. Robert L. Owen entertained at luncheon yesterday on the Willard Roof, as did Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt and Mrs. Robert Imbrie.

Miss Richards Bride Of Lieut. Hornor.

Miss Betsy Hastings Richards, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John H. Richards, of New York, was married on Wednesday to Lieut. John Lyford Hornor, jr., U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hornor, of Washington. The ceremony, a military wedding, took place in the Park Avenue Baptist Church, New York, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carder, officiating. Afterward a reception was held at the Plaza.

The bride's father gave her away. She wore a gown of ivory satin, the skirt being draped to form a train. Her veil of duchess lace, a family heirloom, was arranged in cap fashion held in place by clusters of orange blossoms. She carried white roses and valley lilies. Miss Anne W. Richards was her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids were the Misses Barlow Humphreys, Romaine Bristow, Susan Moore, Phoebe Roesler, Louisa Clark and Mary Shinn. The maid of honor wore a frock of chartreuse green chiffon with a large picture hat of horsehair to match. She carried lavender dahlias. The bridesmaids' costumes were similar except that they were of a deeper shade of green and they carried red and green dahlias.

Mr. T. Humphreys Hornor was best man for his brother. Ushers were Lieuts. George Moody, Edward Griffiths, James Grier and Paul Steinbeck, U. S. A., classmates of the bridegroom at West Point, and Messrs. Aldridge Humphreys and Edward M. Allen.

Lieut. Hornor and his bride will go to San Antonio, Texas, where he is stationed at Brooks Field. Lieut. Hornor was graduated from the Military Academy last June.

Commodore and Mrs. Richard Crisp have returned to their apartment at the Brighton after having spent the summer at East Gloucester, Mass., and on Cape Cod.

Miss Day Is Wed To Mr. A. E. French.

The marriage of Miss Pauline Pope Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Paul Day, of New York and Pleasant Days, Short Hills, N. J., to Mr. Arthur Eugene French, son of Mrs. Arthur E. French, of Winchester, Mass., took place Wednesday at noon in the garden of the country home of the bride's parents at Short Hills. Miss Day's brother, Mr. Charles Pope Day, married Miss Margaret Treadwell, of Washington.

Owing to the recent death of the father of the bridegroom, the number of guests invited was limited.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. John W. Spiers, of Cambridge, Mass.

Miss Day was attended by her sister, Miss Laura Taylor Pope Day, as maid of honor, the bridesmaids being the Misses Marjorie and Virginia French, sisters of the bridegroom, Miss Mary Irwin, of Short Hills, and Miss Grace Cody, of New York and East Hampton.

Mr. French had as best man his brother, Mr. Evander French, of Winchester, Mass. The ushers were Mr. Joseph P. Day, jr., Mr. Bernard Pope Day, Mr. Charles Pope Day, Mr. Fairfield Pope Day, brothers of the bride; Mr. Edward Rice, of Cambridge, Mass., and Mr. Frederick S. Grant, jr., Cambridge, Mass.

The bride's dress was of deep cream panne velvet, the neckline round and sleeves tight-fitting. The deep close-fitting bodice was cut in graceful points from under which came the long full skirt and train. The veil was of clouds of tulle, arranged cap shaped and caught at the neck with orange blossoms. These flowers were also scattered on the lower part of the veil. The slippers were of cream satin and the bridal bouquet of calla lilies tied with cream satin ribbon.

The maid of honor and the bridesmaids wore dresses of three shades of capucine panne velvet, the maid of honor's being of the lightest shade. The bodices and sleeves were long and tight-fitting and full skirts were cut long in front and just touching in the back. Valenciennes lace, the same shades, finished the yoke and sleeves. Their hats were of panne velvet and tulle, in shades matching the dresses, the brims being short in front, wider at the sides and drooping at the back. They all carried bouquets of delphinium and Tiplady gladioli.

Autumn King dahlias decorated the house where the reception and breakfast were given.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will spend the autumn in Cambridge, Mass., where Mr. French will coach the Harvard Freshman Football Team. He was the captain of last year's varsity team. After December 1, they will live at 34 Gramercy Park, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Grinnell At Capital Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton G. Grinnell have returned to their home in McKinley street after having spent one month visiting relatives and friends at his old home in Providence, R. I.

Capt. and Mrs. Robert P. Bell and their daughter, Miss Joyce Bell, are guests at the Mayflower on their way to Fort Benning, Ga. Capt. Bell has been transferred from duty in New York City to the Advanced Infantry School at Fort Benning.

Kenmore Council No. 23, Daughters of America, will give a card party today at 808 I street.

Mrs. Frank Hines, wife of Maj. Gen. Hines, was among those lunching at the Carlton Hotel yesterday. Others were Miss Norvell Munford, Mrs. Ennals Waggaman, Mr. Charles Langley, Mr. L. Skinner and Mr. Ennals Waggaman, jr.

Mr. Charles Bancroft Bell, after spending two months with his son, Mr. C. Edward Bell, at the latter's summer home in Hancock Point, Me., has returned to Washington.

Mrs. George M. Stackhouse, wife of Capt. Stackhouse, U. S. N., has arrived in Washington from Honolulu, where her husband is assigned to duty at Pearl Harbor. Mrs. Stackhouse will be a guest at the Mayflower for a few days and will then go to Marion, S. C., to visit her mother, Mrs. John W. Young, for about a month.

Miss Katharine Garrett has joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garrett, at the Wardman Park Hotel after passing the summer in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. Page McK. Etchison are now at their home in Sheridan street, after having taken an extensive motor trip into New York State, where they spent several days in and around Fort Ticonderoga.

Mrs. J. B. Willis, of Wellesley Farms, Mass., is spending a few days at the Potomac Park Apartments.

Dr. Kibler to Arrive After Trip to Europe.

Dr. Alton L. Kibler, who spent the summer in Europe, will arrive in New York on the S. S. America September 21 and will come at once to his home in Washington. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Roberts, of Washington, will also return on the America September 21.

Miss Adelaide M. Lewis, of Montreal, is spending several days at the Dodge Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Knox Johnstone, of Mocksville, N. C., are guests at the Mayflower on their return south from their honeymoon, spent in Murray Bay, Canada. Mrs. Johnstone is the former Miss Carroll Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Smith, of Washington. Her marriage took place the latter part of August at her parents' summer home in North Carolina. Miss Fannie Dial was one of her bridesmaids.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Hartman, of Pittsburgh, are at the Dodge Hotel while seeing Washington.

WORLD APPLAUDS FEAT OF ZEPPELIN

ECKENER CABLES PRAISE

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—While German officialdom and public joined here today in paying tribute to the Graf Zeppelin for her flight around the world, hundreds of congratulatory messages poured in from all parts of the world. They included one from Dr. Hugo Eckener, now in Akron, Ohio, to Capt. Ernest Lehmann, who commanded the Graf on her most recent Atlantic flight.

Lehmann said the world flight was evidence that the dirigible had fulfilled all hopes of those who built and navigated it. It is certain that technically the airship can be accepted as an absolutely reliable means of transportation for long distances, especially for the transatlantic service, he asserted.

Particularly does he consider this true of the new Zeppelin now under construction, which will have greater speed and better passenger accommodations than the craft which made the world circuit.

Ship Safe in Hangar.

While tribute to the Graf's achievement came both in messages and in speeches at the luncheon given by the government today, the big ship reposed safely in its hangar, where its gas bags, motors and navigation instruments are being thoroughly overhauled for more flights. Very few repairs have been found necessary despite the great strain to which the ship was subjected during the stormy periods of its world cruise.

One of the contemplated flights is a special one over Moscow to give the Russian people a glimpse of the shining silver hull for which they searched the skies in vain as Dr. Eckener steered the Graf north of the Soviet capital on the great circle route across Siberia. Dr. Eckener has sent a message to Moscow authorities saying he will fly the Graf over the city as soon as possible.

Legate Lauds Feat.

Jacob Gould Schurman, American Ambassador to Germany, spoke in glowing terms of the Graf Zeppelin's achievements at the luncheon in celebration of its home-coming. Toasting Dr. Eckener, although the veteran commander still is in the United States, the ambassador said the flight around the world would prove an inspiration, a potent stimulus and a great example to all other nations. The commercial uses of airships had been established beyond doubt, he said.

"We may reasonably expect within a few years the establishment of regular airship lines over all the continents and oceans," he continued.

"We Americans feel a special interest in the journey around the world which began at Lakehurst and ended there. The sole honor is yours, only it is a gratification to be in any way associated with it. Even as one of the continental theaters of your action."

King Alfonso of Spain was among those who sent congratulations today.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia—Showers Friday and probably Saturday; cooler Saturday; gentle to moderate southeast and south, shifting to north winds.

Pressure is low from Hudson Bay and Hudson Straits southward to the Ohio Valley, and from Tennessee and the East Gulf States westward to California. Modena, Utah, 29.58 inches; Del Rio, Tex., 29.60 inches, and Doucet, Que., and Churchill, Man., 29.76 inches. Pressure is high and rising over the Canadian maritime provinces, New England, the northern Rocky Mountain region, and the northern Plains States. Halifax, N. S., and Helena, Mont., 30.24 inches, and it remains high from the upper Mackenzie Valley westward to the British Columbia and Alaskan coasts, Juneau, 30.28 inches. This pressure distribution has been attended by showers within the last 24 hours in the Atlantic and East Gulf States, the Ohio, the lower Missouri, and upper Mississippi Valleys, the Lake region, the southern Plains States, northern Texas and northern Rocky Mountain region. Snow is falling tonight at Lander, Wyo. The weather has become cooler in the Rocky Mountain region and the northern Plains States, and from Michigan and Wisconsin southwestward to northern Texas, and due to cloudiness and showers, maxima were not so high this afternoon from eastern New York southward to northern Virginia.

The indications are for showers in the Atlantic States, the lower Lake region, the Ohio Valley and Tennessee Friday, probably continuing Saturday over and east of the Appalachian Mountains. The weather will become cooler as far East as the Appalachian region Friday, and in the Atlantic States as far south as Atlanta, Ga., during Saturday. The temperature will continue below normal Saturday in Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and the lower Lake region.

REDS REPORT FOUR CHINESE ATTACKS

Soviet Claims Clashes Have Occurred in Four Places on Border.

WU'S ACT AROUSES IRE

Moscow, Sept. 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Chinese have attacked the Soviet frontier in four places, according to dispatches reaching Moscow today The attacks took place at Poyarkovo, near Blagoveshthensk, at Kvzanovitch, near Chabarowsk, along the Yiman line, and at Vasilevski, in the Yiman region. Martial law was declared and 300 Soviet citizens placed under arrest.

These reports added to the great dissatisfaction already prevailing in Moscow official circles over the action of Chao Chu Wu, Chinese delegate to the League of Nations, in bringing yesterday, the Manchurian affair before the league.

League Action Opposed.

From the very beginning the Soviet has opposed interference by the league, and is particularly opposed to it now that direct peace negotiations are believed imminent. Wu's arrival at Geneva from Washington with his alleged sensational documents against the Soviet is taken as the explanation of the failure of the Chinese to reply, thus far, to the latest peace offer from the Soviet.

The belief here is that Nanking wanted to drag the matter, thus winning time until the league assembly opened in order that its views might be aired there, meanwhile delaying a reply to the Soviet until the league had its say. This trick may now complicate further Chino-Russ negotiations. It was officially indicated today that Wu's attitude may hamper the possibility of regulating the Sino-Russ conflict in a peaceful way.

Chinese Watched Carefully.

Although the official attitude is that the assistance which the Chinese seem to expect from the league in the realization of any anti-Soviet plans which may be entertained may in reality amount to little or nothing, the Soviet is now watching more carefully the actions of Chinese diplomats and considers the Manchurian situation as even more serious than formerly, especially since reports have begun to drift in of renewed frontier clashes.

Referring to Wu's arrival in Geneva, the official organ Izvesta asked today, "We are interested to know whether Wu is acting in behalf of the same government which offered us a peace proposal, or are we again facing an attempt of a representative of the extreme anti-Soviet Nanking group, supported by foreign influence to destroy possible peace arrangements?"

The Izvesta warned: "The circumstances which have driven Nanking to ask the Soviet for negotiations have not disappeared yet, even though Wu is now in Geneva, and will be resumed in the event of any anti-Soviet aggressions."

Today's True Detective Story

The Modern Jekyll and Hyde Mystery

By VANCE WYNN

THERE is nothing particularly sensational in a single robbery in one section of a city, but when a dozen occur in as many nights and they all show evidence of having been committed by the same person, it is time to sit up and take notice.

That was the feeling of the Brooklyn police not long ago when indignant householders came, one after another, to enter complaints about a strange man who was terrorizing the peaceful City of Churches. Detective Krummel was detailed to make an investigation, and he did it with the thoroughness with which the modern detective is compelled to work when he matches his wits against the expert criminal.

One of the victims was the minister of a prominent Methodist Episcopal Church. Krummel first obtained a description of all the stolen goods, and then with the assistance of the Police Bureau he made inquiry in all the pawnbroking establishments of the city. One of the articles that had been purloined was a handsome watch, which happened to have certain marks upon it by which it could be identified. After the lapse of some days this watch was found in a Brooklyn pawnshop. The proprietor said the bit of jewelry had been pawned by a young woman. It required time and ingenuity to trace this person, but she was found eventually, and when questioned said that the watch had been given to her by another woman. This second woman was located and she said that it had been given to her by one James Hafey.

It was not difficult to find the residence of this man, but when the detective went there he was confronted by an unusual state of affairs. The wife of James Hafey was at home, and she proved to be a woman of culture and refinement. The home also gave every evidence of being that of persons in good, if not affluent, circumstances. When she learned of the charge that was made against her husband she was amazed and indignant.

Mrs. Hafey said that she had been married for some years and that her husband was employed by the United States Government at a salary of something like $100 a week. His working hours, she said, were from 4 in the afternoon until shortly after midnight. He was a model husband in every way and was extremely generous to her. She was unable to state the exact nature of his employment, but said that he spent all excepting his working hours with her. Together they visited the art galleries and place of amusement and altogether had an ideal and happy existence.

It was a perplexing situation, because if the suspicions of the police were true, this man must be a regular Raffles, if not a modern counterpart of the celebrated Jekyll and Hyde. One of the victims of the robberies was a merchant who complained of the loss of a quantity of jewelry belonging to his wife. A watch was set upon the odd Mr. Hafey, and this particular victim was stationed in a place where he could see the suspect without being seen. After the test had been made he said: "I have no doubt about it. This man is the same person whom I saw coming down the driveway of my home on the evening the robbery took place."

This was important, but it was not quite sufficient for legal evidence. The detective managed to get into the house of Hafey at a time when he was not at home, and he made a thorough search of the premises. In a room that was kept locked he found a quantity of goods that scarcely belonged to the couple. The find included seven suitcases filled with jewelry, furs, silver, cut glass and numerous articles of women's wear. One of the detectives said at the time: "Judging from the number of things that have been identified by the owners Hafey must have committed something like thirty burglaries between the first of January and the middle of April."

He was taken into custody amid the tears and protestations of his wife. Personally he was silent, but the magistrate before whom he was taken held him in $10,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury.

RCA RADIOLA 33

ITS amazing performance has created an enormous demand—everywhere this superb Radiola 33 has won hosts of enthusiastic friends. It's the fastest selling radio of all. The most popular radio circuit. A great RCA achievement.

Increased sales volume means increased manufacturing volume. All know that a record-breaking production of over 2000 of these instruments daily permits a lower price.

The RCA policy is constantly to give the public the benefit of its economies...search far and wide and you can't find an all-electric set of such fine performance, such outstanding beauty for such a price.

Now Radiola 33 at a price never thought possible ...less than an ordinary table model. The tried, tested and approved circuit made famous by RCA engineers... new tonal beauty, realistic, natural.

All the sensitivity and selectivity that you find in sets costing double. And the added attraction of RCA dependability—the RCA guarantee of quality.

A handsome consolette model, compact, strikingly beautiful... an addition to any home.

Visit the nearest RCA dealer today. See, hear, compare.

Or ask for a home demonstration, if you prefer.

You'll agree that your dollar buys its utmost when you invest in Radiola 33. Act quickly so as to insure prompt delivery. You can buy if you like on the convenient RCA Time Payment Plan.

New Series To Start on Air Tonight

"Stars of Melody," Featuring Erva Giles and Judson House on WRC. Army Band on WMAL. Family Market, WOL.

A new series of weekly programs entitled "Stars of Melody," featuring Erva Giles, soprano; Judson House, tenor, and an orchestra under the direction of Harry Horlick, will have its premier broadcast at 9 o'clock from WRC. The program follows:

"First Love" (Lehar), "De Mathusa" (Lemaire), orchestra; "The Little Irish Girl" (Lohr), tenor solo; "La Catalina" (Kreisler), orchestra; "Mi Amor" (Morris), soprano solo; "Little Gray Home in the West" (Lohr), orchestra; selection from "The Merry Widow," duet, and "Fairy Tales" (Komzak).

Radio listeners will be taken behind scenes in the political drama of Washington in a new series of programs to be broadcast each Friday night at 6:45 o'clock, beginning this evening, through WRC. William Hard, political correspondent and analyst, will discuss and interpret political events of national importance in the new program which will be called "Back of the Scenes in Washington." A coast-to-coast network of stations will be used and George F. Hicks, of the Washington studios, will announce the series.

Herbert Borodkin, violinist, and Leo O'Rourke, tenor, will supply the high lights in the Cities Service concert which will be broadcast at 7 o'clock by WRC. The Cavaliers, male quartet, will be heard with the concert orchestra in the following program, which is under the direction of Rosario Bourdon:

"Jingles" (Zamecnik), "Sizilietta" (Von Blon), selection by Cavaliers, gems from "Song of the Flame" (Romberg); "Sweet and Low," by Cavaliers; "Ballet Suite" (Massenet), "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" (Tait), O'Rourke; "Danse Baroque" (Herbert), "Homing," by Cavaliers; "Such a Li'l' Fellow," violin solo, Herbert Borodkin; "Virginia," selection by the Cavaliers, "March Tartare" (Ganne) and "Last Night" (Kjerulf), quartet and orchestra.

Gus and Loule, the garage partners, add the final blow to their friendship when each declares himself a candidate for fire chief. The resulting fracas will be reported between selections which the Schradertown Band will broadcast at 8:30 o'clock by WRC.

Haydn's symphony, "La Poule," and two well-known selections from Grieg's "Peer Gynt" suite are featured in the program of slumber music which Ludwig Laurier and a string ensemble will broadcast from WRC at 10:15 o'clock. Other selections include the overture to "La Gazza Ladra," Rossini; "Eternelle Ivresse," Ganne, and "Claire de Lune," Thome.

The program to be broadcast at Bremer Tully time, 9 o'clock, from WMAL, offers for the judgment of the radio audience a variety of numbers, orchestral and vocal, culled from current musical comedies and from old favorites in the ballad field. The following are the selections:

"This Is Heaven," "Red Hair and Freckles," "Little Gray Home in the West," "Pagan Love Song," "How Was I to Know," "Dynamite," "On the Road to Mandalay," "Rhythm Man," orchestra and medley from "The Little Show."

The Army Band will be presented for a half hour at 7:30 o'clock. Two dance orchestras will entertain between 10 and 11 o'clock, followed by "Midnight Reveries," the organ recital.

"The Family Market Basket" is the title of a new program that is to be heard for the first time this evening at 6:15 o'clock through WOL and will be presented by Peggy Clarke with the cooperation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The purpose of the program is to tell the housewives of the city something of the marketing possibilities for Saturday—what can be done in the market and in what quantities.

"For weeks we have been working with the marketing experts of the U. S. Department of Agriculture to develop an informative program that would be of value to housewives and at the same time would not have any suggestion of advertising," said Miss Clarke. "At last I believe we have arrived at the solution. We want to tell the housewives what they can find in the markets so that the market basket can be filled on Saturday with the least trouble and expense. The program, for the present, will be presented at 6:15 o'clock each Friday. If that hour is most convenient to the housewives, we will keep it there. If they prefer another hour, we will change it. I believe this program will be of value to them and we are indebted to the Department of Agriculture for the work it has done to prepare the basis of it for us."

Thelma Mills Rector, soprano, will be heard from WJSV at 9:45 o'clock, followed by the Columbia Trio, presenting a Spanish half hour.

Miss Elizabeth Drew, contralto, will make her first appearance from WJSV at 8:15 o'clock.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF September 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 8:45 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:45 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 7:30 a. m., and from 5 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

The astrological influences on this date are not important and it is expected that little effort will be made to change the usual tide of affairs. A dull day will probably be followed by an evening full of interest, and romance will leave its imprint upon your life.

A conservative, careful, plodding, conscientious and faithful nature will be given the child born on this September 6. It will love to do things in an orderly and neat manner, and will never leave ragged edges. It will be very affectionate and will be loved by a legion of admirers.

You have a deep and very intense nature, and you often go to extremes. In any cause that you take up you attempt to carry it through in spite of all argument or opposition, and in doing so you make bitter and relentless enemies. You so conceal your feelings that you are accused of being cold and undemonstrative, although there is a glowing warmth in your heart. You are too sincere and too independent to do things for effect only, and you allow people to think just as they please.

A fatalistic outlook colors all your actions. You do your best and accept the results without vain regrets. This does not mean, however, that you rely upon your good or bad luck, you concentrate all your efforts upon the thing in hand, and go on the principle that Fate helps those who help themselves.

There appear to be no happy mediums in your life. You will be blessed with great successes or cursed with great failures. To a large extent you are very much the child of Destiny, and in spite of your own efforts life will be a series of ups and downs for you. Fortunately, you were given the strength of character to face your sorrows or disappointments. You never lose faith or hope, and are always looking for something brighter around the corner.

Successful people born September 6: Marquis de Lafayette—French general.

James H. Gillis—Astronomer.

Samuel D. Burchard—Clergyman (Rum, Romanism and Rebellion).

John H. Noyes—Reformer and author.

William H. H. Miller—Attorney General under Harrison.

Jane Addams—Social reformer.

HOW PEARLS "GROW"

IN THE large camps of Yellowstone Park the girls who wash dishes are known as "pearl divers." That is just a playful name—I suppose it means that they "dive" their hands down in the water to bring up the "pearly" dishes.

Ceylon merchants sorting their pearls.

In the Persian Gulf, and around Ceylon and the Philippine Islands, there are real pearl divers. They sometimes go down 150 feet to obtain oysters in which they hope to find pearls. In a single day a good diver is likely to bring up from 100 to 300 oysters. Most of the shells contain no pearls, but one may obtain a gem worth thousands of dollars.

When I say "worth thousands of dollars," I am thinking of the market price. A pearl would never be "worth" $1,000 to me—I should rather see the money spent in giving some one a college education.

Yet a pearl is a very interesting gem: It is built up in layer by the oyster, the layers reminding us of the skins of an onion. How many skins has an onion? I have never found out.

Pearls grow from the ill fortune of the oyster. A grain of sand, or some other speck of hard matter, gets inside the shell. This annoys the oyster, and the cells of the oyster's body get to work and cause fluids to cover the bit of hardness. The fluids are of such a kind that they become hard; but they save the oyster from the sharp edges of the speck.

It sems that once the fluids start, they keep coming. At least, the pearl continues to grow in size for a long while.

Since pearls are known to come about in this way, you may wonder why people do not put grains of sand inside oyster shells and then return the oysters to the water. That very thing has been done with success.

Among the colors of pearls are yellow, black, purple, pink and white. Mother-of-peal is taken from the shells of oysters, and is often very pretty to look upon.

Earl L. INTERPRETS the MODE

Frivolous, lacy L'Ianfini, with the top of beige lace and the lower part of black lace. Couldn't you just Tea in that! (Courtesy of Ardanse, Paris.)

ONE of the "vraie elegantes" of the Paris stage is Jane Renouard, and it was most interesting to us to see how her couturier has succeeded in heightening that loveliness in "La Femme au Chat," her current success.

One of the most effective of her costumes is a dress of black chiffon embroidered in strass. Long and slim, the bodice and yoke are perfectly plain—but a bit below the hips the skirt becomes a billowy mass of chiffon flounces. The hemline dips sharply to the back. These same ruffles are repeated on the cuff in a sort of "fin" effect. The strass embroidery is highly Egyptian in character, a row of triangles, pointed downward, surrounding the neck line, like an Egyptian necklace. The same motif covers the sleeves from elbow to wrist, and a narrow belt is embroidered at the normal waist line.

A lovely afternoon dress is of printed chiffon, with beige flowers on a black background—simple in effect but intricate in cut, with many points, tiers and volants. One of these forms a cape effect in the back, and others give a charming irregularity to the skirt. This is worn with a beige fox neckpiece and a little black straw chapeau.

An evening gown worn by Mme. Renouard is of extreme beauty and elegance. It is on simple lines, of salmon colored satin, and has a beaded bolero jacquette. The skirt is very long in the back, with points at the sides, creating a veritable train effect, though it barely touches the floor.

• • • •

A tea gown, such a lovely tea gown have we illustrated for you today! Of black lace and beige lace, of gracious lines and graceful folds, Ardanse created it, Paris accepted it, we sketched it!

• • • •

Of course you're enthusiastic about a boudoir beauties. What woman isn't! And you just haven't had the time—or the money—or the urge! But down in your heart you know you ought to do something about fixing up your boudoir. All you've been waiting for is some new ideas—act on the hunch now and send a stamped self-adreased envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the Lovely Lady boudoir leaflet. You'll be so-o-o-o glad you did!

• • • •

Margaret Mac—sent in a very smart design for a comfortable and entirely smart winter frock, with trousers, cleverly concealed underneath. On with the designs, we like 'em.

• • • •

Higher and higher—definitely now the waist line can go no lower than the hip bones at the very lowest, and usually is at the normal waistline. This we have on the absolutely latest authority from Le Secretaire Galiant, and he has covered collections from there on to the point of grogginess.

• • • •

If you have green eyes—if you have gray eyes—if you have indefinite eyes—if, in fact, you think you can get away with it, apply a soft green paste to your lids and touch your lashes with a water-green cosmetic. The effect is indescribable but interesting!

Dare's weekly fashion letter appears in the Capital each Sunday exclusively in The Post. It is worth loking for.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

When Life Grows Bitter.

WHEN love fails and life grows bitter to the taste, how hard to make allowance and keep sweet. Yet it is the only way. And it can be done. Once when I reproached a man for his weakness and the pain that his behavior must cause his wife, he replied that she was above that! "She knows the things that happen in life were planned when the world was in the making—her weaknesses and mine, and all the wilfulness that makes up living. So she takes nothing personally. Just calls it a condition and waits for it to pass."

A nice, convenient sort of wife to choose. But from the wife's standpoint how marvelous to have found so serene a philosophy. She waits for a "condition" to pass. And it passes while she waits. And life goes on. If only the girl whose letter follows could find the source of that philosophy and cast out rancor, seeing only a condition and not two people seeking to hurt her. Sylvan is unhappy—and one can understand—but would it not be possible for so fine a woman to attain serenity, even to love again those who were so dearly loved before? Read Sylvan's letter and the tragedy of which it tells.

Dear Miss McDonald: I don't suppose you'll ever print this, but I am going to write anyway. I never miss reading your articles — sometimes I think they are wonderful, and I wonder if you are a "Mrs." instead of a "Miss." Experience is the best teacher, you know.

When single, I had lots of "beaux," three chances to be married, one very much older than myself, one dear friend from out of town and one (my husband now) three years older than I and living in the same city. I am the older of two girls, my sister being just two years younger.

We built a home on the same street my home is located. I always trusted my husband and really never looked at things as I do now, but he fell in love with my sister.

He was a deacon in our church and very well brought up, but on Sundays when I did go to church he would always go and stay until after collection was taken up and then go around by my home to see my sister while my folks were still in church. My mother found out about it, and then and there things came to a stop. My sister had men friends, of course—one regular.

They were married. Her husband does not know, neither do my husband's folks. My mother pleaded with me to keep things quiet for the family's sake and everybody concerned. I did.

I am married ten years now, and in those ten years I have learned a few things! We entertain at cards, take automobile trips with friends, go away on vacations. We are seemingly a very happy couple, but Miss McDonald, as long as I live my husband will never be the same to me. There is that certain something within that he has killed. All the money in this world would not buy happiness for me.

We do not entertain my sister and her husband and child, nor do we go to visit them. People think it strange, but I can not bear to see them together—but outsiders do not know why.

Before my sister was married we would take her along on vacation trips, paying everything. If you can read between the lines you can see the type of girl I was and look at the "gratitude" I received. If it were only another woman—but to lose the love of a husband and sister, too!

Oh, I could go on like this all day. I feel so blue, and what difference would it make? So there you are, Miss McDonald; good luck.

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

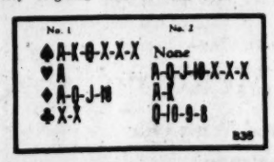
ORIGINAL SUIT-BIDS OF FOUR.

A BID four of a major should show either ten tricks in the hand, or a holding which is so little short of ten tricks that less than a probable trick in partner's hand will yield ten tricks. Unless a system is being used under which a certain kind of bid requires the partner to bid regardless of his holding, it is manifest that an original bidder with ten tricks, or a shade less, must bid four or run the risk of having a game hand played at three. There are several systems which provide that certain initial bids of one or two require a responsive bid from partner, but the sentiment of the Contract players of Jack in partner's hand would not justify a raise; but if it fits the hand of the original bidder it is likely to convert his "near" ten into ten actual tricks.

The bid of four of a minor is rarely made at a love score. It announces ten really sure tricks and encourages a partner with two tricks to bid for a slam; unless the ten tricks are sure, it is better to bid three of the minor. But the four of a major should be bid even if the hand is a little shy of an absolute certainty of making ten tricks. Illustrations of hands which would justify original bids of four are:



the country seems to be against artificial bids of that kind. A Queen or No. 1 has ten practically sure tricks and for that reason its holder would not risk playing for less than game; but No. 2 is just short of ten. If the partner turned up with nothing but spot cards and was unable to produce a trick of any sort, No. 2 might lose four tricks and consequent go down one; that is not a serious loss and the help of only the Jack of Clubs would insure game. A partner who had nothing better than one Jack would never raise, so a bid of three on hand No. 2 might easily sacrifice game.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

September 6.

JANE ADDAMS, the famous founder of Hull House in Chicago, was born this day, 1860. After college she studied in Europe where she became impressed with the need for work on behalf of the poor. Returning to America, she founded Hull House in 1889 in an old dwelling in the heart of Chicago's most squalid industrial district. It was an institution not only for the poor, but for the socially-minded, the well-to-do and the educated. It was the model for scores of later social settlements. Miss Addams has recorded her experiences there in her book, "Twenty Years at Hull House." She also has lectured widely on the work. Miss Addams was active in the Progressive party campaign and in the woman's suffrage movement. At present she is president of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Other noted women born this day include Clara Kimball Young, motion picture star, 1893; Jane Grey Swisshelm, American reformer and author, 1815; Mme. Frances d'Arusmont, philanthropist, 1795, and Catherine Beecher, American educator and philanthropist, 1800. Miss Beecher was a sister of Harriet Beecher Stowe and the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher.

Summer doubles the need for this deodorizing sanitary protection

IN summer . . . when danger of offense is so much greater . . . what a relief to know that Kotex completely deodorizes! What a relief to forget old fears . . . to know there is no possibility of offense.

But there are other reasons why millions of women find Kotex absolutely essential in summer.

Kotex is always light, cool, comfortable. It never loses its softness. It simply cannot pack. It is so very absorbent that weight and bulk are unnecessary.

Kotex is non-detectable. The corners are rounded and tapered so no outline shows even under summer's filmiest frocks.

Women appreciate, too, the ease with which Kotex disposes. There's no more fuss and laundering. The layers of filler can easily be adjusted as needed. Kotex brings complete sanitary comfort to summer's most trying days.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

PRICES CRASH LATE AFTER LIVELY RISE

Stocks' Early Gains More Than Canceled by Bearish Statement.

CALL FUNDS 9 PER CENT

New York, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The corrective reaction in stock prices, which conservative elements have been predicting in Wall street for several days, came with breath-taking swiftness in the last hour of trading today, after bullish operations had been pressed forward with increasing aggressiveness earlier in the session.

The rapid bidding up of prices, only to have them come down like a burnt-out rocket, rolled up total sales for the day of 5,565,280 shares, the largest turnover since March. Most early gains were more than canceled at the close, and scores of important stocks recorded net losses of 2 to nearly 20 points.

Many professional traders had seen in the violent bidding up of selective issues during recent weeks the rapid development of an overbought condition that must be corrected soon by a thorough shake-out, but it took a bearish statement by Roger Babson, well-known economist, who has been predicting a collapse of stock prices for some time, to start the torrent of selling.

Nervousness Shows Increase.

Increasing signs of nervousness were evident during the session, although the market took but passing notice of the overnight monthly member loan announcement showing another $400,000,000 increase, as the unchanged Bank of England was regarded as a balancing factor.

Call money renewed at 9 per cent, and for a time threatened to go higher. Predictions were heard of a flurry in money over the middle of the month, when the Treasury refinancing and the quarterly income tax payments will cause a turnover of funds totaling more than $1,000,000,000, and it was even rumored that the New York Reserve Bank might again increase its rediscount rate this afternoon. Mr. Babson's statement appeared on the news tickers in the afternoon, and seemed finally to tip the balance toward reaction.

The weekly Federal Reserve statements displayed a marked upturn in the demands for credit over the turn of the month, but also showed that the Federal Reserve system was definitely acting to stabilize conditions, increasing its holdings of bills and securites by nearly $100,000,000.

Increase Comes From Banks.

Brokers' loans mounted $137,000,000, the increase coming entirely from the banks, corporate sources having dried up for the time being, what with the month-end interest and dividend requirements and seasonal expansion of activity. Announcement this evening that the new Treasury certificates would pay 4¾ per cent, ¼ of one per cent less than the last issue, was somewhat reassuring, indicating that the Treasury is not looking for any acute money stringency.

The day's business news was generally satisfactory, including another record weekly total of freight car loadings, heavy sales of copper, and a few pleasing earnings and dividend announcements. These items, however, were generally regarded as discounted by the stock market, for the moment at least.

It was the recent favorites that were hardest hit in the reaction American Telephone dropped about 9 points, but rallied a little in the final dealings. United States Steel, New York Central, American Bank Note, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Gas, Eastman Kodak, International Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, Johns-Manville, R. H. Macy, Public Service of New Jersey, Stone & Webster, Radio, and Westinghouse were among issues closing about 5 to 8 point lower.

Chemicals Break Sharply.

The chemicals broke sharply, Allied Chemical losing nearly 19 points, Air Reduction more than 13, Columbian Carbon 10, and Du Pont 8. Pere Marquette dropped 10 points.

Several of the utilities, coppers and specialties were bid up rapidly during the morning. General Electric rose 7 points, only to tumble back more than 14 from the top in the wave of selling. Standard Gas & Electric sold up 14 points to a new peak, and lost 10 of its gain. American & Foreign Power, American Power & Light and American Water Works rose 8 to 11 points to new tops before reacting. American Smelting sold up a couple of points to a new peak, then slipped back about 4. Loose Wiles Biscuit, American Chicle and Atlas Powder were among the few isolated strong spots at the close.

Commodities were inclined to sag. Wheat futures sold higher for a time, but lost their gains in realizing. Corn eased on reports of beneficial rains, as did cotton, which closed 30 cents to $1 a bale lower.

Foreign exchanges were also under pressure, sterling cables touching $4.84¾ again, as no change was made in the Bank of England discount rate.

OUIMET, WILLING, EGAN, JOHNSTON SURVIVE PLAY

SHED A TEAR FOR BOBBY JONES

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—It is hard to believe that the defeat of Bobby Jones by young Johnny Goodman, who was promptly licked himself in the national golf tournament at Pebble Beach, was not as easy as some of the dispatches would indicate or fraught with any terrible meaning. Subtracting the hysteria from the news it appears that Robert shot a fairly rotten round of golf for him and therefore passed out of the situation.

While Jones undoubtedly felt unhappy about it, he probably suffered less than the calmest of the large personal following of nuts who assume the sweet anguish of suffering for him at the tournaments, and if any one held any one's head all night it was probably Bobby who held Obediah Keeler's head and not the reverse.

Mr. Keeler has been this young man's leading sufferer for many years and he still drags himself around the golf courses on burning feet, writhing to impart body English to his principal's wood shots and grunting with the suppression of his dread. There used to be a middle-aged sufferer in the entourage, with a somewhat moth-eaten moustache, who suffered Obediah to a couple of draw decisions some years ago, but I think his blood pressure blew his ear drums and compelled him to quit.

Mr. Keeler the Best at Free-Style Suffering.

So, for free-style suffering over the course of ten or more years there is not even a challenger for Mr. Keeler and having a gruesome imagination I can fancy his despondent goings on at Pebble Beach when this boy was beaten and by a sucker at that.

But good champions generally are saner than their partisans. Jack Dempsey when he was champion of the world always said it would take just one good tap on the chin to make an ex-champion of him, although Wild Will Lyons and other personal adherents who made their adherency almost a profession could not envision any tap on that chin at all.

Similarly, on the day that Johnny Kilbane lost the featherweight championship to Eugene Criqui, he stood in his corner after the knockout, which had been quite mild and painless, looking down at a row of his friends from Hell's Kitchen, who were taking the defeat very much to heart. During his training, Johnny had made social headquarters at a refreshment bar in the Kitchen, and now, as he gazed from the ring, he saw the proprietor poking at his eyes with a handkerchief.

Golf, of All Sports, Seems Least Heroic.

"None of that now, Paddy," Mr. Kilbane exclaimed with perfect composure as one second slashed at the glove laces with a knife and another tactfully dusted the gray resin powder from the seat of his green silk trunks. "He socked me a pip and the title is gone. But I'm through training forever, and from now on it will be nothing but beer, beer, beer!"

Of all the outdoor games, golf has always struck me as the least heroic, because the boys just amble along the route, stopping every now and again to swing a stick at a golf ball lying still on the ground. There are no physical collisions, and there is never any call for the slightest physical exertion beyond the safe capacity of a well-preserved nonagenarian.

If John D. Rockefeller can shoot his 92, then the spectacle of a young athlete doing a 69 or 70 is merely a show of precision, and all the element of dogged coritest ding-dong fighting and so forth exists only in the imagination. There is one great heroic episode on record, in which Jess Sweetser won the English championship while burning with the fever of a cold that laid him up for a year and almost cost his life, but that was a very different matter from the perpetration of a round of golf by a young man in the best of health.

Jones Perfect Example Of Modern Champion.

Of course, it would be wrong for a champion of the modern type to subscribe to the emotional hoorah about himself. Mr. Jones is the perfect example of the modern champion, a modest, honest citizen who, far from imposing on his distinction socially or otherwise, has always felt that it would have been better to stand out as prominently in one of the learned professions.

Heroism in short is a subtle thing, and this modesty is as much responsible for Bobby's public standing as his golf. In John L. Sullivan's day, the character of the champion was that of a noisy braggart who believed of himself all that the public believed of him. The public worshiped him for that as much as for his knockouts, but if Bobby Jones were to stand around the locker rooms of golf clubs today boasting of what he did to Al Espinosa in the last round of the na-

Nats at Home For 23-Game Stand

White Sox to Start Invasion by West Tomorrow.

Nats Resume Fifth Place Fight; Won 20 of Last 31.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WITH his team playing as consistently good ball as any other in the league, as is indicated by its record of 20 victories in the last 31 games, Manager Walter Johnson excused his players until tomorrow after their arrival here from Boston yesterday morning. The schedule showed two open dates and Johnson felt that, at the pace the boys have been going and will have to go from now on, rest from baseball would do them more good than practice sessions.

Although yesterday was an idle day, it was not a total loss, for the Nationals pulled up to within one game of the fifth place Tigers, due to the fact that Bucky Harris' gang was beaten by the Indians.

Beginning tomorrow, when the Chicago White Sox visit, starting the final invasion of Western clubs, Johnson's team will be kept exceptionally busy. Only 25 games remain to be played by the Nats and all but two will be played in Griffith Stadium.

Indians, Tigers and Browns Follow.

Four games will be played against the White Sox, with the Indians due for another quartet which start next Wednesday. On the following Sunday, the Tigers come here for five contests, starting with a doubleheader. The Browns, with three games listed, are the last of the visitors from the Western sector.

They end their series here on Saturday, September 21, with the Mackmen playing their final game of the year here the next day. The Nats then face three blanks before entertaining the Yankees in a four-game set, which opens the following Thursday. On October 1 and 2 the team hops to Philadelphia for two games, then returning to end the season with a brace of single contests with the Red Sox on October 5 and 6.

It is during this long home stand that Manager Johnson and his players hope to make plenty of hay. The play of the Indians and Browns has cooled their fourth place hopes, but they are determined, if possible, to beat out the Tigers for fifth. And, as Harris' team will be on the road and meeting not only the Nationals themselves in five games but also the Yankees, Mackmen and Red Sox—and the latter are proving no set-up these days—the chances of the home team of passing the Jungle Cats appear to be quite bright.

Johnson Is Confident Club Has Talent.

Manager Johnson was highly elated last night at the manner in which his team has been playing for the past month. "It just shows that the talent is there but that we simply were unable to get started this year until too late," he said.

"Jones, Liska and Brown are now available for mound duty after layoffs, Hadley is showing flashes of good form, and I think we are now strong in the departments which failed us earlier this season," he added. "Over the balance of the route, now that our hitters are hitting with the fever of a cold that laid him up for a year and almost cost his life, but that was a very different matter from the perpetration of a round of golf by a young man in the best of health.

Two rookies reported to President Clark Griffith at Nat headquarters yesterday. One was H. L. Heidelbach, a pitcher bought from the Gadsden, Alabama, team, while the other is Bob McClure, a young semipro pitcher who showed enough stuff while working out with the Nats in New York last week to warrant Manager Johnson telling him to come here for further trial.

Word also was received from W. L. Land, an outfielder, also from the Gadsden Club, that he would arrive here Monday.

Pirates Buy Sankey, Selma Pitching Ace

Selma, Ala., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Officials of the Selma Club of the Southeastern League today announced the sale of Ben Sankey, shortstop, to the Pittsburgh Club of the National League. Sankey started his baseball career at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn.

TO SWIM HERE

JOHNNY WEISSMULLER.

SWIM STARS TO APPEAR IN CITY

Weissmuller and Miss Norelius in Group Listed Sept. 14.

FOUR of the outstanding swimming and diving stars of the United States' most recent Olympic Team will be seen in exhibition in the Wardman Park Hotel pool here on September 14, it was announced last night.

The group includes Johnny Weissmuller, Harold Kruger, Martha Norelius and Helen Meany. Nevr: before has such a distinguished group of swimming and diving stars visited the Capital city. The four swimmers are now professionals, having forsaken amateur ranks within the last year.

Weissmuller, who now represents the Illinois A. C. in competition, holds practically every national record up to 1,000 meters, and his fellow Illinois A. C. member, Kruger, holds two of the national back stroke records.

Miss Norelius Winner of Wrigley Marathon.

Miss Norelius recently won the $10,000 Wrigley 10-mile marathon swim in Lake Ontario, having turned professional a few weeks prior to that remarkable performance. She has held many of the free style records in recent years.

Miss Meany is the youthful diving star, having held the national high diving title for the last few years.

Miss Norelius' father, who is now managing the Wardman Park pool, is arranging the program. The program will commence at 4 o'clock.

Indians Beat Tigers; Rain Stops Play in 6th

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Holloway, a former Detroiter, held his former teammates to two hits in five innings today and gave Cleveland a 4-0 victory and a clean sweep in the two-game series. The game was called in the first half of the sixth inning because of rain, and the score reverted to the fifth.

The victory, following one scored last Sunday, completely shattered the spell Lucas had held over the Pirates since June, 1927.

Backs Chief Concern at Michigan

Kipke Must Develop Scoring Punch in First Season.

Quarter Back Position Is Problem; Shifty Quartet Looms.

Following is another of a series of stories on football prospects this fall of leading universities.

By PAUL R. MICKLESON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Harry Kipke, one of Michigan's gridiron immortals, must develop a scoring punch in his first Maize and Blue machine this fall if he expects to pilot it back to its imposing spot in the football sun.

It was the lack of this important element that gave Michigan one of its poorest seasons last fall, only a great defense saving it from utter rout. And the identical situation faces Kipke, who is taking over the reins dropped by Tad Weiman.

Quarter back promises to be his biggest problem, although he has several prospects who may or may not come through in the strenuous schedule which calls for games with such teams as Harvard, Ohio State and Iowa at home and against Purdue, Illinois and Minnesota on foreign fields.

Simrall, Kentuckian, Appears Best Bet.

Harrison Simrall, fleet junior from Lexington, Ky., who played quarter last fall, looks like the best bet at present, but he may be ousted in favor of Kirk Holland, an elusive sophomore from Evanston, Ill. Holland has the ground-gaining qualities of a great quarter back, but didn't quite convince the Michigan coaches of his ability as a field general while on the yearling squad last year. Harry Eastman, of Detroit, who is with the Michigan Baseball Team in Japan, also is a good prospect.

The rest of the back field undoubtedly will be fast and shifty although its personnel is doubtful. "Dynamite Joe" Gembis, a terrific off-tackle plunger and one of the best drop-kick artists of the Big Ten last fall, seems assured of the full back berth again and will have a capable substitute in Maynard Morrison, a 210-pound sophomore from Royal Oak, Mich., who is a great defensive player.

Hudson May Answer Triple Threat Call.

Roy Hudson, of Girard, Ohio, may be Kipke's answer for a ground-gaining half back. He is fast and elusive and throws with his left hand and kicks them long and straight with his left foot. Alvin Dahlem, of Jackson, Mich., who starred against Illinois and Iowa last year, is back for one position in the back field, while a host of sophs are also out for a backfield berth. Frank Brown, an 188-pounder from Elgin, Ill., who gained distinction on the 1928 B squad by nabbing forward passes, also is a prospect.

Unless some sophs come through or some of the veterans are transferred, tackle will be a weak link in the Kipke machine. The loss of Otto Pommerening, all-American tackle last year, leaves the Wolves with only one half-experienced man for the post—Bud Poorman—who played opposite Pommerening now and then last year. Eddie Hayden, a 160-pounder from Chicago; Howard Auer, who was ineligible last season; Tom Roach, of Grand Rapids, who would make a great tackle if he could only arouse his fighting spirit, and Tom Samuels, of Canton, Ohio, are the leading prospects.

The wings will be strong defensively again with Capt. Joe Truskowski and Leo Draveling back, while the guard posts will be protected by a pair of veteran stalwarts—Al Steinke, of St. Joseph, Mich., and Howard Poe, of Toledo, who are the speediest pair of line men Michigan ever had.

Allen Bovard, a veteran from last year who is adept at knifing through and stopping passes, appears to have the center job cinched.

Cruikshank, Medalist, Beaten in First Round

Flushing, N. Y., Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Bobby Cruikshank, who yesterday led the qualifying field over the Pomonok Country Club course in the Metropolitan Golf Association championship, today was eliminated in the first round of match play.

The diminutive Scot fell before Sol Di Duono, 5 and 4. Gene Sarazen opened the defense of his title by eliminating James Hines, 2 and 1.

Voigt and Johnston Alternate in Lead As Fortunes Shift Quickly on Final Holes

PEBBLES BEACH, Calif., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—With Bobby Jones as the referee, the George Voigt-Harrison Johnston quarter finals match drew twice as large a gallery as was anticipated.

The fortunes of the two national amateur aspirants shifted frequently, with Voigt trailing until the eighth hole, where he squared the match. Voigt took the lead on the ninth and at the twelfth was 3 up. This advantage was whittled to one hole by Johnston at the end of the morning round.

Voigt maintained a lead until the twenty-ninth, when Johnston squared the match. Johnston took a lead on the thirty-second and Voigt squared it on the thirty-fifth, sending the match into extra holes.

Voigt and Johnston halved the first in par 4s, Voigt pitching from a trap to lay his third dead. They halved the second in 6s, each wasting a stroke. The third was also halved in par 4s, Johnston missing a 3-foot putt for a win.

Voigt Overputts on Fifth As Foe Takes Lead.

They halved the fourth in par 4s and Johnston won the fifth with a par 3 to go 1 up. Voigt overputted on the fifth and missed an 8-foot return. The sixth was halved in 6s, Johnston missing a 3-foot putt for a win.

The short seventh was halved in three par figures, when Johnston's 12-foot putt for a win rimmed the cup.

A large crowd waiting at the eighth green gave Jones a rousing ovation as he walked up in his capacity as an official. Voigt squared the match here with a par four, Johnston just missing a short putt for a half.

Voigt par foured the ninth to make the turn one up. Johnston putting badly, missed a 3-footer for a half.

Voigt Adds 2 Holes With Par Golf.

After they had halved the tenth in par fours, Voigt won the eleventh with a par four to take a two up lead. Johnston's second was in the rough, his third in a trap and he missed a putt on the green, taking six.

Voigt became three up when he won the twelfth, with a par three after laying his ball dead from a trap. Johnston was over the green on his drive.

They halved the thirteenth and fourteenth in pars, four and five, respectively, each two-putting on the greens. Voigt's lead was cut to two up when Johnston won the fifteenth with a par four. Voigt's second landed in a trap.

The sixteenth was halved in par fours and they drove even on the seventeenth with par threes. On the seventeenth Johnston exploded from a trap and sank a 6-foot putt, his ball just grazing Voigt's, which was hanging on the lip of the cup. Johnston chopped Voigt's lead to one up, by winning the eighteenth with a par five. Voigt's third reached a trap and he exploded over the green, coming back for a six.

Voigt won the nineteenth and twenty-first to go 2 up, dropping the twentieth as a result of getting into a trap on his second. Johnston got a nice birdie 4 on the twentieth, sinking a 4-foot putt. On twenty-first Johnston dubbed his third shot and took a 5, one over par.

Voigt was still 2 up at the twenty-fourth. They halved the twenty-second in par fours and Johnston picked up the twenty-third when Voigt three-putted to take a four, Johnston getting par 3. Voigt got a birdie 4 on the twenty-fourth to go 2 up. Johnston making it in par.

They halved the twenty-fifth in threes, when Johnston recovered from a trap and sank a 9-foot putt. Also the twenty-sixth was halved in fours.

On the twenty-seventh, Voigt made a great recovery from a trap and sank a five-footer to halve the hole and stay two up. Johnston hit a fine spoon second within thirty feet of the cup.

Johnston squared his match after winning the twenty-eighth with a twelve-foot putt and twenty-ninth when Voigt was in a trap. They halved the thirtieth, Johnston sinking a difficult eight-foot putt after coming out of a trap, also the thirty-first where a great chip shot, two inches from the cup, again saved the St. Paul star. Voigt got his par 4.

Johnston took the lead at the 555-yard thirty-second, where Voigt got into a trap on his third and took 6 to Jimmy's 5. On the thirty-third Voigt was in another trap, but recovered well and saved a half in 4.

They halved the thirty-fourth in 4s, both missing putts for birdies by inches. Both missed the thirty-fifth green, Johnston going over on the ocean side and Voigt to a trap. Jimmy went across the green and George exploded short. Johnston took three putts, lost the hole and the match was all square.

Both were well up with their wood shots on the 540-yard home hole and chipped in, Johnston 12 feet away and Voigt 20. Jimmy's putt hung on the lip and they halved the hole in par 5s, going to the first extra hole.

They were on the thirty-seventh in 2 and down in 2. Johnston missed a 10-foot putt by two inches for a win.

They halved the thirty-eighth with birdie 4s and went to the third extra hole.

Johnston settled the issue on the third extra hole, the thirty-ninth of the match, when he got his par 4 to Voigt's 5. The New Yorker got in a trap and took 3 to get on.

gin to 6 up at the close of the first round, as he shot close to par golf all the way, and ended the contest on the thirty-first green. The big New Yorker, champion himself in 1922, made a game fight, winning the thirtieth hole when he was dormie seven and hitting the back of the cup with his bid for a birdie on the last hole, only to have the ball bounce out, giving Egan the half he needed to settle the match.

Tolley, after his par-crashing play of the first two rounds, was a big favorite to go into the finals, but he was wild as a hawk today and no match for the steady, at times brilliant, play of the battling dentist from Portland, Oreg. One of the most deliberate performers in the game, Dr. Willing took even extra caution with his shots today, sighting his putts fore, aft and sideways as he played every stroke with meticulous care.

Tolley Wild Off Tees.

The result was to give him a lead of 2 up after the morning round. He was 3 up at the twenty-seventh and ended the match on the thirty-third hole of the afternoon play, resisting all of Tolley's courageous challenges. Seldom has Tolley been any wilder than he was off the tees, finding the rough, the traps or the trees on at least half his drives and saving himself for an even worse beating only by some miraculous recoveries or good putts. Willing left few loopholes as he went out in the afternoon in 35, one under part, and played the last fifteen holes in even par, a sharp contrast with the morning round, when the Oregonian was around in 80 and Tolley in a mediocre 82.

Voigt and Johnston, a pair of seasoned campaigners, put on a battle worthy of their mettle, a nip and tuck duel that had a big gallery thrilled all the way. Until the twenty-ninth hole of the afternoon Voigt held the edge most of the way and appeared to be headed for victory. The New Yorker, 3 up at the twelfth, was only 1 up at the end of the first eighteen holes, but he was 2 up at the twenty-seventh. There the tide shifted again, and in quick succession Johnston captured the twenty-eighth, where he sank a 12-foot putt, and the twenty-ninth, where Voigt got into a trap.

Voigt Missed Losing Putt by 2 Inches.

All square now, they fought on even terms to the thirty-second, where Voigt again caught a trap with his third shot to this 555-yard layout and wound up with a 6 as "Jimmy" got his par 5 handily. The next were squared, but on the thirty-fifth both hit poor tee shots, Johnston going over the sand bank back of the green and Voigt into a trap in front.

"Jimmy" came out so strong that his ball skidded all the way over the green and George barely exploded to the green. Johnston's putt was short by three feet and he missed an attempt to slice around a partial stymie laid by Voigt's first putt. The New Yorker won, 4 to 5, and they went to the home hole all square. Both were on in 3, but Johnston's putt of twelve feet stopped on the lip of the cup and they halved in par 5s.

They fought each other to a standstill on the first two extra holes, both getting birdie 4s on the thirty-eighth when Johnston sank a 15-foot putt, but on the thirty-ninth Voigt's second shot landed in a trap to the right of the green. He exploded ten feet beyond the pin and missed his putt only by two inches, taking 5, while Johnston bagged the par 4 that gave him the match.

Bobby Jones Witnesses Voigt-Johnston Match.

Bobby Jones spent most of his day following this struggle, receiving an ovation from the gallery when he strode up in the morning, and he stayed to the last putt.

Like Johnston, Quimet made an uphill battle to put out the sensational San Francisco youngster, Little,

WHITNEY ENTRY RUNS ONE-TWO IN MATRON STAKES

$25,000 Race Captured by Dustemall

Outruns Stablemate, Murky Cloud, to Win at 6-1 Odds.

Pansy Walker Runs Fourth; 6 Furlongs Made in 1:11.

By ORLO L. ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Sending out an entry to run one-two in a race appears to be the habit with Harry Payne Whitney and Trainer Jimmy Rowe.

For the second time in less than a week the light blue and brown topped Whitney silks finished first and second in an important stake event as Dustemall led the field home in the Matron Stakes at Belmont Park today and Murky Cloud took down place money. Whitney's other one-two triumph was at Saratoga last Saturday when Boojum and Whichone, the stars of his stable, finished in order named in the Hopeful.

But today the Whitney entry did not go to the post at such prohibitive odds as did Boojum and Whichone. Dustemall and Murky Cloud were quoted at 6 to 1, with the Three D's Stock Farm's Pansy Walker the odds-on favorite. In many other ways, however, the rich turf event for 2-year-old fillies resembled the Saratoga classic.

Pansy Walker Shows Way After Start.

With Pony McAtee up on Dustemall and Sonny Workman astride Murky Cloud, the Whitney pair got away in the middle of the field of ten. Pansy Walker showed the way to the final quarter of the 6-furlong route, where Murky Cloud moved into a brief lead. But in the final furlong McAtee brought Dustemall along fast and in a hard drive beat his stablemate by a half length. Finding the pace too hot, Pansy Walker gave way to E. R. Bradley's Believe Sally, which finished two lengths back of the Whitney pair for show money.

The victory, which was achieved in 1:11, was worth $26,750 to the popular owner, of which $1,500 was for second place.

Senator Insects Take French's League Flag

By defeating the Webcos yesterday, 4 to 1, the Senator Nine clinched the French's Insect League title for the season. Talburtt was invincible on the mound for the winners. Pohl and Garner limited the winners to four hits, but they bunched them early. Mintzell and Stuart were the hitting stars. McDonald's fielding featured.

PENNANT LASS broke slow, went up with a rush on the outside, swerved over, forcing Fields, on PRINCESS TINA, to take up. PENNANT LASS drew away, but just lasted to win. PRINCESS TINA was going very strong when shut off. She recovered quickly and finished with a rush. OKAYBEE opened a wide lead, saved ground and had no mishaps. PASSE had early speed. NETTIE STONE ran a miserable race.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs (Widener course.) Purse, $5,000 added. The Matron Stakes. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:04. Off at 4:09. Winner, H. P. Whitney's br. f. (2), by Chicle—Miss Whisk. Trained by J. Rowe, jr. Value to winner, $25,250; second, $1,500; third, $750; fourth, $300. Time, 1:11.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RIFF RAFF, $3.96, $3.38, $2.94; HURSTLAND, $0.64, $6.36; PAUL HIRTENSTEIN, $3.64.

RIFF RAFF, away well, was reserved off the early pace until rounding into the stretch, where he moved up fast and, taking the lead, won with speed in reserve. HURSTLAND showed good speed in pacemaking and held on well after being headed to save the place. PAUL HIRTENSTEIN raced forwardly all the way and finished well. ONCORA had no mishaps.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. the Miss Aileen Stanley. For 2-year-olds. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:00½. Off at 3:07. Winner, S. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—THEO ROCHESTER, $10.70, $4.84, $3.28; TAKE OFF, $5.52, $4.30; JUSTINA, $3.36.

THEO ROCHESTER, well ridden, raced reserved off the early pace to the stretch, where he forced his way between the leaders and outfinished TAKE OFF. The latter, much used in racing JUSTINA into submission, took a brief lead in the stretch, but could not withstand winner's challenge. JUSTINA showed good speed in setting the early pace but tired in the final furlong. ZEVE'S GOLD had no excuse.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. The Phil Baker. For 3-year-olds. Start poor. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:34½. Off at 3:35. Winner, A. A. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BILLY BASIL, $5.82, $3.92, $2.94; HARPOON, $5.86, $4.08; LADY LANTA, $3.04.

BILLY BASIL, reserved off early pace, moved into the lead with a rush in the stretch and drew out decisively. HARPOON made a stout bid in the stretch, but could not withstand the winner's challenge. LADY LANTA showed good speed in pacemaking, but quit badly in the stretch. MARY M'CLAIN ran a good race from a poor beginning. LAMKIN showed a dull effort.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,300. The Rosita Mareno. For 2-year-olds. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:03. Off at 4:05. Winner, D. E. WASHINGTON-LEE GRID PRACTICE IN FULL SWING

35 Candidates Are Seeking Berths

More Expected When Second Week's Work Starts.

Two Daily Sessions Being Staged by Coach Oberst.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Sept. 5.—Thirty-five Washington and Lee grid men are being put through their paces by Coach Gene Oberst. Two practice periods daily, one at 9:30 a. m., and another at 3:30 p. m., are scheduled for the next ten days, after which the morning practice will be dropped in favor of classroom work. The morning sessions are the more strenuous, with the afternoon left for light work in lightweight equipment.

It is not expected that pads and helmets will be donned even in the mornings until the last of this week or the first of next, the postponement of scrimmage work being due to the desire to thoroughly condition the men first and thereby lessen the chances of those disastrous early injuries which sometimes occur on a squad.

Some fifty-odd men have been invited back to early practice by the coaching staff, and it is expected that most of these will report by the end of this week.

14 Monogram Men Eligible From 1928 Squad.

Of the fourteen monogram men eligible from last year's squad, Capt. Bill Hawkins, Seligman, Martin and Groop, of the line; Day, an end; and Thibbodeau, Jones, Faulkner, and Eberhardt, of the backfield, have already reported. Hostetter, Devine, Tallyn, Bledsoe, Holstein, and McClanahan, of last year's reserves, are linemen among the early comers. Sandifer, of last year's reserve backfield, arrived late Monday night.

Many promising freshmen of the 1928 yearling squad are in camp. Among these are Wilson, Crossen, Freeman, Bailey, Harris, Rosenberg, Morris, Wicke, Tilson, Tonsmeire, Martin, MacDonald, Stevens, McLaurin, Stapleton, Mitchell Jennings and Ade.

Duke Athletic Plant Boasts Six Diamonds

Durham, N. C., Sept. 5.—One of the largest tracts of level ground in the east central section of North Carolina will be on the new Duke University campus when the university's new athletic field is completed. A large part of it has already been graded, but several more weeks will be required for the work.

Six baseball diamonds, including a varsity diamond with stands is planned for the field immediately upon completion, it is stated. The tract is situated just west of the new stadium and the gymnasium that is now under construction. It is high, well drained and fringed with a heavy growth of timber.

According to Duke athletic officials, the large field, owing to its proximity to the new stadium, will serve as one of the main parking areas for football crowds. Thousands of automobiles, it is pointed out, can be parked there without congestion.

There will be additional athletic fields at the university besides the large tract and the gridiron in the stadium. Within the stadium lot will be a practice field for the varsity football team and nearby will be a tract for freshman gridders. There is still another field that is naturally level and needs little grading to be placed in condition for use.

BOBBY JONES FINDS WORK FOR WEEPERS

Only Bobby Probably Appreciated Upset.

Bobby himself, perhaps, the only one present at Pebble Beach who had a sane, unaffected appreciation of the round in which he failed, probably entered that one on his own records as one very punk performance, but no great calamity. After Tunney beat him at Philadelphia, Dempsey said, "If Tunney had been any good, he would have killed me because I fought like a tramp."

So I imagine that with young Mr. Jones, the figures of speech about the flashing blade that hacked and flailed, the grim struggle and the Waterloo are just so much of the stuff that set people to following bands down the street.

Hampden-Sidney Gridmen Busy Prepping for Season

Coach Bernier Now Working With Squad of 40 With More Reporting Daily; Garden, 1928 Frosh, Seen as Great Prospect.

Special to The Washington Post.

HAMPDEN-SIDNEY, Va., Sept. 5. Tigers gathering back to Death Valley are now greeted by the thud of the pigskin as Coach Bernier's squad engages in early practice. About 40 men have already reported with others arriving all the time.

The honor of being the first man to arrive and the first to be equipped went to a hefty prospect coming up from last year's Freshman Eleven, Charlie Garden, of Prospect, Va. This young man should give some keen competition for a place in the back field as he tips the beam at 190 stripped weight. Fast for his weight, Charlie can skirt the ends as well as pierce the line. He also passes and kicks.

Graham, coach of last year's Tiger Frosh Team, gives Garden a big boost saying he can back up the line par excellence. Garden should be on the map for three years at least, provided, of course, he makes his college work and is elegible for competition.

Ruffner Expected to Gain Place In Back Field.

The second man to enter the equipment room of the Tiger lair, arriving footsore from Charleston, W. Va., was checked off as Jack Ruffner, Tiger back field star of Bernier's 1927 machine. Ruffner appears in good shape and ready for scrimmage right away. The West Virginian has put on some weight and should make a great back field running mate for Garden.

The Valley of Virginia was represented by "Fats" Lineweaver, who expects to dislodge John Hunt at center, and "Bus" Weller, who is a dead ringer for the famous Pooley Hubert, of Alabama fame.

West Virginia sent its usual large quota of material to the Tiger camp. "Icky" Reveley, veteran line man, and his brother, "Little Ick;" "Hard" Santrock, Joe Perry and Jack Field were the vanguard.

Tidewater, Va., sent Mike Hughes fresh from Black Bear Camp, and "Flicky" Harwood, brother of the former W. & M. star.

Purnell and Martin Among Early Arrivals.

South Carolina citizens, Purnell and Martin, reported early. Maryland offered Ritz, a fast-charging line man. Dickinson, of Burkeville; Ingles, of Radford; Link and Withrow, of North Carolina, and Lawson, South Boston veteran, were on hand.

Equipment being issued, light workouts were held on Death Valley. This will be the scene of strenuous action from now on, for the Tigers will lose no time getting ready for their tilt with the V. M. I. at Lexington.

MOHAWK PREPS PLAN.

A first practice for the Mohawk Prep football team, which plans to compete in 150-pound ranks this season, will be held Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, at the Virginia Avenue Playground.

Five More Candidates Report at Lynchburg

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 5.—Five more football candidates have joined the camp at Lynchburg College, these making 22 men now under training. The recent arrivals include Thomas, half back, and Gerald, full back in 1927; Barbee, end; Oakes, half back, and Dickey, a likely looking player from Christiansburg High.

Rose and Rardin, stars with last year's team, are assisting Coach Wright with the training until their schools open. Rardin is to coach at Randolph-Macon Academy, Bedford and Rose at Buchanan High.

Jones' Golf Record Ready Early This Year

Pebble Beach, Calif., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Usually it takes until around the final day to post the tournament record of Bobby Jones, but for the first time in six years it can be done before the second day of competition starts.

Before he began his big winning streak, Jones was eliminated in the second round at Chicago in 1923, by Max Marston, the winner that year, but the four-time champion met defeat in the first round for the first time yesterday when he bowed to Johnny Goodman, of Omaha.

Here is Jones' record for twelve years of play in the national amateur tournament:

1916—Made debut at 14, winning first two matches and losing to Bob Gardner, 5 and 3 in third round.
1919—Lost to Davidson Herron in final, 5 and 4.
1920—Lost to Francis Ouimet in semi-finals, 6 and 5.
1921—Lost to Willie Hunter in third round, 2 and 1.
1922—Lost to Jess Sweetser in semi-finals, 8 and 7.
1923—Lost to Max R. Marston in second round, 2 and 1.
1924—Won championship, beating George Von Elm, 9 and 8.
1925—Won championship, beating Watts Gunn, 8 and 7.
1926—Lost to George Von Elm, in finals, 2 and 1.
1927—Won championship, beating Chick Evans, 8 and 7.
1928—Won championship, beating Phil Perkins, 10 and 9.
1929—Lost to Johnny Goodman in first round, 1 down.

DUKE SQUAD TO REPORT MONDAY

35 Candidates Give Coach a Well-Balanced Group.

Special to The Washington Post.

DURHAM, N. C., Sept. 5.—When Coach Jimmie Heart's Duke Blue Devils begin fall training next Monday, there will be a well-balanced squad of 35 players on their toes working for the first eleven positions.

Eight ends and eight tackles will be on hand to lead the number of aspirants for berths. Hayes, Peeler, Rosky, and Schofield are the older ends on the squad who can expect competition from McKeithan, Grant, Hyatt and Langston. Schofield is a Washington boy. Capt. Henry Kistler leads the veteran tackles — Davis, Warren, Carpenter and Cole. New tackles will be Bryan, Matthews and Lemons.

There will be at least ten back field men on the squad, three full backs, two quarters, and five halfs. Jankoski will return to his full position, and two Sophs will contend for the berth—Coleman and Rochelle.

Brewer to Give Buie Fight for Quarter Berth.

The old halfs are Godfrey, Murray and Plyler. Beaver and Robertson are half backs from the sophomore ranks who show promise. Sam Buie, veteran quarter, will find "Kid" Brewer, a soph, working for his regular position.

An interesting duel is expected to ensue when Rupp, a junior, and Friedman, a sophomore, scrap to succeed Capt. Hunter, center, lost by graduation. Jennings is a third available center.

Bob Thorne will be the only regular guard to report, but there are several youngsters who will fight for the position made vacant by Okle Jones. Adkins, Taylor, Jordan, Russ and Blackmon will scramble for the open post.

N. C. U. MUST DEVELOP LINE

Able Corps of Fast-Moving Backs Is Predicted.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Sept. 5.—Seventy or more candidates answered the call for football practice at the University of North Carolina and are now hard at work.

Head Coach Chuck Collins and his coaching partners face a rather stiff assignment fairly optimistically. The Tarheels have a ten-game schedule over an eleven-week period, with eight of the engagements against Southern Conference foes, and not an easy spot on the whole card. The first game, with Wake Forest in Kenan Stadium here on September 28, is less than a month away. The Baptists are regarded as the mystery team of the North Carolina "big five" this year.

Prospects seem fairly hopeful at this stage. Sixteen lettermen are expected back. Nine of the veterans will be in the back field, and it would seem to Coach Collins that the Tarheels will have a fairly strong club if a line can be developed to match the able corps of fast-moving backs.

Ineligibility of Suggs Blow To Coaches.

The only last-minute developments, incidentally, are somewhat pessimistic. Bill Suggs, big Chapel Hill full back from last year's freshman team, who was one of the big reasons why the Tar Babies licked the Princeton Frosh, was being counted on as a fine possibility to plug a hole in the line—and Big Bill was reported as ineligible, due to scholastic deficiencies. And similarly for Bob Blackwood, steady veteran guard from last year's varsity.

The lettermen available are Holt and Finner, ends; Adkins and Goenig, tackles; Capt. Parris, Eskew and Hudson, guards; Magner, Nash, Jackson, Ward, Erickson and Maus, half backs; House and Harden, full backs, and Wyrick, quarter back.

Bartrug Punts Well At W. Va. Grid Camp

Jackson's Mill, W. Va., Sept. 5.—That the West Virginia University varsity football eleven will receive good punting this season has already been demonstrated here, despite the fact that the training camp is only a few days old.

Realizing the importance of high-class kicking, Coach Ira Rodgers' first act at the initial workout was to hand "Eddie" Bartrug a brand new football. Bartrug, one of the best punters in eastern collegiate football last year, slammed the pigskin down the field fifty yards and "Eddie" Stumpp was parking under it, while the two leading terminal candidates, Nelson Lang and Gene Joseph, rushed down to "cover" the receiver.

To date, Bartrug, Jacob Sebulsky and John Doyle have been punting in sensational style. The latter two are sophomore backfield candidates of more than ordinary promise. Sebulsky, a rangy 170-pound quarterback who was rated as the best defensive man on the freshman squad last year, is doing especially well at the kicking station, averaging nearly 50 yards with his boots to date.

Purses of Christner, Risko Are Withheld

Cleveland, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Purses of Johnny Risko and K. O. Christner, whose scheduled 12-round bout was stopped in the ninth last night when Referee Patsy Haley declared Christner the winner on a foul, were held up by the city boxing commission today.

The commission announced that its action was due to fouling tactics of both fighters, and that they would not be paid pending the commission's meeting next Monday. Christner objected to the commission's action, but Safety Director Edwin D. Barry, chairman of the boxing commission, told him: "According to the referee, you're not so clean yourself. You hit low in the fourth round." Haley also said Risko hit low twice before the final foul.

Risko exhibited a 2-inch gash over his left eye which he said the Akron man inflicted by butting him with his head. "I just lost my head," the baker boy said, in explaining the foul.

BYRNE GIVEN ST. JOHN'S POST

Former G. U. Star to Succeed Sullivan as Sports Chief.

PAULIE BYRNE, former star athlete at Gonzaga and Georgetown University, has been chosen to succeed T. Zube Sullivan as director of athletics at St. John's College, it was reliably learned last night. Byrne will take over his duties immediately after the fall school term gets under way, it was announced, and will coach the football team.

Sullivan, who had directed athletic activities at the Vermont avenue school the past few seasons and has succeeded in expanding the athletic program to a great extent, will devote his time to business.

Byrne first gained recognition in sports while attending Gonzaga. For four years he was the outstanding athlete in practically every sport and after receiving his diploma carried on successfully for Georgetown in 1922, 23 and 24. He proved a star as a football back and was an outstanding performer on the basket ball court and baseball diamond.

Was Star at Loyola For Two Years.

He entered Loyola College at Baltimore in 1923 and enjoyed two years of stardom in three major sports there. Since leaving the Baltimore college he has been coaching teams in New England States. Last year he handled the back field coaching at St. James High School at New Haven, Conn., and aided in bringing another State championship to that school.

who had scalped Phillips Finlay in the first round and put out the conqueror of Jones, Johnny Godman, in the second round yesterday. Little was 3 up at the eighth, 2 up at the turn and only 1 up at the end of the first eighteen, as Ouimet began to overhaul his rival. The Western youth was 2 up again at the twenty-seventh. But he began to lose control after that, finding truble as Ouimet, growing steadier, finished the last nine in even par to win.

Ouimet Steadies as Foe Wavers.

The Bostonian squared the macth finally at the 555-yard thirty-second hole, where Little got into the same trap that proved so costly to Voigt. Ouimet also won the thirty-third, to go 1 up, as Little got into the woods. Halving the next two holes, it took a great finish by the former champion to save his margin on the last hole. His drive, partly topped, found a trap, and he needed a fine spoon shot to reach the green in 3, 20 feet from the cup. Little sent two smashing wood to within 30 yards of the green and then chiped to within 3 feet of the cup, dead for a birdie. But the veteran had a great stroke left and rammed his long one home for a birdie to end the match.

BOWLERS ELECT.

Alice Burke was reelected president of the Washington Ladies' Bowling League last night. Bertha Greevy was elected vice president and Helen Kohler, secretary-treasurer. James Baker was again named scorer. The season will start October 1.

SERIES TITLE CONTEST TODAY

Pullman, Hospital Nines Aided by Layoff Yesterday.

PREVENTED by rain from meeting yesterday, the Pullman A. C. and Naval Hospital Nines will clash today at 4 o'clock on the Terminal "Y" diamond at Union Station in the final game of the week-day league's championship series. The day of idleness proved a boon to both of the contenders and it is probable that each will have its full strength on hand today for the deciding battle.

To the Pullman Team, the downpour of yesterday proved a big aid, as Eddie Colliflower, its mound ace, was enabled to get in a day of rest after his eight innings of toil against the Union Printers on Tuesday and it is probable that he will be ready to return to action today.

On the other hand, the Naval Team was benefited, as Doc Hicks and Miller, two of the strong links in the powerful machine, who have been nursing "charley horses," gained another day in which to shake out those bothersome kinks.

"Lefty" Crews Due to Pitch For Hospital Nine.

With the ace of the Naval Hospital mound staff, Ingram, out for the remainder of the season, the pitching burden today will be thrust upon "Lefty" Crews, who turned back Pullman's sluggers with two hits in the first meeting between these two teams.

The loss of Ingram has been quite a blow to the champions of the Departmental League. After stopping the heaviest hitting teams in this section during the first three months of the campaign, the big right-hander has been forced out of combat by illness, greatly reducing the strength of the title contenders.

If he is ready to return to the mound today, Colliflower will no doubt get the assignment for Pullman. Should he fail to recuperate with the aid of a day of idleness, Lefty Tripp will be Crew's opponent.

Naval Team Gave Pullman Only Series Defeat.

Both the Pullman and Naval Hospital Teams have a single loss to their credit, and today's contest is to decide which is to gain the week-day league's title. Naval Hospital's lone defeat was meted out by the Union Printers Tuesday. The Pullman's single reverse was sustained in a heated battle with their opponents of today. The score of that engagement was 4 to 3.

Officials in charge of the series are planning to accommodate a record crowd this afternoon. The attendance at the series games to date has far exceeded that of last year. The contenders this year were more evenly matched and greater interest was displayed from the outset.

Temple U. Is Blessed With Plenty of Backs

Special to The Washington Post.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 5.—Heinie Miller, head coach of the Temple University Football squad, expects his powerful group of backs to carry the Owls through this 1929 schedule, the most difficult log ever attempted by a Cherry and White team and which includes contests with Western Maryland, Washington and Jefferson, Bucknell, Lafayette, Villanova, Drake University, of Des Moines, Missouri Valley champions, as well as four other opponents of lesser prominence.

The Temple tutor was fortunate in not losing a single backfield mater by graduation, and as a result will not only have seven well trained veterans but a batch of five promising backs coming up from the undefeated freshman team of last fall, with which to work. So, certainly there will be no problem of finding sufficient ball-carrying material to replace either Miller or Back Field Coach Dan Hawa. Perhaps their only puzzle will be in selecting the first four players for the varsity back field.

MARY DELLA

A Serial Story

By JULIE ANNE MOORE.

CHAPTER XXV.

While she changed her costume Mary Della listened to Miriam's flow of praise, still wondering what had happened to create so much excitement.

"Mary Della, darling," Miriam was bubbling, "do you know what all that racket meant? Child, you're a hit! They went crazy about you, honey. Good gosh, what a riot you turned out to be. And orchids! For the love of heaven, who had jack enough to buy orchids?"

"I forgot to look for a card," Mary Della replied innocently. "Will you see if there's one in the box, Miriam?"

Miriam went into the box as if it had contained something sacred, and from beneath the precious lavender blooms carefully extracted a small card. She handed it to Mary Della and then stared at it over her shoulder and read aloud:

"May I offer my congratulations in person after the show? BOB."

"Can you beat it!" Miriam exclaimed. "Child, he's gone clean batty over you. Don't tell me he's going to marry some girl up on the hill. Not unless he's opening a harem."

"But he is," Mary Della insisted "Is going to marry the Marabee girl. I mean. Not open a harem. He's just nice, Miriam, and he feels like he ought to pay some attention to me while this murder mess is going on Will you pin this cuff on the inside Miriam?"

A few minutes before the second act Brett called from outside the dressing room door.

"Can you come out a minute, Mary Della?"

"Sure. Do I look O. K., Miriam?"

"Darling, you look like a hundred million dollars to me," Miriam declared. "Go on out and see what Brett wants."

Mary Della closed the door after her and, still holding to the knob leaned back and smiled at Brett.

"I want you to meet a friend of mine, Mary Della. Miss Chubb, Mr. Colinstein."

A fat little man with a bald head and a perpetual smile stepped up and held out his hand

"You were born for the stage, girlie," he said to Mary Della. "I've seen plenty of amateors, but you beat 'em."

"Mr. Colinstein wants to talk to you, Mary Della," Brett explained "But he'll have to wait until after the second act. It's about time to go on."

Mr. Colinstein made an abbreviated bow and followed Brett back to the wings.

"Good night, honey; what's wrong?" Miriam jumped up and put her hands on Mary Della's shoulders. "Somebody hurt your feelings?"

Mary Della shook her head. "No, But I'm beginning to get dizzy from all the excitement, Miriam. Brett just introduced some friend of his. Said his name is Colinstein, and he looks to me like the pictures of Herman Colinstein. Ever hear of him?"

"Puts on musical comedies in New York, don't he? Wow! Suppose he offers to put you on Broadway. Wouldn't that be tough, now? Did he say anything?"

"Said he wanted to talk to me after the next act. But he can't be Herman Colinstein and hanging around a skit like this. I wish I could go home and go to bed, Miriam."

"Aw, come on, honey. Things are just beginning to look up now. This is going to be a big night for you, br I miss my guess. There's Brett calling us out . . . Come on, girls."

At the close of the second act, Brett and Colinstein sat on a table while Mary Della occupied the only chair on the set.

"I ought to tell you, Mary Della, that Mr. Colinstein is a producer and came here because he has confidence in my judgment of talent. We've been friends for years, and I knew he would realize that I had an unusual find when I asked him to come up for this show."

"Brett's a good boy," said Colinstein affectionately. "Ought to be in the business hisself, but he thinks he's cut out for something else. May change his mind after we get you lined up."

"He means, Mary Della," said Brett, "that he's willing to give you a tryout in one of his shows in New York. Isn't that great"

"But——" Mary Della was about to say that she didn't want a place in any of his shows anywhere, but she thought better of it. "Why, I never—I never thought about such a thing before. . . "

"Well, that's natural," Colinstein assured her. "But what's the difference. You can think about it now, and I'm giving you a good chance. There's money in it, lots of it. But better, there's fame. Know what I mean? Bright lights with your name spelled out, maybe. And lots of letters from fans. And your pictures in the papers. And maybe movies when you throw me over like all the good lookers do."

"It sure sounds great," Mary Della admitted. "But I can't think now. I'm too excited."

"That's all right with me," Colinstein said, and nodded to Brett. "I got plenty of time. You think about it, girlie, and when you get ready to bust into big time, just tell Brett to send me a wire."

"She'll take you up, all right," Brett said, patting Mary Della's hand. "It's too good an opportunity to miss. Better run change now, Mary Della. This is the last blow."

Miriam was waiting wide-eyed "What'd he say, honey? Was it the Colinstein? Did he offer you a job in the Follies? Gee, you're not going to cry, are you?"

"I wish I could," Mary Della declared. "I don't know of anything that'd do me more good right now . . . He did offer me a job in a show, Miriam, but why did he?"

She pulled the frock over her head and threw it on a chair.

"Miriam, I feel like I was getting near the end of a long dream. Is it all real . . . ?"

One thing about it was real at any rate, and that was Robert Henley Calkman, 3d, who took Mary Della's arm at the bottom of the stairs and hurried her through the crowd to a dark blue limousine with a liveried chauffeur.

"Holy smokes!" Mary Della whispered. "What's this, a private pullman?"

Robert threw his head back and laughed.

"It's my mother's show-off car," he said. "Mother and dad drove in from Detroit this morning and I borrowed this to run over an see——"

"Miss Marabee . . . . ?"

Robert's face was a study. He seemed undecided whether to smile or be angry.

"You are much too wise, little lady," he declared with conviction. "I did tell dad I was coming to see Marjorie. But you see where I am . . . How you did take that house down, Mary Della. I was as proud of you as if I had been responsible for your success."

"They sure were nice about applauding, all right," Mary Della said, wondering how applause could mean success. "You don't know how the orchids helped, Bob. I never got closer to an orchid than the outside of a florist's window, you know."

The chauffeur had followed Robert's directions, and instruction; he now pulled up to the curb before the Georgian on East Main street and held the door open while Mary Della and Bob stepped out gaily.

Half an hour later they entered the car again, and Robert specified the shortest route to the Chubb flat.

"Straight ahead to the traffic light and turn right; I'll show you the house, Merrick."

The cumbersome vehicle edged back into the middle of the street and swung around the Soldiers' Monument.

"Why so serious, fair one?" Robert asked lightly. "Tired?"

Mary Della did not answer at once, but casually surveyed the luxurious interior of the car, and then gazed out at the familiar shop windows.

"No, Bob, I'm not tired. I was just thinking what a coward I am"

"Coward?"

"Well, what else? I get fresh and lead you into a jam. Then when you try to be decent to me, I don't just thank you and let you go on your way, but I hang on, snatching at every chance to be with you, telling you we've got to call it quits, and then almost falling in your arms when you show up again."

Robert stared at her, confused.

"What are you talking about, Mary Della? I don't seem to gather."

"Don't be like that, Bob," she replied quickly. "You know what I mean We don't belong to the same sort, Bob. Take me here in this mean-looking bus, for example I don't fit the picture and I ought to be ashamed to sit here like a fine lady when by rights you should be with the girl you're going to marry. She's used to this kind of racket and she's one of your kind. See what I'm getting at?"

Robert spoke to the chauffeur and closed the glass slide between them as the machine came to a stop before the Chubb door.

"Suppose, Mary Della, there was no other girl," he said quietly.

"We can't suppose that, Bob. There's the difference between me and you, money and society and education and a lot more. And besides, there is another girl."

"But just suppose there wasn't," he insisted, nodding to the chauffeur who was waiting to open the door.

"Then there'd only be that big difference between us," Mary Della replied, stepping to the sidewalk. "But that's more than plenty, Bob."

MOST BOND PRICES MOVE IRREGULARLY

Some Investment Issues Improve While Convertibles Sell Off.

FOREIGN LIST IS DULL

New York, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Declines of 1 to 7 points in convertibles and the appearance of a somewhat better tone in a number of pivotal investment issues of standard types marked today's trading on the bond market. Inquiry for obligations of all grades remained light in view of the firmness of money, and the trend of the list as a whole was irregular.

Announcement of the Treasury's September 15 financing operations, involving the issuance of $500,000,000 in nine-month 4⅞ per cent certificates, came after the close of a session which found listed Government securities showing noticeable improvement. Although the coupon on the forthcoming issue, 6¼ per cent lower than that carried by the June 15 notes, it was recalled that the 5½ per cent rate of the latter had brought an immediate and substantial premium in the certificates, indicating that the Treasury had been a trifle too generous. The maturing notes carry 4¼ and 4¾ per cent rates and the higher interest offered by the new issue reflects the recent trend of money rates.

Share privilege bonds had a dull day. Until the selling wave struck the stock market these obligations had been turning over in small volume, but the drop in prices brought out some liquidation. American Telephone 4½s showed the maximum net decline of 7 points, with International Telephone 4½s a close second, down 6⅝. Atchison 4½s lost 3½ on the day and the Alleghany Corporation 5s dipped 1 to 1¼.

A few first-grade rails, notably Atchison general 4s, moved higher, and were accompanied by a handful of representative industrials and utilities, such as Bethlehem Steel 5½s, Pacific Gas & Electric 5s and North American Edison 5½s. Erie refunding and improvement 5s turned over in unusually large blocks, but made a net decline of half a point. Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s lost a point.

Fisk Rubber 8s, which for several days had been rising under the impetus of sinking fund purchases, lost a maximum of 10 points on the withdrawal of that support, closing at 98½ for a net loss of 9½. Goodyear Tire & Rubber 5s were unable to maintain an early gain and finished with a fractional loss.

The foreign list ruled well, although French Republic issues advanced about half a point. Kreuger & Toll 5s with warrants traded in considerable volume, but moved within a narrow price range.

Liberty fourth 4¼s changed hands to the extent of nearly $1,000,000, par value, an unusually large total for the current market, and finished a quarter of a point higher. The strongest of the listed Governments were the Treasury 3½s of 1943-47, which climbed one-half.

ECONOMISTS STUDY INCREASE IN LOANS

Both Hope and Doubt Expressed Here Over New Stock Market Rally.

BOND TRADING IMPROVES

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

With brokers' loans climbing to a new high, a bear raid on Wall street and prediction of price crashes by expert economists, there was hope and doubt in financial circles here and elsewhere last night regarding a stock rally similar to that following the August rediscount break.

Following the sharp gain in loans to members of the New York Stock Exchange which brought a total as of August 31 to a new high, $7,881,619,426, brokers' loans made another record advance, the Federal Reserve Board reporting yesterday $6,354,000,000 in loans on securities to brokers and dealers, a $137,000,000 increase over the preceding week and eclipsing the erstwhile record of August 21 by $4,000,000.

In view of the continued advance of stock prices following the market break coincident with the raising of the rediscount rate to 6 per cent August 8, the high brokers' loan figure of yesterday had been anticipated. The advance in the New York Stock Exchange over the previous month amounted to $407,825,132 as compared with the gain of $257,000,000 in loans as reported by the Federal Reserve Bank from July 31 to August 28.

The New York gain during August was slightly higher than that for July, which was $402,573,019, and which compared with an advance for the closest corresponding period of only $191,000,000 in the report of the Federal Reserve Bank. It was explained that the New York exchange figures throughout the last month have consistently shown advances far above those reported by the Federal Reserve Bank—and in consequence statements of the latter have not been considered in forecasts of stock exchange reports.

In part, the discrepancy between the figures reported by the two institutions was accounted for through the difference in the periods covered and it was recalled that between August 28, date of the Federal Reserve report, and August 31, stock prices advanced considerably on thin margins.

The condition statement of reporting members banks as of August 28 showed that they are keeping their total security loans down to reasonably low figures despite the steady increase of brokers' loans. Total security loans on August 28, were $7,521,000,000 or $34,000,000 under those of February 6.

In the meantime, commercial credit demands are showing seasonal growth to a new record total of $9,429,000,000 which is $378,000,000 in excess of last year. In a great many instances, however, member banks have been acquiring funds to meet increased requests of borrowers by selling investments, now totaling $5,456,000,000, lowest thus far this year and $585,000,000 below the February 6 amount.

It is believed that member banks have in a large measure corrected the condition the Federal Reserve Board disapproved and that if the banks are not increasing security loans by borrowing extra amounts, the Federal body will have little criticism regarding rising brokers' loans.

Emergency Financing Planned.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon stated yesterday that to meet a maturity of about $510,000,000 of Treasury certificates, the Treasury is today offering for subscription, at par and accrued interest, through the Federal Reserve Banks, an issue of nine-month 4½ per cent Treasury certificates of indebtedness of Series T—1930, dated and bearing interest from September 16, 1929, and maturing June 16, 1930. The amount of the offering is around $500,000,000.

Reserve Bank Statement.

The consolidated statement of Federal Reserve banks September 4, announced by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday shows increases for the week of $72,400,000 in holdings of discounted bills, $26,400,000 in bills bought in open market and $3,700,000 in holdings of United States securities.

Federal Reserve note circulation increased $53,900,000 and member bank reserve deposits $14,600,000, while cash reserves declined $32,800,000 and total bills and securities were $102,500,000 above the amount reported for the previous week. All Federal Reserve banks except Cleveland show an increase in Federal Reserve note circulation, the increase for the system being $53,900,000.

Textile Industry Declared "Tired."

Diagnosing the condition of the textile industry as "not so much sick as tired," the National Association of Credit Men in a bulletin sent to members yesterday says that there is a promising field, even now, for textile enterprises in both the northern and southern States.

"If our present prosperity continues, as it promises to do, there may soon be business enough to keep all of our mills going at a satisfactory rate of operation," the buletin states, adding that "active and bitter partisanship can not help the industry, but will greatly impede its growth."

Bond Trading Improves.

Continued improvement in the bond division and a pronounced 'betterment in stock business were shown in a firm market on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday. Sales of $5,500 Washington Railway & Electric 4s at a fractional recession from 86, and $4,000 Washington Gas 6s, series B, at 105, point loss, helped to swell hte bond total to $15,100, an advance of $2,900 over Wednesday's transactions.

Stock sales, all in small lots with the exception of 95 shares of Firemen's Fire Insurance, selling at 43½, last sale price, aggregated 223 shares, a gain of 131 over the previous session. A single share of American Fire Insurance transferred at 325, 20-point rise.

Bankers Go to San Francisco.

Edward J. McQuade, vice president Liberty National Bank, has left to attend the national convention of the American Bankers Association at San Francisco, and Hilleary G. Hoskinson, vice president Riggs National Bank, will leave tomorrow.

Frank P. Harman, jr., vice president Merchants Bank & Trust Co., is spending his vacation at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa.

Thomas W. Brahany, of Crane Parris & Co., has returned with his family from Wisconsin.

Miss Mary J. Winfree, secretary of the Continental Trust Co., is on a motor tour in Canada.

Joseph A. Rafferty, trust officer, Merchants Bank & Trust Co., has returned from a vacation in Canada.

George T. Summerlin, jr., of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., is back from a visit at Atlantic City.

Edwin C. Brandenburg, general counsel and trust officer, National Bank of Washington, has returned to the city after spending a month in Maine.

John M. DeMarco, assistant cashier of the Seventh Street Savings Bank, left yesterday on a vacational trip to Niagara Falls. Mr. DeMarco was accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. DeMarco.

They Are ALL "Used" Cars

Every automobile on the street is a used car and, regardless of appearance or mechanical condition, not one could be sold again as a NEW car. Yet you realize that in every essential many of them are exactly as good as a similar model on the salesroom floor. Many of these cars come into the used car market for various reasons—perhaps the former owner has purchased a larger car or a different body type, but whatever the cause a genuine bargain is available to some one. You hear of lucky purchases that friends have made, why not be as fortunate yourself and select a GOOD automobile, at exceptionally low cost, from offerings in the Want Ad columns of

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

8,000 CROWD FAIR AT PURCELLVILLE

Loudoun County Exposition Will Close Today With Dog Show.

CATTLE PRIZES AWARDED

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Sept. 5.—Bright skies and a pleasant atmosphere marked the second day of the Loudoun County fair and horse show, which opened here yesterday and will continue through tomorrow.

The crowd today was the largest ever seen at a fair here, fully 8,000 people thronging the grounds, the grandstand, the exhibition hall and the midway. Among attractions in the main hall were booths of the 4-H Club, the Home Demonstration Club booths and the educational exhibition put on by the advisory council, all of which is under extension work in the county supervised by Miss Harriet T. Cooke.

Educational exhibits consist of miniature reproductions of two types of porches to demonstrate warm colors on cool exposure and cool colors on warm exposure. These were copied from Mrs. O. L. Emericks' porch, winner in the porch improvement campaign, and Mrs. W. T. Smith's porch.

Parade of Guernsey and Holstein cattle in the show ring attracted much attention. Tomorrow will be given over to showing of heavy draft cattle and dogs.

Horse and Pony Show.

The horse and pony show increased by a number of classes this year, was the largest and best ever seen here. Competition was keen in all classes and every horse and pony was a real contender in the class in which it was shown. Benton Stables, owned by Mrs. D. C. Sands, of Middleburg, captured a number of first prizes with Musketeer, Gone Away and Sacrifice. Trixie, owned by Henry H. Ferneyhough, of Warrenton, won first in pony jumping and bareback class. Sky High, owned by Robert E. Ferneyhough, Warrenton, was a winner in two pony jumping classes. May Flower owned by Henry Orrison, Paeonian Springs, won the pony race.

Horse show summaries:

Half bred suckling colt—First, Happy Tony, Mirtlegg, Leesburg; second, entry J. W. Orrison, Paeonian Springs; third, entry Clifton Simpson. Thoroughbred suckling colt—First, entry R. L. Humphrey, Mountville; second, entry C. H. and H. M. Crouch, Mountville; third, entry R. L. Humphrey.

Cattle Summaries.

Summaries follow:

Thoroughbred registered yearling—First, entry, Benton Stables, Middleburg; second, Benton Stables.

Lightweight green hunters—First Musketeer, Benton Stables, Middleburg; second, Prince H., Ernest M. Woolf, Rectortown; third, Easter Monday, Miss Margaretta Rowland, Washington.

Middle and heavyweight green hunters—First, Jorricks, Chilton Stables; second, Kelectin, H. H. Norman, Purcellville; third, Sagamore, H. H. Piggott.

Half-bred 3-year-olds—First, Musketeer, Benton Stables; second, Gone Away, Benton Stables; third, Wild Rose, H. H. Norman, Purcellville.

W.C.T.U. Hears Plea For Outlawing War

Women Told to Start Campaign to Secure Entrance in World Court.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Sept. 5.—Members of the Rockingham Women's Christian Temperance Union, at their annual convention today, were called upon to return to their homes and start movements to arouse public sentiment for America's participation in the world court and in the League of Nations by Mrs. Edward Bixler, of New Windsor. Mrs. Bixler said men brought on war as an agency to decide issues between nations and now men must abolish it. She declared a league of nations should be set up similar to that of the American Congress and a world court established similar to the United States Supreme Court and all nations forced to join. Then armies and navies should be abolished and an international police force established.

Mrs. R. E. L. Strickler, of Bridgewater, said the trouble with the world is that people think in terms of war instead of terms of peace just as years ago everybody thought yellow fever, black plague and other scourges could not be conquered. She declared that if the human race would adopt a policy of thinking, disputes can be settled by peaceful methods.

TO BE HANGED IN WEST VIRGINIA

Millard Morrison, left, and Walter E. Willmott, both of Elizabeth, N. J., will be hanged Friday, September 13, in Charleston, W. Va., for the murder of Frank Bowen, a gasoline filling Station owner.

POLICE CHIEF QUITS IN ROW WITH MAYOR

F. G. Davis, in Keyser Post 25 Years, Relinquishes Job to Alkire.

THANKS HIS SUPPORTERS

Keyser, W. Va., Sept. 5.—Forest Guy Davis, for 25 years chief of police, resigned yesterday, effective in November, following a dispute with Mayor W. J. Koelz, who charged him with negligence and asked for his resignation in July.

The chief's resignation took the form of a long letter to the mayor and council in which he said that he considered it his duty to end by his resignation the rift which has come about the council. He refers to the "ill-deserved notoriety" given to the city by the mayor's action in appointing a second chief of police without consent of council. He thanked Councilmen Wagoner and Long for their support. Sergt. Troy Alkire, of the West Virginia State police, was appointed chief of police by Mayor Koelz at the time of his dismissal of Davis, but the council refused to concur in the dismissal.

Davis said he resigned because the good of Keyser is more important than his job.

Impeachment charges against Mayor Koelz and Councilman Long, which grew out of the Davis case will be heard in the near future.

Fredericksburg Man Appointed as Attache

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Sept. 5.—Alvin T. Rowe, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin T. Rowe, of Fredericksburg, has just received notice from the State Department at Washington of his assignment as charge d'affairs at Bluefields, Nicaragua, to succeed Consul Fletcher, who will shortly return to the United States.

Rowe, who has been studying for foreign service for several months, has the rank of vice consul, but on his initial assignment will perform the duties of consul. He will leave the United States for his post about October 1, expecting to remain about two years. He is a Harvard graduate.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Sept. 5.—Fredericksburg public schools will begin the new session next Monday, with Prof. Guy H. Brown, newly-elected superintendent, in charge.

The first day will be devoted to registration and classification. Regular class work will begin on Tuesday.

Following is a list of the teachers in the city schools: High school—Col. Brooke Payne, mathematics; R. B. Neil, physical education; Mrs. Elizabeth Courtney, history; Helen Covey, senior English; Mary L. Bristow, English; Thelma M. Runyon, French and Latin; Mrs. W. I. Dickinson, home economics; Mrs. W. N. Blake, librarian; Mrs. A. P. Rowe, music; Luray Lewis, commercial; Julian Decker, English; Mrs. E. O. Euliss, general science; Mrs. W. G. Keckler, science and mathematics; Elizabeth Faulkner, seventh grade; Katherine Rennolds, seventh grade. Elementary school—Ethel Nash, principal; Virginia Nash, Virginia Tisdale, Dorothy Squires, Margaret Williamson, Mary M. Dickinson, Edith Keller, Louise Hendricks, Mary Womack, Marion Weedon, Pauline McGhee, Mrs. J. R. Rawlings, Mary Mapp, Alma Keel, Mable King, Francis Harris and Maggie Honey.

Page County Suffers From Severe Drought

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Sept. 5.—Each day is bringing more disastrous effects of the longest and most severe drought known in this county since 1911. In many parts of the county water for domestic purposes is being carried 1 and 2 miles. Embargoes are being placed on the water-giving sources, in many places which will cause traveling additional distances for water users.

Springs and wells that for eighteen years have never been known to fail in supplying water, are dry. Dividing lines between farms in the Blue Ridge, where hundreds of cattle are being grazed, have been torn down to allow the cattle to search for new water sources.

Woman at Hagerstown Drowns Herself in Tub

Hagerstown, Md., Sept. 5.—Mrs. Rosie M. Long, 55, wife of Allen Long, this city, committed suicide today by drowning herself in the bathtub at her home. She tied two flatirons about her neck and then sat down in the tub. Her husband found the body.

Despondency because of ill health was believed to have caused her act.

BOND ISSUE SOUGHT IN CHARLOTTESVILLE

$650,000 Issue Is Approved for School and Street Improvements.

OFFICIALS RETAIN POSTS

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 5.—The city council has adopted an ordinance calling for an election to authorize a bond issue of $675,000 to cover contemplated improvements, street extensions and school needs.

The amount, if authorized by the voters, will be used as follows: For schools, new buildings and improvements, $245,000; for perfecting the sewer system, $255,000; for taking care of the present floating debt, $100,000; for extension and paving of Market street — improving Beck's Hill, cutting through the corner of the McGuffey School yard and other necessary items—$75,000.

The meeting of the council was one of the busiest in recent months, including as it did, election of R. A. Watson to succeed the late William H. Wood for his unexpired term as member of the city school board; re-election of City Manager Henry A. Yancey, City Clerk Henry A. Haden and Chief of Police Maurice A. Greaver and other members of the police department for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1930. The budget for the ensuing year was also adopted.

Members of the police force were reelected from the list of active and eligible members, except that the name of Patrolman A. A. Adams was stricken from the list. Adams is now under charges arising from the fatal shooting of Robert Elliton early this summer. The place of Adams on the active list is taken by Patrolman R. M. Wood.

Walter Poultney Funeral Planned

Friend of Late Cardinal to Be Buried Saturday in Baltimore.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 5.—Funeral services for Walter de Curzon Poultney, 84, who died Tuesday night at his home, 336 St. Paul street, will be held at Old St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, Charles and Saratoga streets, Saturday afternoon. Interment will be in the Greenmount Cemetery.

An intimate friend of the late ardinal Gibbons, Mr. Poultney was long as familiar a figure on Charles street as the late prelate. Smartly dressed, and in late years accompanied by a negro valet, his appearance was marked both by his courtly demeanor and the small white imperial and moustache that he wore.

Except for his servants, Mr. Poultney, who was a bachelor, lived alone during the latter part of his life. He outlived all of his family's old retainers. Recently, when it appeared that he was failing rapidly, a niece, Miss Ellen Curzon Pleasants, joined the household to care for her uncle.

Layman's Trestle Is Strengthened

$35,000 Fill-In Project to Require 120,000 Cubic Yards of Earth.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Sept. 5.—Layman's Trestle, the 1,012-foot wooden structure which reaches a height of 58 feet, 3 miles east of Harrisonburg on the Chesapeake-Western Railway, is being filled with earth to strengthen it for the heavier freight trains now operated.

The project, costing $35,000, will require 120,000 cubic yards of earth —a 10-foot slice off a 10-acre tract— and is expected to take six months to complete. Layman's Trestle is said to be the last big wooden bridge remaining on Virginia railways. The others have either been replaced by steel spans or filled in.

It has required 33 years to start work on the project after it was originally planned in 1896, the year the railroad was built. The trestle itself contains 1,000,000 feet of what was said to be the finest oak lumber ever sawed in this part of the country and has withstood the ravages of time in excellent condition. During its 33 years of service, only one serious fire has closed the trestle.

Three Cases Reported Of Infantile Paralysis

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 5.—Walter L. Evans, jr., of 2812 Rivermont avenue; Sarah Brooks, 1402 Elm street, and Clara Austin, 1890 Seabury avenue, all widely separated in the city, have been reported victims of infantile paralysis. These are the first cases to be reported here this summer.

Health authorities say this is a normal condition and that no attention would be paid to them by the public but for epidemics elsewhere in the State. All of the children are in rigid quarantine.

MARYLAND LEGION CONVENTION OPENS

500 Are Present at Ocean City; Sargent Speaks at Night Meeting.

MANY MORE DUE TODAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Ocean City, Md., Sept. 5.—Former doughboys numbering approximately 500 made a forced march through intermittent rains today and encamped at Ocean City for the opening of the eleventh annual convention of the American Legion Department of Maryland. Another 500, in the opinion of A. L. McGee, department adjutant, will arrive tomorrow for the two biggest days of the convention, tomorrow and Saturday. Forty-four of the forty-six posts in the State are expected to send delegations, McGee said.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the convention officially began with the opening of the registration bureau in the Episcopal Church here. All afternoon and tonight arriving legionnaires clustered around the registrars.

Tonight the farewell session of the department executive committee serving under Harold C. Smith, of Rockville, retiring department commander, was held.

Sargent Is Speaker.

Charles F. Sargent, regional manager of the United States Veterans' Bureau at Fort McHenry, addressed the convention, stressing the close cooperation between the bureau and commending the work of Adjutant McGee, who has been acting as service officer in connection with veterans' relief.

Mayor William W. McCabe, of Ocean City, delivered the address of welcome, with Commander Smith making the reply.

Interest among Legionnaires is centering in the departmental election which is slated for Saturday, with indications being that the fight between the three candidates, Dr. Hugh Sampson, Young Harlan Johnson, and George S. Parker, all of Baltimore, will be the closest in some years.

Forty and Eight to Parade.

Under William G. Harvey, grand chef de gare, the Forty and Eight, the branch of the Legion to which entertainment during the convention is intrusted, has been working in preparation for the big parade tomorrow night and the "wreck" Saturday night. Charles W. Ardrey, national commander of the society, will award service bars Saturday night to fourteen members who have served the legion with zeal.

Harvey will be presented with a combined Legion and Forty and Eight ring in recognition of his service.

Many Legionnaires prominent in State affairs and two officials, Gov. Ritchie and Mayor Broening of Baltimore, are expected to be in attendance at the convention before its close Saturday.

Cumberland Flood Aid Notes Bought

$100,000 in Bonds Sold at More Than Par to Two Firms.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 5.—The city council today sold $100,000 flood prevention notes, comprising an authorization of $75,000 issuance of 1927 and $25,000 of 1929, to thte banking firms of Stein Bros. & Boyce and Mercantile Trust Co. of New York at $100.57 for each $100. The notes run for a tem of five years.

The other bidders were Second National Bank of Cumberland, which offered a lump sum of $73,780 bid on the $75,000 notes of 1927 only. This would average $97.84 for each $100 note. The National City Co. submitted a bid of $99.609 for each $100 on the entire $100,000.

The money realized is to be used in the Potomac flood projects of dredging the lower river and erecting flood gates and widening the C. & O. Canal dam.

Railway Employe Weds Girl at Charlottesville

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 5.—John Rodes Woods and Polydora Eugenia Goss, both of this city, were married at 11 o'clock this morning at the home of the bride's aunt, Susan Massie Goss, on Virginia avenue, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Edwin S. Sweeney, pastor of the Christian Church.

The bride, a daughter of the late Lawrence H. Goss, of this city, is a graduate of the University of Virginia School of Nursing, and is a member of the younger social set. Woods is connected with the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Woods left for a motor trip to several Virginia resorts.

Rockingham Post Names New Chief

Harrisonburg Legion Unit Chooses Klingstein as Commander.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Sept. 5.—E. L. Klingstein is the new commander of Rockingham Post of the American Legion, succeeding H. L. Clements. Klingstein headed the delegation from the local post which attended the State convention at Petersburg and won the 1930 convention of the Virginia American Legion for Harrisonburg.

Klingstein is the only local former service man to have headed both the American Legion Post here and the Rion-Bowman Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The Rockingham post has set a membership goal of 300 before the State convention meets here in September, 1930.

Other officers of the post are: Lyn-John Paul, second vice commander; John Paul, second vice president; John Spitzer, adjutant; William H. Byrd, treasurer; Dr. J. L. Wright, service officer and Stanley Figgat, sergeant-at-arms.

COUNTY TEACHERS MEET TO ORGANIZE

Superintendent and Staff Are to Discuss Program for Coming Year.

TERM BEGINS ON MONDAY

In preparation for the opening of Prince Georges County schools Monday the annual organization meeting of the teachers of the school system will be held today and tomorrow at the Eastern High School, Washington. Nicholas Orem, county superintendent of schools, will preside and speak.

The meeting will be divided into separate conferences for the teachers of each group. The county supervisors will have charge of the conferences of the teachers in their sections, and will aid in preparing programs for the various school needs. They are Miss Hazel Wright, Miss Maude Gibbs and Miss Mary Kemp.

Miss Kathleen Shears, attendance officer of the county, will assist with the grammar section, and Thomas L. Gibson will be in charge of the musical program at the meeting.

A. M. Isanogle, head of the department of education at the Western Maryland University, will address the high school teachers tomorrow. Others who will address the teachers are Dr. Samuel N. North, of the State Department of Education; Dr. E. E. Smith and Mrs. M. C. Gareissen.

Other educational leaders are expected to speak at the conferences, and members of the county executive and teaching staff also will present ideas for school improvements and teaching methods.

Telephone communication between Upper Marlboro and Washington was suspended for several hours yesterday morning because of a collision with a telephone pole at Meadows by the auto of R. H. Langdon, of Prince Georges County. The pole was knocked loose from its foundations and its top hung suspended over the road. Two other motorists, one of them G. E. Duncan, district engineer of the State Roads Commission, collidied with the overhanging top.

Langdon was injured about the legs and was given first aid at the scene. He refused hospital treatment.

Chapman and Catherine Gardiner will form the staff of the assistant marshal. F. Bernard Gwynn will act as herald. Wallace S. Barnes and Reginald Perry will be aids.

Senator William A. Gunter, of Allegany County, will be orator of the day, and Senator David G. McIntosh, of Baltimore County, will be orator of the evening.

The judges of the tournament will be B. Harris Camalier, Francis E. Mattingly, Esten W. Hungerford, J. Neale Hamilton, C. B. Lloyd, George W. Gray, James P. Ryon, Edward G. Edelen, W. Mitchell Digges and W. L. Lederer. The event will be opened with a parade. A supper, coronation and dance will follow the tournament.

VIRGINIA EXPANSION INVOLVES MILLIONS

Report of Representative in Field Discloses Huge Operations.

GOOD CROPS EXPECTED

Richmond, Va., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Building and industrial operations involving millions of dollars were under way or contemplated on August 1, according to the survey of industrial operations in Virginia released here today by William Boncer, field representative of the State Department of Labor and Industry.

The survey, covering the period July 16 to July 31, follows in full:

Williamsburg—A new addition and a large amount of new equipment will be added to the power plant at the College of William and Mary at a cost of $50,000. The foundation of the new $400,000 high school building is being put in.

New Airport Started.

Hopewell—Work of constructing the new airport has been started. Rapid progress is being made in construction of the new du Pont School, which will cost $110,000, including site. Plans have also been prepared for another school to cost $50,000.

Charlottesville—At a recent meeting of the Virginia commission for the blind and the board of directors of the Virginia Association Workers for the Blind, plans were considered for the construction of a new school building to cost $600,000. A site of 146 acres has already been purchased on which to erect the building.

New dormitories being erected at the university at a cost of $500,000 will have accommodations for over 300 men. It is expected they will be completed and ready for occupancy with the opening of the session in September.

The new medical building at the University of Virginia, which cost $1,500,000, will be dedicated on October 2.

Tuckahoe Plans Schools.

Henrico County—A bond issue of $150,000 was carried by a vote of the people of Tuckahoe school district recently. The money will be used for the erection of white and Negro school buildings at several points in the district.

Pulaski—It is expected that the blast furnace of the Pulaski Iron Co. will start operations September 15.

Petersburg—The old Dixie Hotel building is being renovated, repaired and modernly equipped into a 36-room hotel to be known as the Brandon Hotel.

The United States Government has plans for the deepening of the Appomattox River to a depth of twelve feet, instead of nine as at present, from James River to the Petersburg docks.

New Garment Factory.

Announcement has been made by the Chamber of Commerce that the General Garment Manufacturing Co. will erect a modern three-story factory building and will increase its present force from 75 workers to nearly 300.

Port Richmond—The town of Port Richmond has made application to the State Corporation Commission for permission to establish an airport.

Farmville—Flora C. Swoop has made application to the State Corporation Commission to establish an airport to be known as the "Thomas T. Swoop Field."

South Boston Project.

South Boston—The Halifax County School Board will erect three colored school buildings in the following places: Mount Mayo, Piney Grove and Haskins. Plans are also being made for the erection of a high school at Rosa at a cost of $6,000.

Big Stone Gap—D. M. Platnick will build a foundry in which a large number of men will be employed.

Roanoke—Building construction on work in June was valued at $197,727. The total for the first six months of 1929 was $1,173,417.

R. C. Churchill Co., Inc., has established a plant for supplying ready mixed concrete on all kinds of construction jobs. The plant has a capacity of 300 cubic yards per day.

A hotel apartment building, with 36 apartments, is being erected at 36 Elm avenue southwest, at a cost of $70,000.

Rayon Plant Opened.

Covington—The $6,000 rayon plant of the Industrial Rayon Corporation was formally opened August 1. About 1,800 people will be given employment.

Hiwassee—The American Pigment Corporation, of Bedford, is erecting a new factory building.

Cascade—A new Baptist Church is now being constructed.

Danville—Acree's Tobacco Warehouse, probably the largest in the South, is completed. It contains 58,308 square feet of sales space.

The Hughes Warehouse Co. has awarded a contract for an addition to their large warehouse, adding 6,500 square feet of space.

Sprinklers Installed.

Buena Vista—The Buena Vista Textile Corporation is having a sprinkler system installed in their new silk mill and will install 92 additional looms, which will increase the capacity of the plant more than 50 per cent and give employment to more people.

Timberville—The State Corporation Commission has ordered the Southern Railway to provide additional shipping facilities to the peach growers of Rockingham County.

Harrisonburg—The Consumers Utility Co. has been awarded a franchise for supplying gas to the city. Between $200,000 and $250,000 will be expended on the project, which will be started at once.

Shenandoah Dam.

Shenandoah — The Shenandoah River Power Co. will erect a 24-foot dam on the Shenandoah River. This company already operates four hydro-electric plants on the Shenandoah River and one steam plant at New Market.

Luray—A new high school building will be erected at a cost of $150,000, including the site.

Brookneal—Plans are being completed by the chamber of commerce for the establishment of a hosiery mill. The corporation will have a capital of $50,000 and will give employment to about 80 people.

Culpeper—Ground has been broken for the first unit of the Culpeper Methodist Church, which will cost $31,000. The total cost of the church completed will be $65,000.

Kenbridge Expands.

Kenbridge — A large number of homes will be erected to house about 500 people, many of whom will be employed in the Leopold granite quarry, now being opened.

Richmond—The Truscon Steel Co. has moved its office, with a force of about 30 people, from Norfolk to Richmond.

The Red Coll Co., of Baltimore, has purchased approximately 19 acres of land near the old Fulton Brick Works. It is probable that elaborate developments of the property will take place.

Building permits have been issued to M. R. Palmore for the erection of brick dwellings on Park avenue, to cost $14,000.

Other Richmond Projects.

Permits have been issued to the Muhleman & Kayhoe to build frame dwellings on Amherst avenue, to cost $12,000.

The Norfolk & Western Railway has announced completion of arrangements for passenger traffic by rail and air to the Pacific Coast.

Indications are that the farmers will receive better prices for most of their crops this year than in 1928 and that farm labor will be in fair supply throughout the season. It is reported that the crop situation will be above the average.

Auto Crash Fatal To Virginia Driver

Other Occupant of Auto Escapes Injury in Accident Near Waldrop.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 5.—Ethan Allen Jones 3d, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Allen Jones, of Prince street, Alexandria, Va., died last night in the office of Dr. W. C. Mason, at Waldrop, Louisa County, from internal injuries received half an hour before when his car crashed on the roadside, about 5 miles west of Gordonsville. Winslow H. Randolph, jr., of Belle Haven, who accompanied Jones, was uninjured.

Details of the tragedy were meager. William Eubank, who lives near the scene of the wreck, stated that he saw the lights of the approaching machine and then heard the crash. He found Jones unconscious, but with no visible injuries. A passing motorist, George West, of New Orleans, took Jones to Dr. Mason's office at Waldrop. His parents were notified immediately and the body was removed to his home for burial.

Orchard Price Sets Mark.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 5 (Special).—A record price for commercial apple orchard property with no buildings on it was announced today in the sale of 200 acres by the Virginia Valley Orchard Co. to Ray Robinson and Fred Thwaite for $80,000, or $400 an acre. The tract contains apple trees 7 years old, and is 7 miles southwest of here.

Farmer, 48, to Serve 12 Years in Slaying

Plea for Setting Verdict Aside Will Be Heard at Stuart Today.

Stuart, Va., Sept. 5.—Elijah De Hart, 48, Patrick County farmer, must serve twelve years in the penitentiary for the murder nearly a year ago of Daniel Handy.

The circuit court jury brought in a second degree murder conviction after deliberating for an hour. Defense counsel will argue a motion to set aside the verdict before Judge Turner Clement tomorrow.

De Hart offered two defenses, one of them being that Handy was engaged in an attack on Mrs. De Hart near the Handy home, following a family gathering, and the other that he fired in self-defense, when, he alleged, Handy approached him with a drawn revolver.

The State contended that De Hart shot Handy down without provocation and sought to combat certain inferences drawn by the defense as to an alleged struggle between Mrs. De Hart and Handy.

JUDGES ARE CHOSEN FOR BIG PONY SHOW
